Third-Party Data Sharing and Disclosure

Compliance with Law or Protection of Rights. We may disclose your personal information when we, in good faith, believe disclosure is appropriate to comply with the law, a court order, or a subpoena. We may also disclose your personal information to prevent or investigate a possible crime such as fraud or identity theft; to protect the security of the Site; to enforce or apply any applicable terms of use or other agreements; or to protect our own rights or property or the rights, property, or safety of our users or others.

Business Negotiations. We may contemplate, for strategic or other reasons, selling, buying, merging, or otherwise reorganizing one or more of our businesses. In negotiating with a third party about entering into such an arrangement, we may need to disclose your personal information. In such cases, we will take reasonable measures to protect the personal information we disclose. For example, we may do so by requiring a prospective purchaser to sign a non-disclosure agreement limiting the use and protecting the confidentiality of the personal information.

Business Transfers. We may transfer the personal information you submit on or through the Site to a buyer or other successor in the event of a merger, divestiture, transfer of control, restructuring, reorganization, dissolution, or other sale or transfer of some or all of our assets, whether as a going concern or as part of bankruptcy, liquidation, or similar proceeding. In this case, personal information held by us about the Site's users could be transferred with other assets.

Vendors. Angeion Group may from time to time retain third-party vendors in order to help us manage the Site and allow us to better serve our visitors and customers. These may include third-party vendors we engage to analyze the information we collect for marketing or similar purposes. We may contract with third parties who use cookies to collect information on our behalf. These parties maintain their own confidentiality and security standards. If you would like to opt out of this use of your information, you can change the preferences of your browser so that it does not accept cookies. We may contract with companies or others to provide certain services, including payment services, data management, promotional services, etc. We provide these service providers with the information they need to perform these services.

We may also share personal information to third-party vendors to help us provide you services. For example, we use Amazon Web Services as a hosting provider. Such vendors have access to personal information for a limited purpose and for a limited period, and we implement contractual protections limiting the use of that personal information to the provision of services to us.

If you are a California resident, the California Consumer Privacy Act (“CCPA”) California Civil Code 1798.83 permits you to request information regarding the disclosure of your personal information by certain of our members to third parties for the third parties’ direct marketing purposes.

The CCPA gives you certain rights with respect to the processing of your personal data. Under the CCPA, you may request information about our collection, use, and disclosure of your personal information over the prior 12 months, and ask that we provide you with the following information:

- Categories of and specific pieces of personal information we have collected about you.
- Categories of sources from which we collect personal information.
- Purposes for collecting, using, or selling personal information.
- Categories of third parties with which we share personal information.
- Categories of personal information disclosed about you for a business purpose.

The CCPA also allows you to request that we delete your personal information, subject to certain exceptions. Under the CCPA, a “sale” means providing to a third-party personal information for valuable consideration. We have taken substantial steps to identify whether any of our data sharing arrangements would constitute a “sale” under the CCPA, and have maintained that we do not sell or rent personal information to unaffiliated third parties for their advertising or marketing lists.

To make a request regarding your personal data or other rights under this section, please send an email to support@angeiongroup.com.
