This wraparound porch in Vernonburg, Georgia, is straight out of a Southern novel.

“Whether bejeweled with ornamental woodwork and furnishings or striking in their simplicity, porches are vital to our communities, our families — and ourselves.”

— AUTHOR PAULA S. WALLACE

Southern Store We Love

MAX & COMPANY

JACKSONVILLE, FLORIDA;
JACKSONVILLE BEACH, FLORIDA;
CHARLOTTE, NORTH CAROLINA;
ATLANTA, GEORGIA

Back in 1996, Phoebe and Jim Howard established Mrs. Howard, a single design shop in Jacksonville, Florida, that showcased her knack for styling and his architectural talent. Then in 2001, they opened Max & Company, the location and source of many of the items in our story beginning on page 40. Both stores offer reproduction, antique, and custom furniture and accessories. Phoebe and Jim think of Max & Company as the "fun, laid-back little brother," while Mrs. Howard is the stylish, sophisticated older sister. phoebehoward.net
