Color Variation Disclaimer:

At Western States Metal Roofing, we strive to provide the highest quality products with consistent and accurate colors. However, due to the nature of the manufacturing process and the variables involved in paint production, there may be slight variations in color from batch to batch.

Please be aware that the colors depicted on our website, brochures, and samples are for reference only and may not perfectly match the final product. These variations are inherent in the coating process and are not considered defects. We recommend ordering all materials for your project at the same time to ensure color consistency.

Western States Metal Roofing cannot be held responsible for any color variations between batches or any resulting issues that may arise. We encourage our customers to review and approve material samples before installation to ensure satisfaction with the final appearance.
