

LTL Shipment Crate Release Document

I, _____, (print name) do understand when shipping LTL (Van Trailer) that material must be crated to protect from the movement of said materials in and out of all van trailers, at all terminals/locations. I, the customer/end user, fully understand that these materials have a higher probability of being damaged in the shipment process without the protection of a crate, and I understand that a simple pallet and banding is not the best option for a van trailer shipment. You may opt out of the crate process, by choosing a pallet and banding. We will do our best to package materials onto a pallet with banding to secure the materials, but this is no guarantee that these products will not be damaged. By signing below, I, the customer, release Western States Decking Inc. DBA Western States Metal Roofing from all liabilities on this shipment, as it will not be crated for protection. I, the customer, accept full responsibility for any and all damages that may occur; and will follow procedures to file claim with the shipping company that I, the customer, hired to pick up said materials.
