After the round is over, the person to the right of the community member becomes the community member for the next round. Contest winner cards are worth three points and favorite cards are worth one. At the end of ten rounds, the player with the most points wins. If there is a tie, continue playing with everyone until either one of the players wins another round or another player collects more points than them.

Game Rules

GOOD LUCK!!!

Set up:

Separate the Contest, favorites/contest winner, Instructables, and player card decks into separate piles. Each player takes turns being the community member. The oldest player starts as the first community member. Give a player card to the other players. The game consists of ten rounds.

Object of the game:

Collect the most points by the end of all ten rounds.

Play:

The community member starts the round by drawing a contest card. Each player then draws an Instructables card. The players each come up with an idea of an Instructable that might win the contest drawn by the community member. Each Instructables card has a constraint that the player must follow. This may make choosing a title harder. Some cards say that you must include a certain word in your title. You may use variations or other tenses of the word. Other cards say that you must use a certain amount of words in your title. You must have exactly that many words.

Example:

The Minecraft contest is out and you're busy trying to think of the best title. The Instructables card you have says: "Make it fly contest is also out. Your title must have the word 'fly' in it." You decide to chose the title, "Minecraft Ghast That Actually Flies".

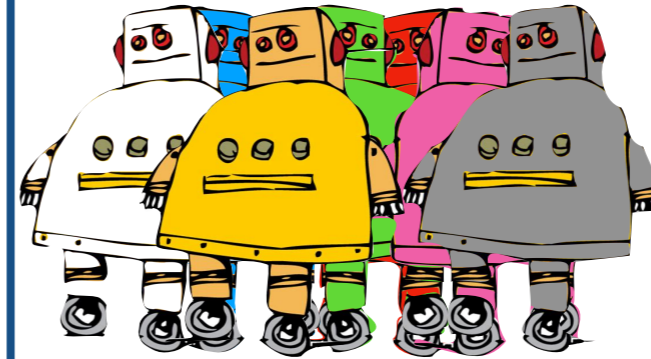

After all players have chosen a title, one player mixes the cards and hands them back out without the community member looking. Remember what you wrote in your card. You may get the same card back. That is okay. When everyone is finished, each player reads the title on the card that they now have. This is done so that the community member does not know who wrote which card. The community member then picks a first place and a second place based on which one he/she believes it is the best fitting for the contest. Next, the players reveal which card they wrote. The first place player receives a favorite/contest winner card with the contest winner side facing up. Second place also receives one, but with the favorite side up.

Example:

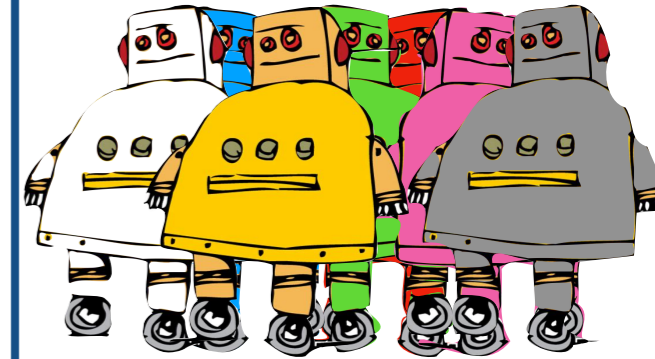

Everyone has written their titles, so the community member looks away. You receive your friend's card. His title says, "Papercraft Model of Steve. His instructables card says, "The paper contest is also out. Your title must have the word 'papercraft' in it." Once everyone is finished, the community member turns back around and everyone reads the titles on their cards. The community member then picks "Minecraft Ghast That Actually Flies" as the winner and "Minecraft Zombie Shaped Cake" as second place. You reveal yourself as the winner and receive your card."
