FONDATION LOUIS VUITTON
FOR GEHRY À PARIS

A glistening diamond in the woods of Bois de Boulogne, Frank Gehry's silver-sailed glass structure houses LVMH's collections of contemporary art. PRIN PRIN
FOR THE BEST CROISSANT

As one of only a couple dozen bakers in the exclusive Grand Prix de la Baguette de la Ville de Paris winner's circle, Sébastien Maurous knows a thing or two about bread. His Montmartre bakery is the quintessential stop for your morning croissant fix. For a sweet treat, indulge with a pistachio-chocolate roll. more

BUVETTE GASTRONOMIQUE
FOR THE WINE AND PLATE SHARING

The French outpost of Jody Williams' Manhattan restaurant, which, ironically, models itself as a Parisian wine bar, this Pigalle bistro draws from its land of inspiration to marvelous effect: a wide selection of wines pairs nicely with a menu of small plates, like crushed walnut and Parmesan petit tartine, honey. CLAMATO
FOR THE OYSTER SALAD

This seafood joint takes its name from Mott's clam-infused tomato juice, the ingredient that separates a Caesar (hard to come by in Paris) from a Bloody Mary. Of course, there's also an au courant list of champagnes to pair with oysters on ice. Order the wild mussels that come served with a slice of Boulangerie. more

CAFÉ @BERRAMFF
FOR THE SHAKESHAKE-STYLE EGGS

Come for the Costume coffee, stay for the all-day brunch. Cozy and always crowded, this no-pot-owned canteen has put its name on the map with picture-perfect menu items, such as coriander-pomegranate shakshuka eggs with feta, served in a cast iron skillet on a wooden board. more
