

Microsoft Azure savings plan for compute pricing notification

October 2022

With the launch of Azure savings plans for compute, there is a temporary price reduction for the following products:

- One-year and three-year savings plans for ND A100v4 Azure VMs
- One-year and three-year savings plans for NDm A100v4 Azure VMs
- One-year and three-year savings plans for HBS and HBS Constrained Core Azure VMs
- One-year and three-year savings plans for HCS and HCS Constrained Core Azure VMs
- One-year and three-year savings plans for Azure App Services Premium v3 and Isolated v2 plans (Windows Version Only)

This price reduction will be removed on January 1, 2023, after which pricing will be set to the normal savings plan pricing as shown in the tables below.

Azure Virtual Machines

The prices below reflect the Azure Virtual Machine temporary pricing beginning in October 2022 and the pricing updates that will be effective as of January 2023. The tables show the savings the customer will receive from the savings plan when compared to the pay-as-you-go price with the Linux operating system. For Azure Virtual Machines, the fees for licensing software such as Windows are not discounted by the savings plan.
