A Sensible Stand
IT IS reported that Representative Dickstein has declined the chairmanship of the Congressional Committee to investigate Nazi activities in the United States and that a non-Jew will be appointed chairman. It is also understood that a Jew, a Catholic and a Protestant will be members of the committee. This is a wise plan. The Committee must be representative. The investigation should be conducted with a thoroughness that will impress not only the American people but also public opinion abroad. There is a mass of evidence to establish beyond the shadow of a doubt that the Nazi propagandists have been inciting race hatred in this country, vilifying American Government officials, including the President of the United States, and attacking American democratic institutions. While the Jews are the greatest sufferers under the Hitler regime and while most of the Nazi propaganda in this country has been directed mainly against the Jews, the Congressional Committee will investigate the anti-American "phases" of the Nazi activities in the United States. The revelations of Nazi duplicity and arrogance are certain to startle American public opinion.

Congressman Dickstein, in declining the chairmanship, is undoubtedly having some in mind working for the cause and not for the glory. He deserves congratulations and much credit for his splendid, sensible stand on this question.

Harvard's Indiscretion
A number of Harvard students have voiced their protest against the invitation of Ernst F. Hanfstaengel, one of Adolf Hitler's aide and intimate friends, to participate in the Harvard commencement activities next June. Hanfstaengel has accepted the invitation of Dr. Elliott Carr Cutter, chief alumni marshal of the Harvard Commencement exercises, to serve as Dr. Cutter's aide at the alumni festivities.

This invitation is an indiscretion on the part of Harvard University. Hanfstaengel is so closely identified with the Hitler regime and is so enthusiastically a supporter of Nazism that his presence at the Harvard Commencement exercises and at the alumni festivities is so unmistakably regarded by students and the public as offensive to American institutions, especially to American Jewry, especially to the professors who were driven out of

Cooperation Urged Among All Faiths

National Conference Sets Aside April 29 as 'Brotherhood Day'

Sunday, April 29, has been set aside as national "Brotherhood Day" by the National Conference of Jews and Christians. The day had been designated for this purpose in response to widespread demands on the part of leaders of all religious affiliations. The announcement was made yesterday by Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, chairman of Brotherhood Day, who declared:

"In the past, periods of economic stress and social upheaval have been accompanied by suspicion and mistrust on the part of Protestants and Catholics, and Jews and Christians toward one another. At this particular period false rumors about minority groups are being circulated. Hatred, and suspicion of the intentions of those of opposite faiths, are foreign to the spirit of religion. Instead of learning to mistrust each other those of differing faiths should unite in a joint constructive campaign to further the interests of our country socially, civically, economically and in every other way. It will be the purpose of Brotherhood Day to turn to the American people the fact that our energy should be turned into the direction of joint constructive efforts among the various faiths, instead of animosity and suspicion. This fundamental reason for doing away with prejudice is not because of any sentimentalized theory, but because the prejudice is irrational, obstructive and dangerous."

Warburg Endorses Day
Endorsement of the proposal was made yesterday by Felix M. Warburg, noted philanthropist and Jewish leader, Charles Evans Hughes, Jr. and former Governor Alfred E. Smith.

Expressing keen interest in the decision of leaders of the three religious groups to cooperate in national observance of Brotherhood Day, Mr. Smith urged the American people to support this movement for better relations among Protestants, Jewish chaplains, Jews in this country. "Religious prejudice is both un-democratic

Dollfuss Weighs Jewish Situation In Long Session

Confers With Desider Friedmann, Jewish Leader—New Constitution Cannot Restrict Jews, Belief

VIENNA, April 1.—(Jewish Telegraphic Agency) President Dollfuss today conferred with Dr. Desider Friedmann, president of the Viennese Jewish community, in an hour-long audience in which the actual problems of the Jewish situation in Austria were exhaustively discussed.

An official government communiqué issued immediately after the conference said: "Chancellor Dollfuss received President Desider Friedmann of the Vienna Jewish community and in the course of a long conversation informed him about the cultural parts of the new constitution." However, the Jewish Telegraphic Agency learned that Dr. Friedmann also touched on questions affecting the entire Austro-Jewish situation, emphasizing particularly the violent anti-Semitic propaganda, which is causing great anxiety among the Jews.

3,500 Honor Einstein at Carnegie Hall

Scientist Presented With 'Scroll of Honor' on Eve of Sailing

More than 3,500 people representing science, industry, the arts and public life, gathered at Carnegie Hall last night to bid farewell to Professor Albert Einstein on the eve of his departure for Europe, and to honor him as a man of science who "in his perception of the rhythm of the spheres and the music of the universe has pointed the way to a fuller spirituality."

The tribute to the scientist was paid in the form of a concert in which operatic and concert stars participated and which was attended by many musicians and composers. Leopold Godowsky, who acted as chairman, sat with Professor and Mrs. Einstein in a box. Arnold Schoenberg, Austrian Jewish composer, and Mrs. Schoenberg were also among those who came to honor the scientist.

The climax of the evening came with the presentation of a Scroll of Honor signed by outstanding musicians as a token of their high regard for Professor Einstein's devotion to music, as well as his scientific achievements.

The Scroll's Tribute
The scroll was dedicated to Professor Einstein, "who, in his contribution to science has advanced the march of civilization and in his devotion to art has drawn these two worlds nearer in the development of culture."

"Who, in his perception of the rhythm of the spheres and the music of the universe, has pointed the way to a full life;

"In recognition of his noble and selfless efforts toward the betterment of mankind, who seek the truth in music, as he seeks it in science, hereby inscribe our names in profoundest admiration and esteem for one whom we are proud to call our colleague."

Prison Chaplain Condemns Lewisburg Passover Ruling

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency) LEWISBURG, Pa., April 1.—A vigorous attack on the ruling of the Department of Justice forbidding the receiving of Passover food supplies by Jewish prisoners at the Lewisburg Federal Penitentiary was made here today by Rabbi Martin S. Jaffe, Jewish chaplain of the prison, in an exclusive statement to the Jewish Telegraphic Agency.

He characterized the danger of concealment hidden in the packages as "arrrant nonsense."

"Last Christmas," Rabbi Jaffe,

inhand declared, "over two thousand packages came to Lewisburg without any complaint. The total number of Passover packages was fifteen, all subject to examination by prison authorities. The arbitrary ruling of the Department of Justice, and Sanford Bates' deliberately absenting himself from Washington, nearly caused an uprising."

Slight Religious Provisions
"Bates has said, 'Religion is the basis of prison reform,' but the provisions for a religious program at the Northeastern so-called

Revision of Status of Naturalized Jews Denied

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency) ROME, April 1.—The Jewish Telegraphic Agency learned from unusually well informed quarters here that Dr. Friedmann in his conversation with Chancellor Dollfuss also dealt with demands recently formulated by Austrian anti-Semites for a thorough revision of post-war citizenship granted East European Jews.

It is understood here that Chancellor Dollfuss denied that there was any possibility of such revision. Regret was expressed here that the Chancellor's assurance was not incorporated in the official statement on the audience.

Recently the official and semi-official newspapers of the present regime in Austria carried stories of a Heintzsch project to deprive

JNF to Honor Ussishkin in Big Fund Drive

Signatures Enrolled as Founders; Contest for Palestine Trip

Menahem Ussishkin, veteran Zionist leader and world president of the Jewish National Fund, the Zionist agency for the acquisition and redemption of the soil of Palestine as national Jewish property, will be honored by American Zionists in a nation wide celebration here, according to plans of the Ussishkin Tribute Roll Committee of the Jewish National Fund of America.

Details of the program adopted by the Eighteenth Zionist Congress and the American volume of Ussishkin national conference of all groups and parties held in Philadelphia, were made public by Dr. Israel Goldstein, president of the Jewish National Fund in America, who announced the appointment of Abraham Speichandler, well known Hebraist and active Zionist worker, as chairman of the National Tribute Roll Committee.

The Tribute Roll, designed as a leaf, unfolding on a background a drawing depicting the contours of an agriculture in bloom in Palestine, provides space for twenty signatures of persons who will pay tribute to Ussishkin on the occasion of his seventieth birthday. Their contributions will go toward a sum of $100,000 voted by the JNF national conference as American Jewry's share in the establishment of a new settlement. Contributors of sums from 70 cents or more have a right to affix their signatures on a Tribute Roll which automatically lists them as being among the founders of the new agricultural settlement in Palestine.

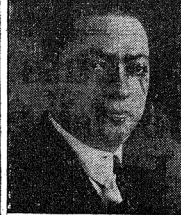

Mr. Speichandler said his committee was successful in securing the cooperation of 227 Zionist units in the metropolitan area. More than 5,000 Ussishkin Tribute Rolls have been distributed among the homes and the work of gathering signatures accompanied by the drive will reach its climax on May 10th when the Ussishkin tribute dinner will be held in the grand ballroom of the Astor.

The committee also announced it will award a free trip to Palestine and return to the person who will have obtained the highest number of signatures on the Ussishkin Tribute Roll.

The award will be made on the basis of a contest among the volunteers. Those being eligible for participation in the contest are required to gather a minimum of three hundred signatures.

What Saith Ellis Island Inmates On Passover?—'Hooray, HIAS!'

By HARRIET STRACHSTEIN
WHEREFORE was last Friday night distinguished from all other nights on Ellis Island?

On any other night the Jewish immigrants and deportees eat their meals alone, but on this first night of Passover, 200 friends and members of HIAS came to join them.

All other nights there are usually many more Jewish immigrants on Ellis Island, but on that night most of them had been discharged so that they might gather in the homes of their relatives.

All other nights the immigrants eat common food and drink water, either sitting or reclining, but on that night they all reclined and drank wine and ate roast chicken.

"Because," answered William Neubau, representative of HIAS on Ellis Island, "it has been traditional for the past thirty years to invite loyal friends and members to spend the first Seder on the Islan..."

"AND to give the immigrants and deportees who are detained here good cheer on this holy night."

"AND no matter whether there is one immigrant or hundreds of them, the custom is still retained. "AND the friends and members who come here help to provide for the food and drinks, out of a sentimental remembrance for their own first landing in America."

What saith? He asks: What did the company there? And what were the friends and members of HIAS? Then shall the reporter instruct him . . .

Long tables decked, a mighty room flanked by white brick walls. "AND the friends and members who come here help to provide for the food and drinks, out of a sentimental remembrance for their own first landing in America." "AND the friends and members who come here help to provide for the food and drinks, out of a sentimental remembrance for their own first landing in America." "AND the friends and members who come here help to provide for the food and drinks, out of a sentimental remembrance for their own first landing in America."

Cantor Morris Gottlieb intoned the Kiddush. Walter Neubau, ten years old, son of William Neubau, asked the four questions. Flashlight bombs threatened the composure of the guests. The program followed next on the program. The folks then fell to and in short order disposed of the meal. The jollity between guests and immigrants increased proportionately as the wine decreased. Mr. Neubau ran frantically hither and yon, like a distraught chicken watching its scattering brood.

Favors In Abundance

How many were the abundant favors that the HIAS performed that night for both immigrants and guests!

If they had brought the guests to the Island on a special ferry boat and had not given them an excellent supper, it would have been sufficient. If they had given them an excellent supper, and had not provided speeches it would have been sufficient. If they had provided speeches and had not supplied entertainment, it would have been sufficient. If they had supplied entertainment and had not accorded the guests to the ferry early in the evening, it would have been a calamity! For towards ten-thirty o'clock, both immigrants and guests were fast becoming drowsy. Good wine and better food were having their usual effects.

Speeches Too

Speeches by William Neubau, reviewing the work of the HIAS; Mrs. Blanche Goldman, of the National Council of Jewish Women, calling America the threshold of freedom; Sol Polakoff, chairman of HIAS, recalling his first landing on Ellis Island; and Jacob Massel, vice president, on Jewish leadership, aroused cheers and applause.

Entertainment by Rose Wallenstein, Paul Goldsman, Oscar Ostrow, Joseph Schoenfeld, William Faybaum and Paul Barotoff filled the cup of joy to overflowing.

At ten thirty the tired immigrants retired and the jubilant guests made their way to the ferry landing. They were bound for America again! They thanked, praised, lauded, glorified and extolled. The orchestra and the brilliant guests made their way to the ferry landing. They were bound for America again! They thanked, praised, lauded, glorified and extolled. The Kerem Hayezod (Hebrew term for the fund) has made possible to settlement of colonists, health and sanitation services, education, and communal enterprises.

"What has been accomplished thus far in Palestine," Mr. Rothenberg declared, "with the $25,000,000 that has been contributed through the Kerem Hayezod has paved the way for the work of settling German Jewish refugees now going on. Palestine's resources are not static but dynamic, responding to the energy that is created by increasing Jewish immigration."

Dr Goldenson To Officiate at Kahn Funeral

Banker to Be Buried Today at Cold Springs Harbor

Funeral services for Otto H. Kahn, American financier and patron of the arts who died at 2 afternoon from a stroke at Cold Springs Harbor, L. I., and will be attended only by members of his family and close relatives. Mr. Kahn died suddenly Thursday in the offices of Kuhn, Loeb and Co.

Dr. Samuel H. Goldenson, rabbi of Temple Emanu-El, will officiate at the services.

Although Mr. Kahn's name has been associated at times with the Episcopal and Catholic Churches, he always maintained an interest in Jewish affairs, which deepened with the advent of Hitlerism in Germany. Recently he told interviewers, "I was born a Jew, I am a Jew and I shall die a Jew."

On one occasion when the banker returned from one of his frequent trips to Europe, he answered one of the newspapermen who asked him for his views on Hitlerism: "What can you expect me, as a Jew, to say?"

The banker will be buried in the Memorial Cemetery at Cold Springs Harbor, which is non-sectarian. He recently purchased a plot there and his body will be the first of his family to be interred there.

London Eulogizes Kahn

LONDON, April 1.—The warmest appreciations of Otto H. Kahn, American financier and philanthropist who died Thursday, filled many columns in the London press yesterday. He was praised for his generosity, his patronage of the arts and his friendship for England.

The Daily Express, quoting Mr. Kahn as saying that he had been born a Jew, lived as a Jew and would die a Jew, remarked that this vow had been fulfilled.

The Bulletin's Day Book

By special dispensation from Herr Hitler himself, a few prominent and formerly powerful Jews have been awarded the "Aryan" diploma or "Aryan" racial certificate. Thus the offspring and heir of Abraham Mendelsohn, head of the old German Jewish banking firm, carries a diploma today assuring one and all, whenever it may concern, that 100 per cent pure "Aryan" blood courses through the veins of Franz von Mendelsohn.

A World Jewish Legal Conference, the first in the history of the Jewish people, was convoked in Jerusalem yesterday.

The necessity to establish a central legal authority has long been recognized by the Jewish people—an authority constituted of those who are devoted to Jewish traditions and concerned in jurisprudence, and who desire the constitutions progress of Jewish institutionalism.

Such a tribunal would determine questions such as the legal status of the Jew, as a citizen in certain countries, where his rights are being infringed upon. The conflicts between the law of the land and the Jewish law, as for instance in the case of the husband who, despite a legal decree of the state, refuses to deliver a "Get" to his wife, which creates a situation where the wife is not allowed to re-marry, under the laws of their country cannot be solved by Jewish law.

The main points of discussion

Woman Brings Suit For Jewish Divorce In Maryland Court

(Special to the J.D.B.) BALTIMORE, April 1.—For the first time in Maryland court history, proceedings were brought here by a divorced woman to have the court require her legally divorced husband to give her a separation under the Jewish religion through their religious institutions.

Rose Zerlin filed the proceedings in the Circuit Court against Isidor Levin, from whom she obtained a divorce in the same court last September 13.

The woman claimed that her divorced husband had signed a contract agreeing "in consideration of the sum of $1 and other good and valuable considerations" to "give unto his wife a Jewish divorce" at her expense, in case she was granted a legal divorce decree.

She contended that Levin refused to carry out the contract concerning the religious divorce. She also alleged that under the laws of the orthodox Jewish faith, only the husband can seek a religious divorce.

Solender President Of Undergraduate Scholarship Group

Sanford Solender has been chosen president of the Undergraduate Scholarship Committee of New York University's uptown branch. Milton Maurer was elected secretary. The function of the committee, formed several years ago, is to keep the curriculum from becoming antiquated through suggestions to the faculty.

Maurer has distinguished himself in scholarship, securing a place in the "A" honor roll for two successive years. He is a member of the Classical Society and the track team.

Outlet Concern In Providence Boycotts Reich

Biggest Department Store in Rhode Island Joins Movement

(Special to the J.D.B.) PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 1.—Rhode Island's boycott of Nazi-made goods has received tremendous impetus with the announcement that The Outlet Company has broken off all business relations with Reich concerns.

Col. Joseph Samuels, millionaire Jewish philanthropist and president of The Outlet Company, declared: "This policy continues indefinitely, if not by, until Hitler's inhuman persecution of helpless minorities and his studied program to exterminate Germany's 600,000 industrious, hard-working Jews are finally and completely repudiated."

Because it is the largest department store in Rhode Island, The Outlet Company's decision strikes at Nazi Germany the costliest single blow within the economic power of the state. It means, in addition to the far-reaching consumer boycott, that the most vital medium of distribution in this section is shut off to Nazi-made goods.

Meanwhile, leaders of the boycott movement have indicated other downtown stores had similar action under consideration because of the widespread consumer resistance and that there was reason to believe they could join in a campaign, thus effectually cutting German products from Rhode Island retail shelves.

Actually, Col. Samuels revealed, The Outlet Company has bought no German merchandise for several months and is disposing, as soon as possible, of the extremely slight amount that it has on hand.

Andersen Owed Much to His Jewish Friends in Denmark

[Julius Moritzen, the striver of the following article, was born in Odense, Denmark, where Hans Christian Andersen was born. Mr. Moritzen has written much about Andersen, and at present is engaged in a dramatization of his life.]

By JULIUS MORITZEN
As the entire world is paying tribute to the memory of Hans Christian Andersen on this, the one hundred and twenty-ninth anniversary of his birth, it is well to recall at this time, when racial superiority has become an obsession with Denmark's neighbors to the south, that no people meant more to the famous Danish writer of the wonder stories in the latter period of his life than the Jewish families with whom he associated in Copenhagen.

As a matter of fact, the Melchior of the Danish capital provided the perennial bachelor with those home comforts that money alone could never buy. Here he enjoyed associates who by not only appreciated his genius, but who saw to it that nothing was wanting to give him that peace and restfulness that they and the villa "Quintede" provided in such rich measure. The Melchior and Henriques families occupied the two best prominent positions in Copenhagen's financial and social life, centered the artistic atmosphere of that city, and Andersen came to realize to what a degree Danish Jewry, through these representatives, was instrumental in aiding him indirectly in visualizing some of his captivating stories.

Madame Melchior Understood Him among His Jewish friends better understood Hans Christian Andersen and his characteristics than did Madame Dorothea Melchior, whose correspondence with him during his frequent trips abroad constitutes one of the most valuable sources of information with regard to the psychological background of the man himself and his work. The book by the Danish author, Edith Reumert, dealing wholly with Andersen, and the Melchior family, affords an insight into that relationship which transcends the immediate interest attaching to anything bearing on his career and it becomes a part of that Anderseniana which future biographers must take into account.

One wonders what would have been Andersen's opinion of present-day events in Germany, where the co-religionists of the Melchior and the Henriques are now subjected to such persecutions and indignities as the Danish writer, with that lovable disposition of his, could never have believed possible in an enlightened age. It must be remembered that it was the Germany of his time which through the acknowledgement of his peculiar genius laid the groundwork for his ultimate fame. Here "The Ugly Duckling" found Gentiles and Jews alike ready to hail him the swan of juvenile literature. Even as late as 1930, when the one hundred and twenty-fifth anniversary was observed with particular interest in Germany, all joined in doing him honors because of his universal appeal.

Visited Waburg in Hamburg
Among his German friends, those of Jewish faith, were the Waburgs in Hamburg, and he visited them frequently when the wanderlust took Andersen to the continent. It remained, however, for Moritz and Dorothea Melchior, and Martin and Therese Henriques to cement with him a friendship that lasted to his death. For more than a generation the Henriques' home had been the gathering place for the devotees of music and art, and it was here that Hans Christian Andersen first met the Melchior, during the middle fifties.

Labor Union Pioneers as Sponsor of Inexpensive Radio Series on Station WYFD

THE LEADERSHIP of the International Workers Order is to be congratulated for its resourcefulness and pioneering spirit. The organization has grown in numbers until its membership totals 180,000. No arena could be a meeting place for so vast a number of people. What better way to reach them, than to bring a message to their homes? Radio will therefore be employed to reach the union membership from week to week and keep it informed about significant developments and activities.

The conventional approach would be a series of long-winded talks by union officials, but there is nothing concerning this series. Starting Friday, April 6, at 10:10 p.m. and weekly thereafter, ten brilliant programs will originate from the studios of WYFD. When for the first time this labor organization embarks on the airwaves, New Yorkers and residents of New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Connecticut, will hear programs that surpass most of the network shows in variety and interest. A union message and news bulletin, by the studios of WYFD, from the active board, will be limited to two and one-half minutes.

The series is titled "The Union Assembly," and will present personalities of national prominence, stars of the stage and America's outstanding chamber music ensembles. The inaugural program, featuring the national prominence, stars of the stage and America's outstanding chamber music ensembles. The honorary sponsors and speakers scheduled for following Secretary Perkins include Mrs. Frances D. Roosevelt, Fannie Hurst, Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, Rose Schneiderman, Gov. Herbert Lehman, Gov. Gifford Pinchot, Gov. A. Perry Belmont, Gov. Frank D. Roosevelt, Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia, Norman Thomas and William Green. The complete series will bring to the microphone these and other prominent personalities. The complete series will bring to the microphone these and other prominent personalities. All Star Song Series

Rosa Ponselle, world-famous soprano, 1930 Martini, notable radio personality, and the Metropolitan Opera concert singer, will offer the best-loved American songs of yesterday and today in a new series of broadcasts to be heard three times a week over WJZ and the Columbia network, beginning this evening at 9:00 p.m. A forty-piece orchestra and a chorus of 100 vocalists, directed by Andre Kostelanetz, will perform the vocalists and present unusual arrangements of modern dance tunes and ballads. Miss Ponselle will hold the spotlight on Mondays; Martini will be presented in the Wednesday night period, and Grete Stueckung will be the Saturday evening star.

Broadcast From Chicago Wheat Pit

"The Romance of the Wheat Pit" is being presented for the first time over WABC on Saturday, April 7, at 12:20 p.m. The spectacular feature will have an opportunity to hear what is actually going on behind the scenes of one of the world's famous exchanges. How the wheat broadcast will be, what with the din and the booming tones of the giant gong, is hard to tell. But it is the sort of a program which will awaken a good deal of curi-

CRITICAL MOMENTS

By GEORGE JOEL

Hot From the Microphone

It is really a dirty trick to poke fun at the microphoned subjects that come so faithfully to this desk from moving picture companies and theatrical producers, especially since only too often they are the last stand between a column of type and an empty space. But then, to wax mildly philosophical, man is by instinct an ingrate and it is difficult to resist the temptation making a wise crack or two.

Today I learned among other things that:

"Joan Crawford makes her own bed each morning, a habit maintained since childhood." Perhaps. And I know a lot of fellows who claim they take a stinging cold shower every morning!

"John Harlow probably gets her writing ability honestly. She is directly related to Edgar Allan Poe." Not even having seen any of Miss Harlow's prose in print I can't argue with the first part of the statement. As for the second, her "direct" relationship to Poe is something which should cause a literary sensation, since Poe died childless.

"Maurice Chevalier as a child worked for a carpenter shop, later for a joiner in a furniture factory and then in a nail factory." Which probably accounts for the rasping quality of his voice.

"Wallace Beery has his special parachute all ready for his daughter, Carol Ann, when she is old enough to fly." I should like to hear Mrs. Beery's thoughts on the matter.

"Jackie Cooper is a founder member of 'The Beverly Hills Gents Roller Skate Club.' In order to become president, a candidate is required to tear the seats out of at least two pairs of trousers while skating." Cute?

Also Jokes Not only does Ye Harnessed Editor receive little spots of scintillating information as instanced above, but he also is cured with good jokes. The following is a sample.

"An extra player was called upon to dismount from a horse in a scene for 'Operator 13'."

"Do you know how to dismount?" Director Richard Boleslavsky, a former Polish cavalry officer, inquired.

"Yes, Mr. Bolesly, I read all about it in your book, 'The Way of a Man'."

"That means nothing!" the director snorted. "I read the Ladies Home Journal.—but I'm no lady!"

Hull Back to Films; Other Picture Notes

Henry Hull who in "Tobacco Road" has earned more praise than any one actor this season, has signed a five-year moving picture contract. The great character actor has thrown in his future with Universal Pictures. Under his contract Hull will appear in at least two pictures a year. He was last seen in "Midnight," a Chester Erskin production which was written by the Sifttons.

Rian James, who forsook college in Brooklyn and went Hollywood arrived in New York yesterday. In his pocket was another long term contract calling for his services on the Universal as a writer, director and assistant producer.

SLANTS ON SPORTS

By MORRIS WEINER

Back to the 'Bushes'

The big push has started. The training camps are breaking up and the baseball boys are off on their annual cross-country barn-burner trips. Daily the rookies are falling to make the grade are dropping out at each port of call. The big league teams make it their swing around the ball parks of the nation.

Before the Giants' trip started, Terry passed the tentative first team line-up. Newcomers on the list are the names of Phil Weintraub, outfielder, or Harry Danning, catcher, to be found.

Both of these Jewish players came to Miami with high hopes knowing that they had what it takes to become major leaguers. If they can leave with something less than chagrin. Although they didn't come up to scratch form, these two boys have performed so consistently and admirably that Terry wanted whether to drop them now or to hold on to their contracts for a while. He still has a month, until May 15, before it becomes necessary to cut the contracts. He agreed to the required twenty-three player limit.

Notwithstanding their remarkable record in camp, the experts and writers around the training parks figure that one more year of seasoning in the minor leagues will assure these Jewish baseballers a steady berth with the Terry-he lauded in camp. His record at Miami is a long series of hits and doubles that came when they were needed.

Also, everybody from the bat-boy to the manager, has been commenting on the great spirit of this Jewish player. It's different from the boastful elan shown by Blondy Ryan, and Terry is convinced that such a spirit on a club can do so great a deal to help his team repeat in their battle for the pennant. Thinking about all these things is making an old-limer of his youthful manager.

Nevertheless, according to the way the wind is blowing up from the southlands, Weintraub will most likely spend the summer in Nashville, Tennessee.

Again in Outfield

Phil, as you remember, tried out for a position in the Giants' outfield. Previously he had been with the Birmingham club where he had been playing in the asparagus beds. Last year he wasn't nearly as good in the outfield as he was at the plate with a bat in hand.

Terry, however, loaded with outfielders from the beginning, tried Phil at first base. Evidently, the Giants' pilot remembered that Phil had held down the first sack position both in the semi-pro and Central league ball clubs. He used Phil as a sub for himself at first, and though the latter was a bit awkward in this position he soon got back into form.

Weintraub didn't perform any miracles at this inflated post but kept coming along in an grand style that was talk of selling Grantman down the river.

However, Leiber's erratic performance in the field caused Terry to send Weintraub back to the fence position. The leader of the champions is firmly convinced that he can make an A-1 outfielder of Weintraub. Leiber hasn't made one error in fielding the ball, but he is too slow on the bases. He lacks the experience necessary for a major league.

The 'Farm' Situation

The Giants' en route to New Orleans, where they will begin a series with the Cleveland Indians, are stopping off at Drexler, Alabama. It is here that the Nashville outfit of the Southern Association, a Class A ball team, is holding spring practice. This club is one of the Giant's farms, and is managed by Charlie Drexler.

If Weintraub and Danning show up with their Miami form they will be sent on ahead to New Orleans. Most likely they will not be released until May 15.

Terry has let his own batting average go to pot while he has been figuring on the possibilities of keeping Phil or Hank "Ack Du" Leiber as outfielders. Hank is a right-handed hitter and Weintraub swings from the left side of the plate. Inasmuch as Terry does not need a southpaw hitter, Leiber is slated to become fifth man in the line-up with the field.

McClintock, George Moore, and George Watkins, who has recently been traded to the Giants, make up the regular outfield. Leroy O'Donnell, who on the reserve list which Phil had to buck up against, unless the Jewish fielder has a little more of the old shellac on his fielding technique he must be relegated to the minors for another year.

As long as Phil and Harry are with the Giants, they needn't worry. They are in very good company. However, it's our belief that if Terry leaves these two players down in Nashville he will be doing them both an injustice. "Weintraub has to improve his fielding," says Terry. "Then why," we ask, "place him in the Nashville ball park where the short right field fence will prevent him from developing his skill on line drives and ground balls?" He has never played any position other than right field. He has no faults as a fielder that practice won't eliminate and this boy is willing to learn.

Hard Hitting Harry

Harry Danning, one of the best bachelors in the minors last year, was recruited from the Buffalo Bisons. He, too, along with Phil and Fresco Thompson, is slated to go back to the sticks and the bush leagues for one more season. This is by no means a disgrace. To play in the minors is one of the best things for a youngster. There one develops the savoir-faire and the use of the skull that is essential for big time activity. Also, one gains experience and learns how to play ball.

Excellent Catcher

With Gus Mancuso convalescing and destined not to cover the plate for at least another four weeks, Paul Richards, Frankie Healey, and Danning have been socking up the home sector with a dexterity that can be found only on championship ball clubs. The first two players are better catchers than Danning. On the other hand, Danning is the slugger. In a pinch he can come through better than Paul Richards. Last year, with the Bisons, Harry cracked out a .349 batting average. Therefore, it would seem foolhardy to us were Terry to ship him to the Yols with Weintraub. The Tennessee team is only in the Class A circuit.

Rather than let this happen we feel that the manager of the Giants will let him go back to the Buffalo club which has an A.A. rating. Danning is much better than the Southern Association calls for. He belongs in speedier company where the pace calls for a man of Harry's catching and hitting ability. Then again the Bisons in their International League fight this year certainly can use Danning to their advantage.

McGraw Was Right

If the Phil Weintraub-Hank Leiber decision is a tough nut for Terry to crack, the Harry Richards-Danning embroglio is even more so. All three of these fellows have been standing each other off since the training campaign opened. Of course Mancuso will settle this dispute. Richards has had the best experience of the three catchers, and uses his head when quick small decisions are needed. Healy is just a good all-round ball player. Harry Danning is a fine catcher but by far the hardest hitter.

In the final pay-off hitting is the thing that counts. Therefore we are convinced that Weintraub and Danning will be in the big league stadiums in one year. These baseballers have proved time and again to McGraw was right when he said, "What I need on the New York Giants is a hard hitting Jew."

Dollfus Weighs Jewish Situation

Austrian citizens nationalized after 1918 of all political rights and prohibiting them from entering profession or public life. The fact that the censor permitted the report to be read with the fact that no denial was forthcoming from official circles, alarmed the Jews and convinced them of the truth of the report.

Austrian Jewry had been perturbed also by the virulent anti-Semitic campaign, still in full swing throughout the country. The entire government and pro-government press in Austria are against the Jews and with projects for limiting Jewish rights in many directions. "The Austrian anti-Semites seem to be particularly determined to restrict the Jews from Professional and public life.

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)
VIENNA, April 1.—New proposed constitution for the city of Vienna was formally proclaimed today. The document provided that the municipal council shall consist of 100 members. No elections are provided for, only nominations.

According to the new constitution, the Lord Mayor of Vienna is to be appointed by Chancellor Dollfus. The new mayor will be appointed the councillors, including twelve to represent the autonomous cultural corporations; three, one for the Protestants, and two for the Jews of Vienna. Thus the Jews, who constitute ten per cent of the population, will have only one representative.

Nazi Probe Committee To Include Members Of Four Faiths

(Special to the J.D.B.)
WASHINGTON, April 1.—Representative Samuel R. Dickstein, chairman of the House Immigration Committee, will definitely serve as a member of the committee to be appointed this week to investigate and report on Nazi propaganda in the United States. He will not act as chairman of the committee, which is to be headed by none other than Dickstein.

According to reliable information the committee will include besides Mr. Dickstein, a Catholic, a Protestant, a representative of German origin and a free-lance writer.

Speaker Rainsley will offer the appointment as chairman to Mr. Dickstein as a gesture of appreciation for his work, but it is expected by none other than Dickstein that the work of the committee may be hampered with a Jewish representative at its helm.

In addition there will be special counsel for the committee and special investigators hired to track down Nazi propaganda outlets in the United States.

and un-American, former Governor, was declared.

Mr. Warburg stated that the time has come for Jews and Christians to determine definitely to work for a better America. "We ought to develop a constructive program for mutual welfare and then place ourselves behind it with united and sustained enthusiasm. As human beings we are all of one blood and we are all members of one aim—a country where all may without envy live a life full of things worthwhile," he said.

Charles Evans Hughes Jr. declared: "I am very much in sympathy with the spirit and purpose of Brotherhood Day. I hope that it may foster a larger cooperation of all elements of our citizenship toward the realization of the ideal of American democracy."

Brotherhood Day will aim to "enable American Catholics, Protestants and Jews to rise above old prejudices and the religious differences; they will not promote common worship; it will not suggest a weakening of any one's religious convictions.

model penitentiary is little short of a disgrace. There is no full-time Protestant chaplain."

Eight hundred non-Jewish prisoners voluntarily absented themselves from supper last Friday as a protest against the denial of Jewish inmates of the prison who in a Passover fast protested against the government ruling prohibiting special Passover food. Five hundred Christians, including the Jewish service on Friday night and the entire prison population of 1,000 attended a seder service conducted last night by Rabbi Mantelband.

Rabbi Mantelband served as Jewish chaplain for a year on a volunteer basis, and now receives $100 dollars monthly, minus a $100 deduction for the official chaplain of Temple Beth Hashalom, of Williamsport, a city thirty miles from Lewisburg.

Untermeyer Hailed By Cuban Jewry

Jewish Colony Turns Out; Talks Later Before 1,000— Is on Way to New York

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)
HAVANA, April 1.—General Untermeyer, noted Jewish attorney and head of the American Non-Sectarian Anti-Nazi League, received an imposing reception when he arrived here on the S.S. "Clara M. Untermeyer, accompanied by a group of friends, is on his way to New York after a vacation in California.

Practically the whole Jewish colony of Havana turned out to welcome him, including three hundred Jewish school children, representatives of all foreign newspapers, and important government officials. All the newspapers in Havana today carried photographs of Untermeyer together with lengthy articles on his fight against Hitlerism.

Later in the day Untermeyer addressed a meeting of more than 1,000 Jews and non-Jews in the Jewish Center. He stressed the importance of the boycott against Germany and urged the fight against anti-Semitism in America.

The American boycott leader appealed to the Cuban Jews to join the world boycott movement against the Nazi regime, which he declared was certain to be victorious.

Einstein Honored At Carnegie Hall

In presenting the award to Professor Einstein, Leonard Liebling, music critic of the New York American and editor of the Musical Courier, said:

"The American musical community's association with the arts, particularly music.

Among the other speakers were Carl Sherman, president of the New York Zionist Region, and Magistrate Leonard Liebling and Benjamin E. Greenspan, who jointly head the Council of Jewish Organizations for Palestine. A fund of $6,000 was raised from the concert for the children's association for transporting and settling Jewish children from Germany to Palestine.

Professor Einstein's address in full:

"It gives me great joy to thank the prominent artists who tonight have given their efforts toward a noble work of philanthropy in aid of one of man's greatest blessings—self-sacrificing charity is by far the most important and the most noble thing we can accomplish. The artists we have heard here have given us both.

I must thank them personally also, for my name has been linked with their names. It is a sense of humility which has prevented me from permitting such an association had not the cause involved been the alleviation of suffering of the children of persecuted German Jewish children from a hostile environment, to save them from a spiritual and material misery, and to enable them to grow up in a happy and healthy surroundings.

It has been mostly in times of peril and need that great works of charity have come into being. Thus the work of our organization and law-giving achieved by Moses was born of the oppression suffered by the Jewish people in Egypt. The work of our organization and law-giving achieved by Moses was born of the oppression suffered by the Jewish people in Egypt. The work of our organization and law-giving achieved by Moses was born of the oppression suffered by the Jewish people in Egypt.

Let me, finally, thank all those who have had a share in bringing about the success of this evening's entertainment."

Buenos Aires Anti-Semitic Plot Revealed

6 Arrested After Bombs Are Thrown Into Synagogue

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)
BUENOS AIRES, March 31.—Police investigations of the throwing of three bombs in a synagogue during services Friday night have revealed what appears to be a well-organized anti-Semitic campaign here. A group of six men and boys have been arrested charged with complicity in the throwing of the bombs. Other arrests are expected shortly.

No one was hurt when the bombs exploded, but the three loud explosions in rapid succession caused panic and the congregation rushed into the street.

A few minutes later a group of about fifty men assaulted and seriously injured a Jewish business man who was returning home. Neighbors the incident he had just witnessed in the synagogue. The anti-Semitic hooligans rushed into his home shouting, "Death to the Jews."

The frequency of similar incidents in the past few weeks has led police to believe that they are part of a well-organized plan. Local newspapers accuse an organization called the Argentine Legion, a fascist militia organized by the late General Jose Urquiza.

A new group was recently disbanded by tear bombs and movie theatres in Jewish neighborhoods have often been the scene of the throwing of tear gas bombs from the galleries' balconies. Loud shouts of "Down With the Jews."

German universities merely because of their racial origin. Hanfstaengl is part and parcel of the system that has discredited the Jewish race plan. Local newspapers have recently been invited to extend to him by Harvard will be considered by many Americans as an endorsement of the Nazi program of German universities. To avert such an impression and to avoid discreditable demonstrations against Harvard University during the coming academic year, the University authorities would do well to revoke the invitation.

Peschach Food

The Jewish inmates of the Penitentiary Penitentiary are threatened to go on a two-day hunger strike if they could not get Passover food, have their Matzoh and other Pesach food. The authorities have a ludicrous aspect. It is assumed that the Jewish inmates of the penitentiary are there not for having said their Hebrew prayer at the Passover seder, but for some of the Ten Commandments. But the violation of the commandment with regard to Pesach food was too much for them.

The hunger strike has been averted. The authorities did not allow any outside groups to send food to the Jewish prisoners, but Passover food was provided by the authorities from the regular maintenance funds. And now all is well.
