Cornerstone College & Seminary (CCS) welcomes campus visits from prospective students and other individuals. Arrangements can be made by contacting the main number listed above.

CCS complies with the Federal Americans with Disabilities Act and Virginia's Disability Act. The CCS provides equal access to all its educational programs to every qualified student without regard to educationally unrelated disabilities. Students requiring special individual services or equipment will be responsible for the expenses thereof, including the expense of providing tutors, personal attendants, medical technicians, aides, certified signers and so-forth. The faculty and administration of the school will do all within reason to assist the students in communicating with proper community or government agencies to secure available assistance to meet the student's needs.

The regulations, requirements, and general information in this document are official for the academic school year referred to on page one only and are subject to revision at any time by vote of the Board of Directors or administration. CCS may need to withdraw courses because of lack of enrollment or other unforeseen circumstances. If changes must occur, students will be promptly notified.

Changes will be effective at the time so determined by the proper authorities, and the changes will apply only to prospective students - not those already enrolled – unforeseen circumstances notwithstanding. This catalog is a general information publication only, and it is not intended to, nor does it contain all regulations that relate to students. For the most current revisions of the Catalog see the CCS website.

HISTORY

Cornerstone College & Seminary, founded as Fredericksburg Bible Institute in 1969, was the vision of the late Dr. G. Albert Brown, who, more than forty years ago, sought to educate those who desired to know about the Bible. Dr. G. Albert Brown, Jr. was the founder of Fredericksburg Bible Institute and Seminary and became the institution's first President. He was a man of God who had the blessings of the Almighty upon his ministry. Scores of pastors who have received part, or all, of their Bible college and Seminary training were blessed by Dr. Brown. He was a man of impactful prayer and Biblical devotion. Dr. Brown believed in the power of prayer because the Bible teaches us to pray, and he believed in the truth of the Bible. He was a man of vision who took his lead from Proverbs 29:18, "Where there is no vision, the people perish." His ministry was successful because people knew Dr. Brown loved and cared for them, but more importantly, he loved the Lord. Dr. Brown continued to establish the institute through milestones of achievement. Dr. Brown went to heaven to be with the Lord on January 31, 2008, and his presidential leadership was passed to Dr. Gary Foss.

The institute was granted a tax exemption by the federal government in 1970 and a tax deduction for contributions by the Internal Revenue Service. The State Government then gave the institute tax exemption on textbook sales in 1975. According to the Code of Virginia, Section 23-266 A-2, this institution was permitted by the Council of Higher Education on February 3, 1982, to confer degrees. The Veterans Administration approved the institute to provide educational benefits beginning on August 23, 1983. The International Accreditation Commission accredited the institute on September 15, 1983. Following Dr. Brown's lead, CCS is still reaching new milestones and constantly improving for the sake of its students. Dr. Brown went to heaven to be with the Lord on January 31, 2008, and his presidential leadership was passed to Dr. Gary Foss. Dr. Foss served as President from January 2008 until June 2016. Gary is fondly remembered with his wife, Andy, as the founder of Fredericksburg Christian School. He served as their Head of School, equipping students for over forty years. The Board of Directors voted Dr. Richard (Dick) Barnett into the presidency in 2016. Dr. Barnett oversaw the partnership with Lancaster Bible College in 2017 and led the transition from FBIS to Cornerstone College of Virginia in 2018. In 2023, the Board of Directors voted Dr. Julie Wallace, who was serving as Provost, to serve as the fourth college president. Dr. Wallace has a long Christian Education ministry history and holds a Doctor of Educational Leadership. In 2024, the college name was changed to Cornerstone College & Seminary.

CHARTER

Fredericksburg Bible Institute was chartered on September 2, 1969, by the State Corporation Commission. On June 5, 2018, Fredericksburg Bible Institute and Seminary changed its name to Cornerstone College of Virginia. On July 21, 2024, the college name was changed to Cornerstone College & Seminary.

CONFERRAL OF DEGREES

Cornerstone College & Seminary is a religious institution exempt from state regulation and oversight in the Commonwealth of Virginia. CCS confers degrees under a religious exemption through the State Council of Higher Education according to the code of Virginia, Section 23-266 A-2. Although credits may be applied to various degree programs of other institutions, the curriculum is theological only.

JOURNEY TO ACCREDITATION

Cornerstone College & Seminary is pursuing accreditation with TRACS – Transnational Association of Christian Colleges and Universities. CCS is currently in correspondence status with TRACS. An application will be made with TRACS in February 2025. Pursuing accreditation does not constitute, imply, or presume accredited status at present or in the future.

MISSION, VISION, INSTITUTIONAL GOALS

Mission: Cornerstone College & Seminary (CCS) provides a Christ-centered pathway to a theological and professional education that fully equips our students for kingdom work in the church and in the world.

Vision: Cornerstone College & Seminary seeks to be a premier educational institution that prepares our students for meaningful lifework.

Institutional Goals: Within the context of the CCS mission, we are committed to equipping students for kingdom work through the following goals.

Understand the Bible and theology to interpret the world around us through a biblical worldview.

Develop a community and a student body who grow in their personal relationship with Christ.

Prepare students to be lifelong learners who can positively impact diverse workplaces.

Equip students to acquire ministry skills for local and worldwide Christian service.

STATEMENT OF FAITH

1	The Bible is the divinely inspired, infallible, inerrant, and revealed Word of God (2 Timothy 3:16).
2	God is revealed in the Scriptures as God the Father, God the Son, and God the Holy Spirit, commonly referred to as the Trinity (Colossians 1:15-18; Acts 5:1-4).
3	The Lord Jesus Christ is fully God. He was born of a virgin; He lived a sinless life; He performed miracles; He was crucified under Pontius Pilate; He shed His blood to save sinners; He rose bodily and was seen by eyewitnesses; He ascended to the right hand of the Father, and all the earth will see Him when He returns in power and glory (John 8:58; Isaiah 9:6; Isaiah 7:14; Matthew 1:18-25; 2 Corinthians 5:21; 1 Corinthians 15:3-7, Acts 1:9-11).

4	The Holy Spirit is the third person of the Godhead and equal with the Father and the Son in every divine perfection. He convicts of sin regenerates, enlightens, endues for service, comforts, and guides believers (John 14:16-18, John 14:26).
5	All humanity in its natural state are sinners, lost, alienated from God, and spiritually dead: "All have sinned and fallen short of the glory of God" (Romans 3:23) and, therefore, need salvation.
6	The Bible, inspired by God, is the final authority for all practices of sexuality, and God wonderfully and immutably creates each person as male or female. These two distinct, complementary genders together reflect the image and nature of God. Any form of sexual immorality (including adultery, fornication, homosexuality, lesbianism, bisexual conduct, bestiality, incest, pornography, and attempting to change one's biological sex) is sinful and offensive to God (Genesis 1:26-27; 1 Corinthians 11:12; Leviticus 18:1-30; Leviticus 20:13; Romans 1:26-29; 1 Corinthians 5:1; 1 Thessalonians 4:1-8; Hebrews 13:4; John 3:3-7; Jude 1:7).
7	Salvation is by grace alone, a gift of God, through repentance and faith in the Lord Jesus Christ, who died for our sins according to the Scriptures (1 Corinthians 15:3). Those who thus receive Christ by faith have their sins forgiven (Ephesians 1:7) and their hearts cleansed (Acts 15:9), become born of the Spirit, become children of God (John 1:12-13) are made new creatures in Christ (2 Corinthians 5:17). They are eternally secure (John 10:28).

8	Only two Scriptural Ordinances exist: Baptism and the Lord's Supper. Baptism is a command of our Lord Jesus Christ. (Matthew 28:18-20). The Lord's Supper is for remembering Christ's death, burial, and resurrection with the anticipation of His return (1 Corinthians 11:26).
9	Christ personally instituted the Church, which He commissioned to make disciples of all nations, to baptize believers, and to teach them to do all things He had commanded (Matthew 16:17; 28:18-20).
10	There are only two classes of humanity in God's sight: saved and lost. The saved, those "Born Again" through faith in Jesus Christ, go to be with Him in conscious blessedness (Luke 23:39-43) after death and shall be raised bodily to live with Him eternally (1 Corinthians 15:35-49); the unsaved shall be separated from God at death and shall be raised bodily to be placed in eternal torment (John 5:28-29).
11	"Born again" Christians live a life dictated by the Holy Spirit (Galatians 5:16-25; Colossians 2:6) and yield to God (Romans 6:13). All Christians are called to share their faith with others by word and deed (Matthew 28:16-20).

FACULTY

Cornerstone College & Seminary is grateful for the men and women who voluntarily sacrifice their time and knowledge to teach the Word of God to our students. Members of our faculty have given evidence of their spiritual conversion, and they are aligned with our Statement of Faith as recorded in Article III of the Constitution. Each member has the qualifications to equip our students for kingdom work in the church and in the world by formal education and/or by extensive or unique ministry experience.

POLICIES AND PROCEDURES

ADMISSION/REGISTRATION:

Cornerstone College & Seminary is a nonprofit ministry offering Christian Bible education to adults (18 years of age and over). We are coed, multicultural, evangelical and non-denominational, and admit students of any race, sex, color, disability, age, veteran status, religion, political affiliation, national and ethnic origin to all the rights, privileges, programs, and activities generally accorded or made available to students at our school.

Members of CCS staff are available to assist prospective students with information regarding the application process, degree programs, distinctiveness of the school and all aspects surrounding student life. CCS encourages and welcomes all prospective students to visit the campus, observe classes, tour the facilities, and meet with faculty and students.

Students may apply and be accepted at any time prior to the beginning of the semester, but they must meet certain deadlines. Listed below are dates by which applications and all required documentation must be submitted to receive equal consideration with other applicants.

TUITION AND FEES

Students are responsible for payment or making payment arrangements with the Dean of Students by the first day of classes. Any amount owed to the college including, but not limited to, tuition and fees is considered a receivable and a debt owed to the college. A receivable becomes past due if payment is not received by the payment due date.

When a receivable becomes past due a "Registration Hold" is placed on a student's electronic Populi account that prevents students from registering for future terms or making changes to the current term schedule until the balance is paid in full. In addition, graduation candidates must have all balanced due to the college paid in full in order to be eligible for graduation-related privileges, including receiving their diploma, having their degree conferred, and receiving education transcripts.

Students who become unresponsive to collections attempts by the college will have their electronic Populi account placed on "Course" and "Grades/Transcript" held until payment or payment arrangements have been made.

Student billings are sent out electronically monthly. Students are notified of account balances and tuition payments that are due. Those who have account balances are encouraged to work closely with the Dean of Students to ensure compliance with this tuition and fees policy.

REFUND POLICY

Students may receive a tuition (not fees) refund according to the following schedule:

100% if the student withdraws before the first day of the term

75% if the student withdraws during week one of the term

50% if the student withdraws during week two of the term

25% if the student withdraws during week three of the term

There is no refund after week three of the term.

The above refund schedules are enforced whether the student actually attends the classes or not.

Notifying the school of intention to withdraw is the student's responsibility. The Dean of Students reserves the right to override the above refund policy to accommodate special circumstances of an extreme nature.

ADD/DROP POLICY

Prior to the start of the term through day seven of class, students may add and drop classes without penalty or cost. Starting on day eight of the class, students may drop classes and receive a refund in accordance with the above refund policy. Students may not add a class after day eight of the term.

TRANSFER OF CREDITS

Cornerstone College & Seminary accepts and reviews official and unofficial transcripts from accredited and other reputable Bible Institutes, seminaries, colleges, universities, technical institutes and military training classes. The Registrar evaluates all transcripts and determines all transferable courses and credits. All transfer credits are at the discretion of CCS, and each course transferred must have a grade of “C” or better for undergraduate students and a “B” or better for all graduate students. In order to be eligible to graduate from CCS, a student must complete at least 25% of degree coursework at CCS. Some graduate- and doctoral-level degree programs require a greater percentage of coursework completed at CCS.

LIFE EXPERIENCE CREDITS

Life Experience Credits (LEC) are credits awarded for prior learning in a professional or ministerial context. Students must fill out the appropriate paperwork and pay an evaluation fee in order for the credits to apply to their degree program. No more than thirty (30) credits may be applied to any degree program. The Bachelor of Religious Studies has the most room to accept LEC transfer. Life experience credits only are applicable for undergraduate degree plans.

APPROVED COURSE WORK

The academic year is divided into three semesters, sixteen weeks each. An undergraduate student must carry at least twelve (12) credit hours to be classified as a full-time student. The maximum number a student can carry per semester is fifteen hours, unless otherwise approved by the Academic Dean. A graduate student must carry at least nine (9) credit hours to be classified as a full-time student.

CREDIT HOURS

One credit hour constitutes 750 minutes of instruction per term. Instruction comprises lecture or equivalent instructor-led activity. For each credit, face to face courses include one hour of direct faculty instruction—such as lectures, discussions, and in-class activities—alongside a minimum of two hours of out-of-class work that students are expected to complete each week of the fifteen week semester. Out-of-class work encompasses a variety of learning activities designed to reinforce and expand on in-class material, including homework assignments, reading assignments, projects, and video-based instruction. This blend ensures that students engage deeply with course material, applying and exploring concepts independently while also benefiting from structured faculty guidance. Together, these elements meet the academic rigor expected in higher education, fostering comprehensive learning and skill development aligned with the course's goals.

In distance education, a credit hour represents a comparable amount of student effort as face to face courses, though the format may vary. Distance education classes are delivered in an eight week format resulting in an accelerated, condensed academic format compared to fifteen week semesters. For each credit, online instruction includes two hours of asynchronous activities—such as online discussions, recorded lectures, and interactive assignments. Additional out-of-class work includes a minimum of four hours of student work playing a crucial role for students to complete required readings, projects, and self-paced learning modules. These elements are structured to ensure that distance learning aligns with face to face standards, providing an equivalent educational experience and fulfilling the rigorous requirements of the credit hour through varied, flexible methods suited to distance education instruction.

For a hybrid course, credit hours are achieved through a combination of in-person class time and enhanced instructor-led activities supplemented by increased homework and independent study requirements. Hybrid courses integrate face-to-face instruction with online or supplemental activities that reinforce and expand on classroom learning that are equivalent to 750 minutes of instruction per term per credit hour. This includes additional interactive assignments, projects, and guided online discussions designed by the instructor to ensure that students engage actively with the material outside of class. The structured yet flexible format of hybrid courses requires students to balance their time between live sessions and independent study, with the benefit of additional faculty support through both in-person and virtual interactions. This model maintains the credit hour's rigor, providing a comprehensive learning experience that blends the strengths of traditional and distance education.

FULL TIME/PART TIME STUDENT STATUS

Undergraduate Full Time Status = 12 credits or more per semester

Undergraduate Part Time Status = 11 credits or less per semester

Graduate Full Time Status = 9 credits or more per semester

Graduate $\frac{3}{4}$ Time Status = 6 - 8 credits per semester

Graduate $\frac{1}{2}$ Time Status = 4-5 credits per semester

Graduate less than $\frac{1}{2}$ Time Status = 3 credits or less per semester

AUDITING A COURSE

A student may audit any course without taking an examination or receiving credit. Those desiring to audit a course must register for the course and pay tuition and fees. Tuition is half the cost of a course taken for credit. If a student desires to change from audit status to credit status, he/she must do so before the first examination. (Audit courses cannot be certified for Veteran's benefits).

CLASS ATTENDANCE

Class attendance and participation are important.

An on-campus student may not miss more than two classes per sixteen-week semester in an on-campus course. Online student attendance is recorded by submission of weekly assignments in the internet based learning management system. Online students who miss more than two weeks of assignment submissions may be administratively withdrawn from a class without a refund of tuition and fees.

Any student who misses more than two classes out of a sixteen-week period will receive an "F" unless an emergency or special arrangement approved by the professor and the Academic Dean has been made. Tardiness of fifteen minutes or more for three class periods will be counted as one absence. (Students receiving Veterans Benefits are monitored for attendance by the Veterans Administration).

PROBATION AND DISMISSAL

Any student who fails to achieve a 2.0 grade point average or better will be placed on academic probation for the following semester. If the student fails to achieve a 2.0 grade point average at the end of the next semester, he or she may be academically withdrawn from classes. If the student is a veteran, the VA will be notified immediately of the change in academic status.

When a student fails to make satisfactory progress because of conduct or a disciplinary problem, the student may be placed on probation or dismissed. If the student is a veteran, the VA will be notified immediately of the change in academic status. If the cause of the unsatisfactory conduct or progress has been corrected, and it is believed through counseling that the program the veteran or eligible person now plans to pursue is suitable to the student's ability and interest, the student may be re-certified for entrance to an approved educational program.

INACTIVE STUDENT STATUS – BREAK IN ENROLLMENT

CCS classifies current students as students who are enrolled on the first day of any class, course, or program for which the student registered plus 1 semester subsequent to the last day of the last course the student was enrolled in. If the student has not registered and attended a class in the last two semesters, the student will be placed in "inactive" status. Students interested in returning to the college must reapply to the college (and pay the new student fee) and will be placed in the current year's academic catalog programming. Students who register and withdraw from all classes two semesters in a row (spring, summer, or fall) will be considered "inactive".

Gary Foss Memorial Scholarship Academic Policy

All scholars understand that their progress at Lancaster Bible College (LBC) will be visible to their Cornerstone College & Seminary (CCS) advisors. If CCS advisors do not have direct access to their course progress, GFM Scholars may be asked to present their progress to their CCS advisor or the CCS Registrar.

All scholars must maintain full-time enrollment and must graduate within two years of the awarding of the scholarship. The sum of CCS and LBC credits must be 12 or greater during each fall and spring semester. If a student desires to enroll in fewer classes in a given term and make up the difference during a summer term, they must obtain guidance from their advisor, the CCS Registrar, and the Provost.

All scholars must maintain a GPA of 2.7 or higher. Any student who receives a C- or below in any class may be a candidate for academic probation.

Scholars who have an F or who fail to participate in their LBC class must withdraw from the class before the end of LBC's add/drop period, or they will be charged LBC's tuition.

Any scholar who fails to meet the minimum GPA requirement in a given semester will be placed on probation and/or will be asked to meet with a representative group from the Scholarship Selection Team (SST). The SST reserves the right to recommend withdrawal of all or part of the scholarship if the members are not sufficiently convinced that the student is committed to improving. The Final Selection Team (FST) will make the final decision.

Academic probation may consist of mandatory study halls or remedial instruction, depending on the case.

INCOMPLETE COURSE POLICY

Students who are unable to complete coursework by the last day of class due to unavoidable circumstances such as personal illness/injury or family emergencies may request an extension of two weeks from the course professor. CCS strives to create an environment for student academic success. While it is recognized that extenuating circumstances can occur, CCS requires that students complete all coursework within the time allotted per semester or term. If a student has documented extenuating circumstances that prohibit him or her from completing the coursework, the professor has the option to extend an extension to the student for an additional two weeks after the official course end date for the student to complete assignments. The professor will post the current course grade for the student within 7 days of the end of the course. If the student completes additional assignments that increase the points earned in the course resulting in a course letter grade change, the professor will submit a grade change to the Dean of Students. If the student does not earn additional points that result in a letter grade change for the course, the original course grade remains on the student's record. No exceptions may be made except by the permission of the professor and the Academic Dean. Students are encouraged to reach out for assistance from their professor promptly at any time they are struggling in a course.

GRADUATION REQUIREMENTS

There are specific requirements in order to be eligible to graduate from a CCS program.

1. The student must adhere to the required level of academic achievement for their degree program.
2. The student must earn a final total cumulative grade point average of 1.7 on the CCS college grade point scale.
3. The student must be in a good financial standing with all tuition and fees paid in full.

For Credit

1. Undergraduate certificate: completion of 12-15 undergraduate level credits in a prescribed curriculum
2. Diploma: completion of 30 undergraduate level credits in a prescribed curriculum
3. Associate degree: completion of 60 undergraduate level credits in a prescribed curriculum
4. Bachelor's degree: completion of 120 undergraduate level credits in a prescribed curriculum
5. Master's degree: completion of 36 graduate level credits in a prescribed curriculum
6. Graduate Certificate: completion of 12 graduate credits in a prescribed curriculum
7. Doctoral degree: completion of 40 doctoral credits in a prescribed curriculum

Course Levels

1. Undergraduate courses are numbered 100, 200, 300 and 400 and are all 3 credits
2. Graduate courses are numbered 500 & 600, all 3 credits
3. Doctoral courses are numbered 700, 800 and 900, all 4 credits

Non-credit

1. Course Certificate: Completion of an enrichment course. (Earns 2 CEUs)
2. Program Certificate: Completion of 8 CEUs in a prescribed curriculum

Some students may earn more credits than the degree program requires due to various factors such as electives, transfer credits, life experience credits, or other reasons.

VETERAN TUITION POLICY

In accordance with section 3679 (e), students who are eligible for veteran's benefits but whose disbursements are delayed are NOT charged late fees. They will neither be prohibited from attending classes or using school resources, nor will they be required to borrow funds as their benefits are pending. Students are, however, required to produce the VA Certificate of eligibility on or before the first day of class.

Veterans have a different refund policy: Cornerstone College & Seminary has and maintains a policy for the refund of the amount charged for tuition, fees, and other charges for a portion of the course that does not exceed the approximate pro rata portion of the total charges for tuition, fees, and other charges that the length of the completed portion of the course bears to the total length. CCS may charge a sum which does not vary more than 10% from the exact pro rata portion of such tuition, fees, and other charges. Where the established registration fee is more than $10, the amount in excess of $10 will be subject to proration.

VETERAN GRIEVANCE POLICY

The Virginia State Approving Agency (SAA), is the approving authority of education and training programs for Virginia. The SAA investigates complaints of GI Bill® beneficiaries. While most complaints should initially follow the school grievance policy, if the situation cannot be resolved at the school, the beneficiary should contact the SAA office via email saa@dvs.virginia.gov.

VETERAN BENEFITS

This institution is approved to offer GI Bill® educational benefits by the Virginia State Approving Agency. Courses by correspondence or distance learning are not approved for VA benefits.

Servicemen, veterans and their dependents will be assisted in every way possible in their academic pursuits. Interested students must submit a VA Certificate of Eligibility on or before the first day of class in order to be enrolled. Additional information is available from the Registrar. The VA will be notified of any change in the status of your enrollment, to include placed on probation, dismissal, failure, or academic withdrawal.

VETERAN RELIEF, REFUND, AND REINSTATEMENT TUITION GUIDELINES

Tuition and Required Fees. Catalog p.16ff

Room and Board. N/A

1. Deposits. The new student application, registration, and student services fees will be refunded if a student withdraws for military service with no plans to return. If the student plans to return, CCS may hold the fees as a credit toward the term in which the student will enroll.
2. Academic Credit. Students who are forced to withdraw for military service will receive the designation “incomplete” or “IP” on their transcripts. Incompletes must be addressed before the start of the next major term (fall or spring) or at a time agreed upon by student and professor considering the student's circumstances.

3. Reinstatement.
 - a. General Provision: A student is entitled to reinstatement without having to re-qualify for admission if:
 - i. the student returns to the same institution after a cumulative absence of not more than five years, and
 - ii. the student provides notice of intent to return to the institution not later than three years after the completion of the period of service.
 - b. Institutional policies will defer to the provisions of the Higher Education Opportunity Act for application of relevant exceptions to these time periods.
 - c. Reinstatement into Specific Program of Study: Students will be counseled on a case-by-case basis regarding the effect of their absence on the completion of their program. Students will be able to re-enroll in the same course of study if the coursework related to the degree is available. If the courses are not available, the Registrar and Provost shall make provisions to accept equivalent coursework toward the old program or to enroll the student in an equivalent new program.
4. Deferral of Enrollment: All students may defer their enrollment for up to one year. Veteran students may defer their enrollment for up to one year after they are approved for benefits.
5. Documentation. To preserve their prerogatives under these policies, students must submit written notice of their military service before they depart. Students must also have submitted a VA Certificate of Eligibility to the Registrar.

CCS EXTENSIONS

Cornerstone College & Seminary has two classroom extension sites to accommodate students living in different areas within the Commonwealth of Virginia*: Louisa County, Shiloh Baptist Church (Old Site) and King George County, Little Ark Baptist Church.

*Note - Eligible veterans will be certified only at the main campus at this time.

INCLEMENT WEATHER

Cornerstone College & Seminary has its own weather closing policy. Students will be notified via text and email in the event of a cancellation through our Populi student management system. Students are asked to provide the most recent contact information to the office. Students are responsible for keeping their address, phone, and email information up to date in Populi.

SPIRITUAL FORMATION DEVELOPMENT REQUIREMENTS

The life of a growing, vibrant Christ follower includes diverse experiences. CCS students enrolled in two or more on-campus courses for the term will be required to attend regular spiritual formation development events. Students have on-campus opportunities for spiritual growth and community connection. CCS's Spiritual Director connects regularly with students.

Spiritual formation events include

- CCS weekly chapel services (required for on-campus day students)
- CCS weekly small group gatherings
- CCS mentoring sessions

- Sunday Worship Services at Redeemer Bible Church located across the quad from campus
- Sunday young adult group Bible study at Redeemer Bible Church
- CCS RightNow Media online videos and Bible studies
- CCS mission trips
- Students are welcome to visit the spiritual formation advisor on campus and pursue any request, question, or concern in person.

CODE OF ETHICS

We, the members of the Cornerstone College & Seminary (“CCS”) community, abide by a Code of Ethics (“Code”). Under this Code, we accept responsibility for maintaining the highest standard of conduct in the academic as well as personal areas of our life together. We will strive for relationships that exhibit honesty, integrity, and decency which are characterized by honor, respect, and love. Thus, we expect that our students, staff, and faculty will adhere to the moral conduct set forth by the Bible itself. We will seek to provide an atmosphere conducive to developing Christ-like character of modesty and humility within the entire community; and any lack of moral or academic integrity will be deemed as inappropriate conduct as set forth by this Code.

Examples of conduct that will constitute a breach of this Code include, but are not limited to, plagiarism, cheating, violence, lawlessness, illegal drug use, excessive drinking, and drunkenness. Romantic intimacy and/or sexual acts outside of biblically defined marriage for Christians (i.e., one man and one woman) are not acceptable for any member of the CCS community. Drugs and alcohol are strictly prohibited on CCS grounds. Falsely accusing any other member of the CCS community of violating the Code and providing false testimony against any person accused of such a violation are breaches of the Code as well. A person who personally knows a violation of the Code has occurred, should follow the principles in Matthew 18 to approach the person about their conduct. If repentance is not observed, a person who personally knows a violation of the Code has occurred, but fails to report such information, breaches the Code themselves; the sole exclusion to this requirement is information obtained in confidential faculty and staff counseling relationships with students except in situations of criminal or in harmful nature to self or others. This exclusion is intended to provide a redemptive mechanism to assist students in integrating theology and practice and in no way is designed to excuse behavior that breaches the Code.

CCS reserves the right to discipline or dismiss any student, faculty, or staff member who is found guilty of violating the Code or whose attitude and behavior are not in harmony with the moral ideals of the school, this Code of Ethics, or the moral standards of the Bible.

CODE OF ETHICS: STATEMENT ON MARRIAGE, GENDER, AND SEXUALITY

We believe that God wonderfully and immutably creates each person as male or female. These two distinct, complementary genders together reflect the image and nature of God. (Gen 1:26-27.) Rejection of one’s biological sex is a rejection of the image of God within that person.

We believe that the term “marriage” has only one meaning: the uniting of one biological man and one biological woman in a single, exclusive union, as delineated in Scripture. (Gen 2:18-25.) We believe that God intends sexual intimacy to occur only between a biological man and a biological woman who are married to each other. (1 Cor 6:18; 7:2-5; Heb 13:4.) We believe that God has commanded that no intimate sexual activity be engaged in outside of a marriage between a man and a woman.

We believe that any form of sexual immorality (including adultery, fornication, homosexual behavior, bisexual conduct, bestiality, incest, and use of pornography) is sinful and offensive to God. (Matt 15:18-20; 1 Cor 6:9-10.)

We believe that God offers redemption and restoration to all who confess and forsake their sin, seeking His mercy and forgiveness through Jesus Christ. (Acts 3:19-21; Rom 10:9-10; 1 Cor 6:9-11.)

We believe that every person must be afforded compassion, love, kindness, respect, and dignity. (Mark 12:28-31; Luke 6:31.) Hateful and harassing behavior or attitudes directed toward any individual are to be repudiated and are not in accord with Scripture.

SEXUAL HARASSMENT POLICY

Sexual Harassment is defined as conduct based on sex that occurs within a CCS education program or activity that is unwelcome when the individual did not request or invite the conduct, and regarded it as undesirable or offensive. The fact that an individual may have tolerated the conduct does not mean that they welcomed it. Sexual harassment is a violation of the college ethics policy and will not be tolerated among any individual on campus including but not limited to staff, administration, faculty, students, volunteers, and visitors. The process for reporting harassment is detailed below in “Ethics Violation Adjudication Process”. Victims of sexual harassment are encouraged to report the event immediately to an administrative staff member.

Students who receive counseling, tutoring, or mentoring in a mixed gender format from other students, administration, or faculty are encouraged to do so in an observable, public forum to avoid one-on-one, private conversations. This helps keep the campus community above reproach in interpersonal interactions.

PLAGIARISM, ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE (AI), AND ACADEMIC HONESTY

Student Writing Policies

1. All assignments college-wide will be prepared in accordance with the current MLA style of formatting.
2. Assignments will be submitted through electronic upload into Populi online or through hard copy submission in class (with the permission of the teaching professor). Students should refer to the course syllabus or course professor for specific instructions.

3. Submitting late assignments is up to the discretion of each course professor.
4. Submitting “extra credit” assignments is up to the discretion of each course professor.
5. The course requirements as listed in each course syllabus are subject to change by the professor or the college.
6. CCS courses are writing intensive, and the college adheres to a strict plagiarism policy.
7. Students are expected in all written assignments to ensure none of the content is plagiarized. When a student submits an assignment under his or her name, it is understood that the writing is the student’s own personal work contemporaneously written originally for the course in which it is submitted (reusing previously written work even if it is written by the student constitutes “self plagiarism” unless the student has prior approval from the course professor). Plagiarism is defined as using the work of another as one’s own without giving credit to the source. It is the failure to give attribution to the words, ideas or information of others on papers, projects or any assignment prepared for a course. It includes, but is not limited to:
 1. Omitting quotation marks or other conventional markings around material quoted from any source;
 2. Paraphrasing, summarizing, or quoting a passage from a source without referencing the source;
 3. Purchasing or acquiring material of any kind and representing it as one’s own work; and replicating another person’s work and submitting it as one’s own work.
 4. Plagiarism can be intentional and unintentional. Intentional plagiarism occurs when the student types word for word or copies and pastes direct words from a source. Unintentional plagiarism occurs when a student does not master the material to the degree he/she can write in his/her own words resulting in using phrases, ideas, words, and factual information directly from the source. The best way to avoid plagiarism is to read, study, and master the source information while making brief notes. The student then sets the source information aside and while using his/her own brief notes crafts polished grammatically correct sentences.
 5. Student use of AI (Artificial Intelligence) to write papers for assignment submissions is not in adherence to the student code of ethics at CCS.

Policy Concerning the Academic Use of Artificial Intelligence (AI)

Background

As Christians, truth and integrity are primary tenets of our faith, and we are commended by the Apostle Paul to: “Be diligent to present yourself approved to God as a worker who does not need to be ashamed, accurately handling the word of truth” (2 Tim 2:15). At Cornerstone College & Seminary (CCS), scholastic honesty and integrity are the foundations upon which an academic career is built. We want our students to not only achieve their educational goals, but to do so with integrity. In ministry, integrity is everything (2 Cor. 1:12; Titus 2:7; and 1 Tim. 4:12). Walking with integrity affirms your witness to the world as an image bearer of Christ (Gen. 1:27). Preparing for ministry is part of your ministry, and choosing to pursue higher education at a Christian college shows your desire to use your mind to serve God. “The mind of the discerning acquires knowledge, And the ear of the wise seeks knowledge (Prov 18:15).

The recent development of Artificial Intelligence (AI) tools has prompted questions about whether they are suitable for academic purposes. There are many ethical concerns, the chief among which is that AI draws from myriad sources to respond or provide information as a human. An AI-produced response cannot be challenged, critiqued, or evaluated because it is not attributed to specific sources. It is, essentially, a ‘crowdsourced’ synthesis of data, functionally equivalent to citing Wikipedia in a formal academic paper. Because AI responses have no attributional pedigree, use of AI tools should be limited in academic settings. While there are many opportunities for abuse, not all uses of AI are considered unethical. Here are some examples of ethical uses of AI in academic environments:

- Research Assistance: AI can aid in topic selection, source finding, key concept identification, and exploring diverse perspectives on a subject.
- Brainstorming and Outlining: AI can be prompted to generate ideas.
- Summarization: AI can help distill lengthy journal articles or academic research papers into concise summaries and can help the student understand complex materials. (Note that any summaries used in assignments must cite their original source, not the AI that produced the summary.)
- Data Visualization: AI tools can be used to create charts, graphs, and other visual representations of data, enhancing the presentation of research findings.
- Data Analysis: AI tools can analyze complex data sets and identify relationships among data, as well as summarize key findings suggested by data.
- Accessibility Support: AI can be employed for text-to-speech or voice recognition, provide captioning or transcripts of media sources, and otherwise convert learning materials into multimodal forms, enabling more effective support for the diverse needs of learners.

If a student is ever in doubt whether their planned use of AI is ethical, they should consult their instructor or leadership at CCS. The policy that follows acknowledges ethical use of AI, while also prohibiting unethical use of AI. We encourage students to understand this policy and seek clarification if any aspect of the policy is unclear.

Scope

This “Policy Concerning the Academic Use of Artificial Intelligence” is for students, faculty, and staff at CCS. It applies to all academic work. For clarity, this policy refers to AI tools that are of a general “query-answer” style, such as Bing CoPilot, Chat-GPT, among others. It does not refer to purpose-built AI capabilities, such as dedicated grammar checkers, which are integrated into common productivity software. To say it simply, this policy applies to those AIs in which you can ask a question, and the AI responds with a detailed answer of words that are not your own.

Policy

All work by students must be an original creation by the student. The exception is for works to which the student has given proper credit by use of proper citations. The use of AI to create novel content for academic purposes is prohibited. There are two exceptions to this prohibition: 1) an instructor specifically authorizes use of AI for a specific purpose; and 2) the student's use of AI is within the "ethical use" exceptions (see background section of this policy for what is considered ethical use). When AI is used under these exceptions and the results are incorporated into a student's submission, the use of AI must be disclosed (cited) within the resultant paper or product.

The use of AI to academically cheat is prohibited. Forms of AI cheating include, inter alia, producing papers or writing prompt responses (in whole or in part), creating essays (in whole or in part), plagiarizing, assisting in answering test questions, helping to paraphrase a quote, using AI to summarize another's work when the assignment requires a summary, or in any other way defeating standards of academic and Christian integrity. If in doubt, the principle the student must remember is that all work must be a student's own creation unless properly cited as the work of others.

Students should understand that detection methods of AI use and AI evasion are employed by CCS. The use of AI without prior permission will be considered tantamount to plagiarism since AI generated material contains unacknowledged and uncited content.

ETHICS VIOLATION ADJUDICATION PROCESS

1. Students may report ethics violations to any member of faculty or staff.
2. The faculty or staff member who has discovered or has been informed of the violation must report it to the President or Provost.
3. The President or Provost will task the Ethics Committee to investigate the matter, gathering information from as many eyewitnesses as possible and from the person accused of wrongdoing.
4. If the Committee has probable cause that the accused has violated the Code of Ethics, it may require that the accused attend a formal hearing.
 - a. The accused may choose to have representation and/or witnesses present.
 - b. The Ethics Committee is strongly encouraged to allow the accused person to record formal hearings.
 - i. However, mass distribution without the expressed written consent of the chosen representative of the Ethics Committee and the accused person is prohibited.
5. If the Committee is not convinced that wrongdoing has occurred, then it will notify the President or Provost in writing.

6. If the accused person confesses to an ethics violation, the Committee can use the confession to submit its judgment to the President or Provost.
 - a. If the Committee is not satisfied with the confession, it may require that the accused person attend a formal hearing to establish further wrongdoing.
7. If wrongdoing has been established, the Committee shall recommend discipline to the President or Provost, who shall have the discretion to act in accordance with the recommendation.
 - a. The Ethics Committee may recommend dismissal as a form of discipline.
 - i. The offending party must appeal the decision to the CCS Board within 7 days.
 - ii. Any decision of the Board based on the appeal shall be final.
 - iii. A dismissed student may reapply for admission no sooner than two regular terms after the offense (e.g., a student dismissed in fall may reapply for the next fall term). The Ethics Committee may make an admissions recommendation.
 - b. Any recommendation short of dismissal must come with a pathway to restoration.

STUDENT GRIEVANCE POLICY

Purpose statement: Provide a fair, equitable, orderly, and efficient pathway for students to find a solution for grievances in academic and student services matters.

Recipients of services: Current CCS students

Provider of services: Student Grievance Counsel (Dean of Students, chair; Dean of Academics, Administrative Dean, and one faculty member)

Examples of academic grievances: Arbitrary and /or capricious action by a faculty member, application of academic policy, final course grade dispute, unjust dismissal from a program.

Examples of Student services grievance: Arbitrary and/or capricious action by staff, interpretation of college policy, unfair application of college policy.

The purpose of this grievance policy is to provide a fair, equitable, orderly, and efficient process of additional formal support for students who cannot find resolution through the information steps in problem solving at the college. Students who initially have a problem will take the following steps prior to filing a formal grievance report with the Student Grievance Counsel.

Level 1 Academic grievance:

1. The student will meet with the professor for a resolution. If that is not sufficient, the student takes step two below.
2. The student will meet with the academic dean to find resolution.

Level 1 Student services grievance:

1. The student will meet with the staff or faculty member in charge of the service for a resolution. If that is not sufficient, the student takes step two below.
2. The student will meet with the administrative dean to find resolution.

Students are expected to follow the above informal grievance steps prior to filing a formal grievance complaint with the Student Grievance Counsel. If the student is not satisfied with the outcome from the level 1 process, the student will then proceed to a level 2 complaint.

Level 2 Academic or Student Services Grievance

Upon receiving a student formal grievance form, the student grievance counsel will fact find, meet with the student, meet with the involved staff or faculty members, and formulate an action plan, and render a written decision within 15 business days unless additional time is needed due to extenuating circumstances. Students must file a formal grievance form within 30 business days or six weeks from the date of the situation. The grievance form may be submitted to the Dean of Students through the grievance form link: <https://forms.gle/oUtC2y5cT4NB5P1T9>

The grievance form may also be found on the college website under student services.

Level 3 Academic or Student Services Grievance

Should a student continue to be unsatisfied with the formal grievance decision by the Student Grievance Counsel, the student may make an appeal to the college president. The student must email the Dean of Students to make this request within 20 business days of the counsel's grievance decision. The appeal decision from the college president is final and the president's decision will be delivered to the student via email.

The Student Grievance Counsel will investigate and take appropriate disciplinary action with any student who retaliates against staff, students, faculty, or the college based on the final grievance decision.

The college maintains written and/or electronic records of all grievances. Counsel meetings with students will be recorded.

Unless there is a risk to the safety of students, staff, or others, the student may continue in the class and/or program while the counsel investigates and a final decision is made.

Once the counsel makes a Level 2 decision, the student may be removed from the class, program, and/or college.

The Student Grievance Counsel can neither formulate nor change college policies.

ACADEMIC PROGRAMS

CERTIFICATE AND DIPLOMA DIVISION

The Certificate and Diploma programs offer Biblical education to any Christian who has a desire to study God's Word. It is focused on training laity, Sunday School Teachers, and Church Officers. There are no prerequisites to enter these programs, but a high school diploma or GED is recommended.

Biblical Counseling Certificate – 12 credits in four prescribed courses

Youth Ministry Certificate – 12 credits in four prescribed courses

Missions Certificate – 12 credits in four prescribed courses

Digital Ministry Certificate – 12 credits in four prescribed courses

Bible Certificate - 15 credits of undergraduate Bible courses

Biblical Studies Diploma - 30 credits of undergraduate Bible course work

DEGREE DIVISION

In order to be accepted into the Degree Division, a student must have a high school diploma or GED. The requirements for each of the degrees offered through Cornerstone College & Seminary are for students who have matriculated through FBIS/CCS and met all the requirements of each degree program. These new programs are effective as of July 1, 2022. Students must be continuously enrolled to be grandfathered under an old program. Barring special circumstances, students who have ceased enrollment will be asked to complete requirements for one of the new programs when they choose to resume their studies.

Students transferring from other educational institutions with non-biblical degrees will be required to take prerequisites for the degree program they are entering at Cornerstone College & Seminary.

Transfer students must submit previous school transcripts to the Registrar. They may discuss degree, prerequisite, and course schedule options with the Registrar and/or the Academic Dean.

ASSOCIATE AND BACHELOR'S DEGREES

CCS offers Associate and Bachelor's degrees that are "modular" and "stackable." Modular means that degree requirements are built on three cores: Bible, General Education and Major. Stackable means that all requirements for associate degrees are built into the requirements for bachelor's degrees. The credit requirements for undergraduate degrees are as follows:

Degree	Bible and Theology Credits	General Education Credits	Practical Ministry Credits	Open Electives	Total
Associate of Bible	24	21	N/A	15	60
Bachelor of Bible	42	42	N/A	36	120
Associate of Theology	24	21	N/A	15	60
Bachelor of Theology	48	42	N/A	30	120
Associate of Ministry Leadership	18	21	15	6	60
Bachelor of Ministry Leadership	30	42	33	15	120
Associate of Ministry Management	18	21	15	6	60
Bachelor of Ministry Management	30	42	33	15	120
Bachelor of Religious Studies	30	36	N/A	54	120

Associate and Bachelor of Biblical Studies

Description: This degree exists at the junction of a passion for sharing the gospel and a love for Scripture. The CCS degree in Biblical Studies is taught from the foundation of Biblical truth and the perspective of the great commission. Students will explore the history, context and message of the Bible deeply and explore answers to significant questions of truth, life and purpose. Students will develop their knowledge of God's Word as they apply it to contemporary issues and ministry context.

As a result of completing this degree, you will be able to

1. Evaluate historical and theological developments in Christianity.
2. Examine the content of Scripture and its application in modern culture.
3. Examine the Biblical narrative of creation, fall, redemption and restoration in the context of various genres of Scripture.
4. Demonstrate methods to study and teach the Bible more effectively.
5. Evaluate one's calling for ministry roles, as well as seminary or graduate studies.

Program Goals

- Develop a deep understanding of the Bible: study the content and themes of the Bible in-depth, including its historical and literary contexts. Learn how to analyze and interpret biblical texts and how to apply them to contemporary issues.
- Gain knowledge of the historical and cultural context of the Bible. Learning the cultural, social, and political context in which the Bible was written will help students better understand the meaning and significance of biblical texts.
- Develop critical thinking skills by analyzing and interpreting complex biblical texts and engaging with diverse perspectives and interpretations.
- Learn how to conduct research and analyze sources, including biblical texts, historical documents, and scholarly articles.
- Prepare for a career in ministry or pastoral work by acquiring the knowledge and skills necessary to effectively serve a ministry congregation.

Overall, a Biblical Studies degree aims to provide students with a deep understanding of the Bible and its significance in the world, as well as the tools and skills necessary to engage with biblical texts in a critical and informed way.

Degree Core Course Descriptions and Objectives

BI 101 Old Testament Survey

Old Testament Survey is a core course exploring all the books of the Old Testament. A holistic presentation of the OT that introduces the student to historical, cultural, literary, and methodological issues. The course includes introduction to the authorship and contents of the Old Testament books with attention given to important persons and places, as well as to key events in the 1500-year history of the Old Testament. Emphasis in the course will address the book's biblical-theological development in order to reclaim its practical use and teaching in the church. Special emphasis is also placed on historical perspectives of Christology - the heralding of Christ the Messiah. As a result of completing this course, the student will:

1. Survey the Bible (OT/NT) as the unified word of God – one book, many chapters.
2. Appraise the historical setting of the Old Testament.
3. Explain genre and the methods used to interpret Old Testament books.
4. Describe the occasion, message (theme), and structure (general outline) of each book;
5. State the role of Christ in Old Testament typology and prophecy.

Associate and Bachelor of Theology

Expand your knowledge of Christianity by participating in studies, in theological research, writing and teaching. Students will gain a stronger understanding of the central doctrines of the Christian faith, historical developments and theological methodology, Study includes biblical languages, Church history, Christian theology, and a Biblical worldview. Students will also choose a specialized concentration for research, application, and practical ministry integration. In completing this degree, students will:

- Analyze primary research materials, demonstrating knowledge of larger contexts and the ability to interpret scripture.
- Identify and engage diverse and overlapping cultural and social dynamics.
- Evaluate one's professional competence to better serve the Church and other ministry settings.
- Demonstrate understanding of biblical hermeneutics and basic systematic theology.
- Examine contemporary issues relating to the Scripture in the Old and New Testament.
- Independently identify, pursue, and acquire knowledge in the field of Theology

Program Goals

- Develop a deep understanding of theological concepts: One of the primary goals of a theology degree is to develop a thorough understanding of the fundamental concepts and principles of Christian theology, including the nature of God, salvation, Christology, the Holy Spirit, and the church.
- Encourage critical thinking: A theology degree aims to foster critical thinking and analytical skills, enabling students to engage with complex theological issues and questions in a thoughtful and informed manner. This involves the ability to assess different perspectives, evaluate arguments, and engage in constructive dialogue.
- Develop strong research and writing skills: A theology degree typically involves extensive reading, research, and writing, which helps students develop strong research skills and the ability to communicate their ideas clearly and effectively.
- Foster personal and spiritual growth: A theology degree can also be a transformative experience, helping students to grow personally and spiritually. This involves reflecting on one's own beliefs and values, exploring different theological perspectives, and developing a deeper understanding of one's faith and relationship with God.
- Prepare for ministry or other vocations: A theology degree can prepare students for a variety of careers, including pastoral ministry, teaching, counseling, social work, and non-profit work. It can also provide a strong foundation for further study in theology or related fields.
- Equip students with the knowledge, skills, and spiritual formation necessary to engage in meaningful theological reflection and service to others.

TH 101 Systematic Theology

A survey of the church's essential doctrinal teaching with emphasis and support on the Holy Scriptures. It includes teaching on the Doctrine of the Word of God, Doctrine of God, Doctrine of Man, Doctrine of Christ, Doctrine of the Application of Redemption, Doctrine of the Church, and Doctrine of the Future. As a result of completing this course, students will be able to:

1. Identify the truths of historic, orthodox Christianity that they “may no longer tossed to and fro . . . by every wind of doctrine” (Eph 4:14 ESV).
2. Display appreciation for “contend[ing] for the faith that was once for all delivered to the saints” (Jud 3 ESV).
3. Define systematic theology and the doctrines it comprises.
4. Distinguish between major and minor doctrines.
5. Evaluate theology for soundness.
6. Articulate sound theology in conversation and in prepared remarks.

TH 111 Essential Elements of Christianity

Whether we recognize it or not, we have all been influenced by various cultural, religious, and family values and morals. As a result, we express personal opinions about these matters. Unfortunately, we often don't pause to examine or clarify why we believe what we believe. As believers, we must be intentional in articulating and validating a personal worldview by defining what is believed and defend why it is believed. This course is an introduction to the concept of a biblical worldview and the understanding that any worldview colors and informs our view on contemporary moral issues. This course will introduce critical thinking skills. Religious and philosophical worldviews will also be explored. As a result of completing this course, each student must critically reflect on the biblical worldview of many viewpoints and ethical issues that society offers, learn how to effectively communicate the biblical/Christian worldview in a multicultural society, and develop a consistently biblical approach to viewing and living our life. As a result of completing this course, the student will:

1. Identify critical thinking principles and logical fallacies commonly used in argumentation.
2. Define the term “worldview” and articulate a biblical/Christian worldview.
3. Understand the five worldview questions of origin, identity, meaning, morality, and destiny.
4. Identify key components in religious worldviews.
5. Differentiate between a biblical and non-biblical approach to ethical and contemporary issues.

TH 131 Contemporary Theology

This course is designed to explore the theological issues and debates that have emerged in the 21st century. This course builds upon the historical foundations of Christian theology, but also examines how contemporary issues and developments have impacted the ways in which theology is understood and practiced today. Through readings, lectures, and discussions, students will gain a deeper understanding of the contemporary theological landscape, and develop critical thinking skills that will enable them to engage with theological issues in a thoughtful and informed manner. Students will also be expected to engage in independent research and writing, and to contribute to class discussions and debates.

Throughout the course, students will engage with a variety of contemporary theological thinkers and texts, as well as engage in critical reflection and discussion. As a result of completing this course, students will:

1. Analyze the intersection of faith and contemporary culture, including issues related to race, gender, identity, and social and prosperity theology.
2. Appraise the relationship between scientific discoveries and theological understanding, including discussions around evolution, cosmology, and ecology.
3. Discuss how theology informs and intersects with issues of social justice, including discussions around poverty, inequality, and political action.
4. Evaluate the challenges and opportunities of interfaith dialogue, and the implications of religious pluralism for Christian theology.
5. Examine the role of personal spirituality in contemporary theology, including discussions around bible study, contemplative practices, and the role of the Holy Spirit in the Christian life.

TH 221 Biblical Theology I

This course is an introduction to the subject of biblical theology with specific attention given to the primary theological themes of the Old and New Testament. It explores how each testament informs the redemptive storyline of the Bible. Various soteriological themes and theological systems such as dispensationalism and covenant theology are addressed. This is to lay a foundation for understanding the relationship between biblical theology and current theological issues. As a result of completing this course, students will be able to

1. Summarize the shape and characteristics of biblical theology
2. Explain how the major theological themes of the Bible relate to the biblical metanarrative
3. Evaluate the theological unity of the two testaments
4. Explain specific theological themes in depth such as the attributes of God, the authority of scripture, and the nature of the Trinity.

TH 222 Biblical Theology II

This course continues the study of the central themes and message of the Bible as a whole, tracing the development of these themes throughout the Old and New Testaments. In this course, students will explore the biblical narrative from creation to the new creation, examining key theological concepts such as covenant, redemption, and eschatology. Throughout the course, students will engage with a variety of biblical texts, theological works, and historical and contemporary perspectives on biblical theology. They will develop skills in biblical interpretation, critical thinking, and theological reflection, and learn to articulate their own theological convictions in light of the biblical narrative. By the end of the course, students will have a deepened understanding of the unity and coherence of the biblical message and be able to:

1. Analyze, evaluate, and critique proposals for Biblical theology from an understanding
2. of hermeneutical and methodological issues
3. Evaluate scripture theologically in the areas specified in the course description.
4. Apply methods of Biblical theology to certain topics in the course to other Biblical topics

5. Explain several theological themes in Scripture and state how they are different or related at different times and in different authors
6. Identify and explain ways in which Biblical theology relates to the Christian life and to ministry

BI 240 Exegesis and Language Tools

This course is designed to equip students with the necessary language tools and skills to engage in biblical exegesis. The course will focus on the study of the original languages of the Bible (Hebrew and Greek) and the use of language tools to deepen understanding of the biblical text. Through readings, lectures, and practical exercises, students will develop a deeper understanding of the original languages of the Bible and the tools necessary for biblical exegesis. The course will focus on both Old and New Testament texts, and will emphasize the importance of careful, responsible, and contextually-sensitive interpretation of the biblical text. Students will be expected to engage in independent study and writing, as well as participate in class discussions and critiques of each other's exegesis work. AS a result of completing this course, the student will be able to:

1. Discuss the fundamentals of Hebrew and Greek grammar, syntax, and vocabulary, including the use of verb forms, case endings, and idiomatic expressions.
2. Explore the principles and methods of textual criticism by comparing and evaluating different versions of the biblical text to determine the most likely original reading.
3. Demonstrate proficiency in the use of language tools such as lexicons, concordances, and commentaries to aid in biblical interpretation. (This will include both print and digital resources.)
4. Summarize the process of biblical exegesis, which involves the careful study and interpretation of the biblical text in its original historical and literary context.
5. From selected examples of Scripture, describe the genre, authorship, and cultural background of the text.

PM 450 Ministry Leadership Internship

This course provides practical application of youth ministry concepts and applications through a variety of field-based education under the supervision and encouragement of an experienced ministry mentor. This course requires 90 hours of field-based learning. On completing this course, students will

1. Appraise their personal ministry vision and vocational plans based on the experiences of the field-based study.
2. Validate their knowledge, skills and abilities that affect their ability to provide ministry leadership in the context of digital ministry.
3. Choose/design, execute, and evaluate a measurable learning plan and portfolio based on ministry.

PM 490 Ministry Leadership Capstone

This course is designed to allow the student to utilize skills and insights acquired during the completion of the undergraduate program in ministry studies. The goal of this course is to provide the student with an opportunity to demonstrate a biblically based praxis of ministry leadership based on the entirety of the program content. To that end, the student will be expected to construct a biblical rationale for ministry, research an opportunity to practically apply program content, engage with ministry leaders, plan and execute said practical application, and engage in reflection for the purpose of evaluation and assessment. As a result of completing this course, the student will

1. Explain a biblical rationale for ministry (a personal philosophy of ministry.)
2. Research a need within a ministry setting and propose a solution for this need
3. Execute a solution for the need
4. Reflect on the process

Analyze primary research materials, demonstrating knowledge of larger contexts and the ability to interpret scripture.

Identify and engage diverse and overlapping cultural and social dynamics.

Evaluate one's professional competence to better serve the Church and other ministry settings.

Demonstrate understanding of biblical hermeneutics and basic systematic theology.

Examine contemporary issues relating to the Scripture in the Old and New Testament.

Independently identify, pursue, and acquire knowledge in the field of Theology

GRADUATE PROGRAMS

Master of Biblical Studies

Program Description and Objectives

This degree is a 36-credit graduate program that provides students with a comprehensive understanding of the Bible, including its historical context, overall narrative, and its theological and ethical implications. The program is designed for students who are interested in pursuing careers in teaching, research, ministry, or public service. While the MABS program is designed to be flexible and to accommodate the needs of students with different backgrounds and interests, it will focus on equipping students with a deeper understanding of the Bible and its role in doctrine, faith, practice, history and culture. All of this is accomplished through the lens of the inerrancy and authority of Scripture. As a result of completing the program, the student will:

1. Gain a deep understanding of the biblical text: This includes developing an advanced understanding of the historical, literary, and theological dimensions of the Bible.
2. Develop exegetical skills: This involves learning how to analyze and interpret the biblical text in its original languages (Hebrew and Greek) and within its historical and cultural context.
3. Describe the biblical world, including the social, political, and religious context in which the Bible was written, as well as its reception and interpretation throughout history.
4. Demonstrate critical thinking and analytical skills: This involves developing the ability to think critically about the biblical text and to engage in scholarly debate and dialogue with other scholars in the field.
5. Evaluate the implications of the biblical text for contemporary issues: This involves exploring how the biblical text can be applied to contemporary issues, including theological, ethical, and social issues, as well as exploring the relationship between the biblical text and other areas of study, such as philosophy, sociology, and anthropology.

Program Goals

The MABS program is a valuable investment for students who are interested in learning more about the Bible and its impact on the world. The program provides students with the knowledge and skills they need to succeed in a variety of careers. Students will:

- Develop a deeper understanding of the Bible and its role in history and culture.
- Learn how to think critically about biblical issues and to communicate effectively about them.
- Conduct original research on a topic of your choice.
- Demonstrate the skills and knowledge necessary for a career in preaching, teaching, research, ministry, or public service.

Course Descriptions

BI 550 Graduate Biblical Survey

This course will trace the outline of the Bible and address the background and thematic elements of each major genre of Scripture, considering them each individually and synthetically. This survey course will provide the student a working understanding of the overall plan of God as revealed in the Word, providing a foundation for further Bible study. As a result of completing this course, the student will:

1. Explore a variety of connections between the Old Testament and the New Testament.
2. Demonstrate knowledge of the cultural, religious and geographic influences across biblical genres and texts
3. Describe the major themes and theological issues of genres within both testaments
4. Articulate an understanding of biblical revelation in the context of scriptural authenticity and authority
5. Demonstrate knowledge of the life and ministry of Jesus as portrayed in the New Testament
6. Fulfill the mandate of 2 Tim. 2:15 (Do your best to present yourself to God as one approved, a worker who does not need to be ashamed and who correctly handles the word of truth.)

TH 550 Graduate Theological Survey

This class introduces students to systematic theology and examines seven major doctrinal subjects in detail. Using Scripture as the primary authority in the study, this course will examine evangelical Protestant doctrinal positions, evaluate historic and contemporary points of disagreement, and provide practical applications of these doctrines. As a result of completing this course, the student will:

1. Apply a systematic approach to answering the question of what the whole Bible teaches us today about any given topic.
2. Identify several key Old and New Testament passages that affirm and define the contours of evangelical Protestant theology.

3. Distinguish between evangelical Protestant theology and several other theological streams, including Roman Catholicism, Liberal Protestant theology, and Mormonism.
4. Produce a personal doctrinal statement, summarizing their doctrinal beliefs about the Bible, God, man, salvation, the church, and the future.

BI 601 Advanced Hermeneutics

Advanced Hermeneutics is a graduate-level course that studies the principles and methods of interpreting the Bible. The course covers a wide range of topics, including the nature of language and meaning, the historical context of the Bible, literary forms of the Bible and the role of the reader in interpretation. The course is designed to help students develop their skills in critical thinking and analysis, as well as their ability to communicate effectively about the Bible. Upon completion of the course, students will be able to:

1. Analyze the literary and historical context of a biblical text.
2. Identify the theological themes of a biblical text.
3. Apply the Bible to their own lives and ministry.
4. Evaluate “meaning” and “application” of a Scriptural text
5. Communicate effective and accurate truths about the Bible to others.
6. Justify selected scriptural excerpts using the same hermeneutic that the Bible itself uses

PM 501 Homiletics/Methods of Teaching

Homiletics begins with Hermeneutics, which is rightly interpreting the Word of God. This course builds on the skills of Biblical interpretation in creating preaching that demonstrates stylistic differences in biblical exposition, with an emphasis on advanced expositional techniques. Special attention will be given to structure, style, and the use of creativity in message development and delivery. This class is pivotal for anyone who is going to teach and preach the Bible. As a result of completing this course, the student will:

1. Analyze biblical texts using critical, historical, literary, and theological approaches to the purpose of preaching.
2. Construct effective sermon introductions, illustrations, and conclusions that utilize best practices of oral communication.
3. Integrate exegetical skills on biblical texts with a message for a contemporary congregation.
4. Evaluate their own preaching to determine ways to improve language and delivery for effective preaching.
5. Deliver sermons that utilize engaging vocal dynamics and body movement.

BI 548 Graduate Language Tools

This course equips students for biblical hermeneutics and homiletics by introducing them to the languages the Bible was written in and gives them tools to understand how the translations of those languages influences the way we understand the scriptures today. The course includes an introduction to the biblical Hebrew and Greek languages, including word formation and meaning, the verbal system, and syntax. Emphasis is placed on developing skills in the use of concordance and lexicons, as well as the use of various linguistic helps and differing English translations. This course will help students make the most of the resources available, so they can study the meaning of God's word very deeply. The word study and exegesis skills gained will help students to become more effective preachers and teachers of God's word. It will help them to develop the skills and habits that make an effective preaching/teaching ministry possible. As a result of completing this course, the student will:

1. Provide a basic description of the Hebrew and Greek Languages
2. Define select Greek and Hebrew vocabulary words.
3. Explain the basic steps involved in exegesis.
4. Employ language tools in the process of interpretation.
5. Exegete an Old Testament and New Testament Passage.
6. Apply the results of exegesis in a contemporary setting.

BI 501 Advanced OT Survey

This course aims to provide students with an in-depth understanding of the Old Testament, its historical context, literary genres, and theological themes. Attention is given to the complexities and nuances of the text. By the end of the course, students should have a deep and nuanced understanding of the Old Testament and its theological significance, as well as the ability to engage critically with the text and its interpretive challenges. As a result of completing the course, students will:

1. Explain the historical and cultural background of the Old Testament.
2. Describe the various literary genres present in the Old Testament, including narrative, poetry, wisdom literature, prophecy, and apocalyptic.
3. Analyze and interpret specific passages of the Old Testament, including those that are challenging or controversial.
4. Evaluate theological themes that run throughout the Old Testament, such as covenant, redemption, and the nature of God.
5. Analyze various approaches to Old Testament theology and hermeneutics and understand their strengths and weaknesses.
6. Compare the relevance and application of the Old Testament to contemporary Christian life and thought.
7. Appraise the beauty and complexity of the Old Testament and its enduring significance for the faith and practice of the church.

BI 502 Advanced NT Survey

This course aims to provide students with an in-depth understanding of the New Testament, its historical context, literary genres, and theological themes. The course builds upon the foundational knowledge of the Old Testament gained in BI 501 and delves deeper into the complexities and nuances of the text. By the end of the course, students should have a deep and nuanced understanding of the New Testament and its theological significance, as well as the ability to engage critically with the text and its interpretive challenges. As a result of completing this course, the student will:

1. Develop a thorough understanding of the historical and cultural background of the New Testament.
2. Explain the various literary genres present in the New Testament, including narrative, history, epistle, and apocalyptic.
3. Analyze and interpret specific passages of the New Testament, including those that are challenging or controversial.
4. Evaluate the theological themes that run throughout the New Testament, such as Christology, soteriology, and ecclesiology.
5. Analyze various approaches to New Testament theology and hermeneutics and understand their strengths and weaknesses.
6. Compare the relevance and application of the New Testament to contemporary Christian life and thought.
7. Appraise the beauty and complexity of the New Testament and its enduring significance for the faith and practice of the church.

EN 501 Thesis Writing - Capstone Project

This course will help guide and instruct the student on writing a graduate level thesis in MLA format as required by the seminary. It will guide the student through the matters of style, scholarly citation, standard practices and expanded array of digital sources. Upon successful completion of this course, students will be able to:

1. Identify sound thesis research practices.
2. Analyze literature as it relates to the student's research topic.
3. Present clearly and concisely research components for thesis research.
4. Evaluate and produce scholarly sources suitable for thesis research.
5. Develop research paper title, research questions, and abstract.
6. Synthesize a thorough literature review from seminal sources and current sourced research.
7. Prepare a thesis paper demonstrating scholarly research methods.
8. Present an oral presentation of thesis findings.

Master of Christian Education

Program Description and Objectives

This degree in education is designed for Christian educators who wish to continue their calling and advance in the field of Christian education. The program will address professional practice in teaching, learning and educational leadership. Coursework will focus on the five elements of an educational philosophy; the theology of education, the nature of the learner, the nature of the teaching process, the nature of the learning process and the subject matter. Educational research will culminate in development of a personal philosophy of education and a major research project. This degree will equip students to enter educational careers in Christian Educational Ministry, including classroom teaching and institutional leadership. On completion of this program, students will:

1. Demonstrate a strong Christian worldview.
2. Evaluate appropriate professional characteristics by setting professional goals and examining and evaluating their teaching.
3. Construct a broad base knowledge in general core education subjects and extensive knowledge in their curricular area.
4. Engage in a wide range of teaching techniques and assessment practices, promoting learners' construction of understanding and higher order thinking.
5. Develop relevant learning for students of varied educational, cultural and economic backgrounds.
6. Demonstrate the ability to use technology for their own learning and integrate available technology in their teaching to enhance student learning.
7. Demonstrate the ability to integrate a Biblical Philosophy of Education in teaching and designing curriculum.

Program Goals

The Master of Arts in Christian Education (MACE) is a professional degree that prepares students for leadership roles in Christian education. The program provides students with the knowledge, skills, and experience they need to design, implement, and evaluate effective educational programs in a variety of settings, including churches, schools, and parachurch organizations. The MACE program includes a core curriculum of courses in Christian theology, biblical studies, and educational theory. The goal of this program is to:

- Equip students with increased knowledge and understanding of Christian theology and biblical studies
- Provide enhanced skills in teaching, leadership, and administration
- Open doors to greater opportunities for career advancement in Christian education
- Lead students to a deeper understanding of how to use education to promote spiritual growth and development

2. Explain required factors for the cultivation of an intimate relationship with God and Christ-like character in private practices and through community.
3. Describe in writing how their personalities influence spiritual orientation and the process of spiritual and character formation.
4. Identify, articulate, and apply key Christian practices and disciplines of the spiritual life in a guided time of spiritual assessment and practice.
5. Identify both the primary and secondary elements of spiritual renewal and apply these factors to personal and congregational formation.
6. Provide a framework for the understanding and practice of spiritual mentoring and discipleship.
7. Recognize the various challenges to spiritual formation that ministerial life present and develop a plan to maintain spiritual vitality in vocational practice in terms of a personal philosophy of ministry

CE 501 Biblical Foundations of Education

This course provides an exploration of the construction of a Biblically sound system of Christian education and of the church as an educational institution. The course will focus on subject integration and the unification of various academic disciplines with a Scriptural view of all knowledge. This is rooted in the seminal philosophy that “all truth is God’s truth.” In addition, examination will be given to the wealth and depth Christian resources for education. As a result of completing this course, the student will:

1. Articulate the educational mission of the church as mandated by Christ.
2. Explain the vital importance of Christian education in this age.
3. Express his or her vocation (calling) in terms of Christian education.
4. Formulate a systematic response to the need for lifelong discipleship preparation of the community of apostolic believers.
5. Evaluate the foundational elements and issues that comprise Christian education.
6. Have formed a preliminary comprehensive theology of Christian education from an apostolic perspective.
7. Explain and apply some of the key theories that inform Christian education.

CE 502 Communicating Biblical Truth

This course is a survey of theory and practice in contemporary communication useful in the context of Biblical and theological teaching and preaching. Consideration is given to Biblical content organization and teaching methodologies with hermeneutical principles. As a result of completing this course, the student will:

1. Demonstrate the use of creative techniques of communication such as written exercises, drama, storytelling, art activities, lecture, discussion, case studies, and music activities in class participation and presentations.
2. Define the hermeneutical principles related to inductive Bible study and integrate careful exegetical study of a Biblical text.
3. Discuss the literary genres found in Scripture and be knowledgeable regarding the theology of the unique process of teaching and learning.
4. Evaluate basic elements in learning theory and assess one's personal learning style through analyzing learning style instruments.
5. Critique lessons and Bible teaching skills of self on a prepared evaluation form.
6. Distinguish between models of teaching and preaching for communicating Biblical truth.
7. Develop and enhance a Biblical character trait into one's life and ministry.

CE 503 Educational Psychology in Christian Context

This course is an introduction to current issues in educational psychology. Topics include Biblical integration, child and adolescent development, learning, motivation, information processing and evaluation. This course introduces students to research-based concepts and principles about human learning, development, and motivation and how that information is applied to classroom teaching. Careful attention is paid to Biblical integration of these concepts and principles as it relates to educational practice. The course will review concepts of human growth and development for those who will be working with children and adolescents in educational settings. As a result of completing this course, the student will:

1. Recognize and integrate developmental theories with Scriptural foundations to explore how these affect the decisions of a teacher, instructional procedures and classroom management.

2. Describe the appropriate instructional modifications to accommodate identified learner abilities and needs.
3. Examine the major learning theories and the application and contribution to the teaching-learning process and assess these in relation to Biblical concepts of the human condition
4. Identify how individual experiences, abilities, and prior learning, as well as language, culture, family, and community influence student learning and academic success.
5. Evaluate tools utilized for assessment, evaluation, testing and measurement of learning.

CE 504 Curriculum and Methods in Christian Ministry

This course will explore best practices in instructional theory as it relates to the twin topics of developing curriculum and promoting effective instruction. By developing expertise in teaching expectations and student achievement, the learner will be positioned to plan, assess and implement instruction to meet the educational goals of a ministry. In addition, attention will be devoted to developing strategies of ministry effectiveness and teacher development. As a result of completing this course, the student will:

1. Identify sources of curriculum and assess content relative to the educational philosophy of a particular ministry.
2. Evaluate instructional plans and promote alternative goals and strategies when necessary
3. Design a scope and sequence ordered to the delivery of content and provide sustained opportunities for learning.
4. Apply best practices of classroom management in the context of integrating teaching strategies for various content areas.
5. Develop a program to assess and improve instructor effectiveness
6. Demonstrate biblical integration to a curriculum of study

CE 505 Christian Education for an Information Age

Instructional (sometimes called educational) technology is becoming an increasingly important part of all aspects of education, including Christian education. New and emerging technologies become widely used almost as quickly as they are introduced. Where in the past, the teachers led the way to new technology, today it seems the opposite is true. Students expect to be utilizing these technologies to learn and complete coursework, using these tools in the classroom as easily as they do outside of class. These technologies will enhance learning, improve motivation and engagement, increase accessibility, individualize instruction, and improve communication. This course will examine the requisite skills and ideas for integrating technology effectively into your teaching. As a result of completing this course, the student will:

1. Explain how technologies can enhance their teaching, professional work and communication, and personal professional development.
2. Design technology-enhanced lesson plans, activities, and resources.
3. Identify resources to assist you in learning how to integrate technologies in the future.
4. Demonstrate abilities to use digital technologies in an educational setting.
5. Evaluate strategies to more effectively teach the gospel utilizing emerging technologies.

CE 506 Issues in Christian Education

This course will survey issues and trends impacting Christian education. The primary focus will be to help students formulate a foundation for theological and organizational thinking about various influences on educational process and procedure. High priority is given to development of logical reasoning, clear writing and analytical skills in order to facilitate study of educational issues from a scriptural perspective while at the same time maintaining an open, informed and critical approach. As a result of completing this course, the student will:

1. Identify contemporary issues in Christian education
2. Evaluate these issues relative to a Scriptural and philosophical perspective
3. Appraise possible and attainable solutions to contemporary issues in Christian education
4. Apply a personal and contextual analysis of educational issues relative to specific culture, geographical region and/or socio-political setting.
5. Compare and contrast issues in Christian education relative to public or secular perspectives on the same issues
6. Create a Philosophy of Education specifically addressing institutional topics and issues.

EN 501 Thesis Writing - Capstone Project

This course will help guide and instruct the student on writing a graduate level thesis in MLA format as required by the seminary. It will guide the student through the matters of style, scholarly citation, standard practices and expanded array of digital sources. Upon successful completion of this course, students will be able to:

1. Identify sound thesis research practices.
2. Analyze literature as it relates to the student's research topic.
3. Present clearly and concisely research components for thesis research.
4. Evaluate and produce scholarly sources suitable for thesis research.
5. Develop research paper title, research questions, and abstract.
6. Synthesize a thorough literature review from seminal sources and current sourced research.
7. Prepare a thesis paper demonstrating scholarly research methods.
8. Present an oral presentation of thesis findings.

Mapping of Course Outcomes to Program Objectives:

Master of Ministry Leadership

Program Description and Objectives

This graduate-level program is designed to equip individuals with the knowledge, skills, and practical experience needed to lead and manage in a ministry setting. The program focuses on developing leaders who are grounded in the Christian faith and who can lead with integrity, wisdom, and compassion. The course of study combines biblical and theological studies with practical courses in leadership and management. Students learn about topics such as spiritual formation, biblical interpretation, preaching, counseling, conflict resolution, organizational development, and strategic planning. The program includes a choice of concentrations in leadership, worship leadership, pastoral care, missions, digital ministry and nonprofit leadership. Students may have the opportunity to participate in internships or practicums, where they can gain hands-on experience in ministry settings. The Master of Ministry Leadership degree equips our students for kingdom work in the church/world as they:

1. Demonstrate knowledge of terminology, theories, concepts, practices and skills specific to the field of ministry leadership.
2. Apply biblical studies, theology and ministry leadership principles to leading a ministry or non-profit organization.
3. Demonstrate understanding of the integration of Christian worldview and culture from a ministry leadership perspective.
4. Exhibit competency in applying your knowledge to address real-life problems through both individual and group effort.
5. Provide evidence of the ability to collaborate with others in achieving shared objectives in ministry leadership.
6. Demonstrate intercultural competence in addressing issues related to understanding diversity and developing cultural awareness in ministry leadership.

Program Goals

Jesus said in Matthew “Anyone wanting to be a leader among you must be your servant. And if you want to be right at the top, you must serve like a slave. Your attitude must be like My own. For I did not come to be served, but to serve.” (20:26, 28), Then Luke said, “But among you the one who serves best will be your leader.” (22:26) This is the heart of Christian leadership and the foundation of the CCS Master of Ministry Leadership. Servanthood and leadership are inextricably linked. The better a person serves, the more God raises them up to leadership. This degree is designed for those who feel called to lead a church, or a group of people in the study of God’s word, or a nonprofit organization in their community. The goals of a Master of Ministry Leadership (MML) program are to:

- Provide students with the knowledge and skills necessary to lead a church or other ministry organization.

- Help students develop their spiritual gifts and calling.
- Prepare students for a variety of ministry roles.
- Equip students to think critically and creatively about ministry issues.
- Develop and implement a ministry vision and strategy.
- Discern God's call on their life and ministry.

Course Descriptions

BI 550 Graduate Biblical Survey

This course will trace the outline of the Bible and address the background and thematic elements of each major genre of Scripture, considering them each individually and synthetically. This survey course will provide the student a working understanding of the overall plan of God as revealed in the Word, providing a foundation for further Bible study. As a result of completing this course, the student will:

1. Explore a variety of connections between the Old Testament and the New Testament.
2. Demonstrate knowledge of the cultural, religious and geographic influences across biblical genres and texts
3. Describe the major themes and theological issues of genres within both testaments
4. Articulate an understanding of biblical revelation in the context of scriptural authenticity and authority
5. Demonstrate knowledge of the life and ministry of Jesus as portrayed in the New Testament
6. Fulfill the mandate of 2 Tim. 2:15 (Do your best to present yourself to God as one approved, a worker who does not need to be ashamed and who correctly handles the word of truth.)

TH 550 Graduate Theological Survey

This class introduces students to systematic theology and examines seven major doctrinal subjects in detail. Using Scripture as the primary authority in the study, this course will examine evangelical Protestant doctrinal positions, evaluate historic and contemporary points of disagreement, and provide practical applications of these doctrines. As a result of completing this course, the student will:

1. Apply a systematic approach to answering the question of what the whole Bible teaches us today about any given topic.
2. Identify several key Old and New Testament passages that affirm and define the contours of evangelical Protestant theology.
3. Distinguish between evangelical Protestant theology and several other theological streams, including Roman Catholicism, Liberal Protestant theology, and Mormonism.
4. Produce a personal doctrinal statement, summarizing their doctrinal beliefs about the Bible, God, man, salvation, the church, and the future.

BI 601 Advanced Hermeneutics

Advanced Hermeneutics is a graduate-level course that studies the principles and methods of interpreting the Bible. The course covers a wide range of topics, including the nature of language and meaning, the historical context of the Bible, literary forms of the Bible and the role of the reader in interpretation. The course is designed to help students develop their skills in critical thinking and analysis, as well as their ability to communicate effectively about the Bible. Upon completion of the course, students will be able to:

1. Analyze the literary and historical context of a biblical text.
2. Identify the theological themes of a biblical text.
3. Apply the Bible to their own lives and ministry.
4. Evaluate “meaning” and “application” of a Scriptural text
5. Communicate effective and accurate truths about the Bible to others.
6. Justify selected scriptural excerpts using the same hermeneutic that the Bible itself uses

PM 501 Homiletics/Methods of Teaching

Homiletics begins with Hermeneutics, which is rightly interpreting the Word of God. This course builds on the skills of Biblical interpretation in creating preaching that demonstrates stylistic differences in biblical exposition, with an emphasis on advanced expositional techniques. Special attention will be given to structure, style, and the use of creativity in message development and delivery. This class is pivotal for anyone who is going to teach and preach the Bible. As a result of completing this course, the student will:

1. Analyze biblical texts using critical, historical, literary, and theological approaches to the purpose of preaching.
2. Construct effective sermon introductions, illustrations, and conclusions that utilize best practices of oral communication.
3. Integrate exegetical skills on biblical texts with a message for a contemporary congregation.

4. Evaluate their own preaching to determine ways to improve language and delivery for effective preaching.
5. Deliver sermons that utilize engaging vocal dynamics and body movement.

HT 520 Advanced Christian Ethics

This advanced ethics course explores the difference between “ethics” and “morals” and challenges students to approach ethical topics from a basis rooted in the absolutes of God’s Word. Students will learn how to think biblically while examining such critical, timely topics as abortion, euthanasia, bioethics, human sexuality, politics, war, capital punishment, race, the arts and the environment. The Christian walk with God will be strengthened while the student formulates a strategy for a victorious ethical Christian lifestyle in today’s world. As a result of completing this course, the student will:

1. Identify four Christian ethical views.
2. Analyze why we react the way we do when confronted with ethical decisions.
3. Explain key concepts of Christian Ethics.
4. Demonstrate the different views.
5. Apply perspective on four ethical views.

PM722 Leading Spiritual Formation

This course explores critical topics in the territory of spiritual formation for ministry. It begins with an exploration of the processes and goals of spiritual formation in the life of a Christian leader from a multi-disciplinary viewpoint including personal, biblical, theological, psychological, and historical perspectives. The student is introduced to practices of the Christian faith that promote intimacy with God and Christ-likeness in character with the goal of fostering in others an ongoing personal vitality essential to ministry and the ability to facilitate spiritual renewal and consistent discipleship in others. As a result of completing this course, the student will:

1. Demonstrate their understanding of Christian spirituality and faith development with a biblical and theological rationale for the nature of spiritual life and growth.
2. Explain required factors for the cultivation of an intimate relationship with God and Christ-like character in private practices and through community.
3. Describe in writing how their personalities influence spiritual orientation and the process of spiritual and character formation.
4. Identify, articulate, and apply key Christian practices and disciplines of the spiritual life in a guided time of spiritual assessment and practice.
5. Identify both the primary and secondary elements of spiritual renewal and apply these factors to personal and congregational formation.
6. Provide a framework for the understanding and practice of spiritual mentoring and discipleship.
7. Recognize the various challenges to spiritual formation that ministerial life present and develop a plan to maintain spiritual vitality in vocational practice in terms of a personal philosophy of ministry

PM 540 Human Relations and Leadership Skills

Human Resource Management (HRM) is a vast and varied topic with many standards of practice and regulatory guidance. The HRM field of study is also vast, and includes corporate training on specific topics, certificate programs, and even doctoral degrees. HR management can be defined as the effective use of human capital in an organization through the management of people-related activities. At its core, HRM involves leadership, values, employment planning, recruitment, training, compensation, performance appraisal, and many other topics. Human Resource Management is a central function of any organization, including churches and ministries. However, it can also be argued that one of the most overlooked areas in churches and ministries is HRM. Indeed, for many students this course may be the only HRM course they take. All ministry leaders, no matter the size of the organization, play an integral role in carrying out HRM policies and practices in their organization with the stated purpose of achieving the ministry's mission and objectives. Thus, the overall goal of PM 540 HR and Leadership Skills is for ministry leaders to learn the basic principles and acquire the basic skills of human resource management. As a result of completing this course, the student will:

1. Fulfill the mandate of 2 Tim. 2:15 "Do your best to present yourself to God as one approved, a worker who has no need to be ashamed, rightly handling the word of truth" and Col 3:23 "Whatever you do, work heartily, as for the Lord and not for men" (ESV). (unmeasured)
2. Examine key HRM functions within the student-identified ministry leadership role and through the lens of a biblical worldview.
3. Examine the challenges of key HR functions faced by ministry leaders.
4. Evaluate current and relevant HRM sources useful to ministry leaders for inclusion in a personal bibliography and for use during the course.
5. Develop a personal theology of HRM by assessing biblical references and commentary as related to today's HRM challenges.
6. Create a human resource management plan that addresses personnel hiring, training, compensation and benefits, and personnel retention specific to the identified ministry leadership role and through the lens of a biblical worldview.

EN 501 Thesis Writing - Capstone Project

This course will help guide and instruct the student on writing a graduate level thesis in MLA format as required by the seminary. It will guide the student through the matters of style, scholarly citation, standard practices and expanded array of digital sources. Upon successful completion of this course, students will be able to:

1. Identify sound thesis research practices.
2. Analyze literature as it relates to the student's research topic.
3. Present clearly and concisely research components for thesis research.
4. Evaluate and produce scholarly sources suitable for thesis research.
5. Develop research paper title, research questions, and abstract.
6. Synthesize a thorough literature review from seminal sources and current sourced research.
7. Prepare a thesis paper demonstrating scholarly research methods.
8. Present an oral presentation of thesis findings.

Program Description and Objectives Th.M.

The Master of Theology (Th.M.) program is a 36 credit graduate-level program that provides advanced training in theology and related fields. The program is designed for students who have completed a bachelor's degree in theology or a related field and who wish to deepen their knowledge and expertise in particular study of the nature of God and doctrinal belief. Special attention will also be given to Christ as the center of God's revelation and all human thought and the Holy Spirit's role in God's revelation. Through lectures, readings, and interaction with experienced instructors and fellow students, students will acquire a solid foundation of biblical and systematic study. As a result of completing the degree, the student will be able to:

1. Demonstrate advanced knowledge of topics in biblical studies, theological studies, church history, and related fields.
2. Examine the tools and skills necessary to engage in independent research and writing in specific areas of study.
3. Demonstrate critical thinking and engagement with contemporary theological issues.
4. Reflect on theological education as an opportunity for spiritual and personal formation.
5. Evaluate theology as a language of faith and not merely as a language about faith.
6. Measure the relationship between theology, worship, and mission in the Church.
7. Organize the relation between theology and human need

Program Goals

The Th.M. program consists of a combination of coursework and research. Coursework will include classes in biblical studies, systematic theology, church history, ethics, and other theological subjects. Research will involve writing a thesis or dissertation on a particular theological topic.

- To provide students with a comprehensive understanding of a particular area of theology
- To develop students' critical thinking and analytical skills
- To prepare students for advanced theological research
- To prepare students for a variety of professional ministry roles

5. Communicate effective and accurate truths about the Bible to others.
6. Justify selected scriptural excerpts using the same hermeneutic that the Bible itself uses

TH 631 Contemporary Theology

In this course, students will acquire an understanding of the major theological movements and debates that have emerged in the modern and postmodern era. The course examines the key themes, thinkers, and controversies in contemporary theology, as well as the ways in which theological discourse has been shaped by cultural, social, and political forces. By the end of the course, students should have a thorough understanding of the major theological movements and debates, as well as the ability to engage critically with contemporary theological issues. As a result of completing the course, the student will:

1. Review the major theological movements and debates that have emerged in the modern and postmodern era, including liberalism, neo-orthodoxy, liberation theology, feminist theology, and postmodern theology.
2. Examine the key themes, thinkers, and controversies in contemporary theology, including the nature of God, the nature of humanity, the nature of salvation, and the relationship between faith and culture.
3. Evaluate the strengths and weaknesses of various theological positions relative to traditional doctrine and to develop the skills necessary for critical theological analysis.
4. Evaluate the diversity of theological perspectives within the Christian tradition and to promote respectful dialogue and engagement with differing views.
5. Summarize the relationship between theology and other disciplines, such as philosophy, sociology, and politics, and to consider the ways in which theological discourse is shaped by broader cultural, social, and political forces.
6. Formulate the development of a mature Christian faith and a deepening of personal spiritual formation through reflection and engagement with contemporary theological issues.

BI 548 Graduate Language Tools

This course equips students for biblical hermeneutics and homiletics by introducing them to the languages the Bible was written in and gives them tools to understand how the translations of those languages influences the way we understand the scriptures today. The course includes an introduction to the biblical Hebrew and Greek languages, including word formation and meaning, the verbal system, and syntax. Emphasis is placed on developing skills in the use of concordance and lexicons, as well as the use of various linguistic helps and differing English translations. This course will help students make the most of the resources available, so they can study the meaning of God's word very deeply. The word study and exegesis skills gained will help students to become more effective preachers and teachers of God's word. It will help them to develop the skills and habits that make an effective preaching/teaching ministry possible. As a result of completing this course, the student will:

1. Provide a basic description of the Hebrew and Greek Languages
2. Define select Greek and Hebrew vocabulary words.
3. Explain the basic steps involved in exegesis.
4. Employ language tools in the process of interpretation.
5. Exegete an Old Testament and New Testament Passage.
6. Apply the results of exegesis in a contemporary setting.

TH 621 Biblical Theology I (Old Testament)

Some doctrine, though very little, can be gleaned through natural revelation. Nearly all of what we know about God and His truth comes from His revelation through Scripture. This course examines the knowledge of God from the Old Testament. Thus, the theology of the Old Testament is concerned with an understanding of God and His self-revelation as it is found in the canonical Scriptures. Two concerns guide the development of our study. The first entails an examination of the underlying unity in the communication of God with Israel. The second deals with the ways God dealt with Israel as His revelation of Himself moved toward a completed salvation in Jesus Christ. On completing this course, students will

1. Identify and discuss the unifying themes of the Old Testament and the relevance to the Christian life and witness.
2. Trace the doctrine of the knowledge of God relevant to His attributes such as holiness, righteousness, faithfulness, love, and judgment.
3. Identify the theme of salvation in the Old Testament as holy history with reference to sin and atonement, death and future life, sacrifice, and cult and eschatology.
5. Explain the nature of man in the Old Testament with reference to man as creature, flesh, spirit, and image of God, male and female.

TH 622 Biblical Theology II (New Testament)

This course is an analysis of the New Testament from the perspective and methodology of contemporary biblical theology. While not ignoring the Old Testament, it focuses on an exploration of methodological issues and topics in Christian theology. Methodologically, the course will especially examine narrative approaches to Biblical theology. Thematically, the course focuses on the following themes in particular: the mission of God, the person and work of Christ, the person and work of the Spirit, the Kingdom (of God) and the Gospel, a Biblical understanding of the people of God, ethics, and eschatology. The course also explores how these themes relate to the Christian life and ministry. As a result of completing this course, the student will

1. Evaluate the major theological themes that emerge through the NT
2. Trace the trajectory of biblical theology as it evolves from the OT and its imprint on theology that is distinctively new in the NT.
3. Employ the method of deriving biblical theology to various topics in the New Testament
4. Apply the results of biblical theology to life and ministry.

EN 501 Thesis Writing - Capstone Project

This course will help guide and instruct the student on writing a graduate level thesis in MLA format as required by the seminary. It will guide the student through the matters of style, scholarly citation, standard practices and expanded array of digital sources. Upon successful completion of this course, students will be able to:

Master of Religious Studies

Program Description and Objectives

A Master in Religious Studies is a unique degree which can appeal to both the academic and spiritually-minded individual. This multidisciplinary, flexible study degree will address topics such as religious history, systematic theology, Biblical books and genres and Christian living. The capstone project is aimed at using experiential learning and research applications to produce material for future impact to benefit the Church in its mission. By completing this program students will:

1. Trace the overall themes of the Bible
2. Articulate both the overall themes and the individual context of Scripture
3. Classify the genre and the methods used to interpret Scripture
4. Examine a variety of connections between the Old Testament and the New Testament.
5. Compare the major Christian doctrines against a range of other religious traditions.

Program Goals

The overriding goal of this program is to develop students' critical thinking and analytical skills and equip them to communicate effectively about religious issues. The outcome will be to prepare students for careers in a variety of fields, including teaching, research, ministry, and public service. Coursework within the program will include:

- Biblical studies
- Broad-based theology
- Ethics
- Methods of religious studies

In addition to coursework, students are required to complete a thesis or capstone project. This project provides students with the opportunity to apply their knowledge and skills to a real-world problem or issue.

Course Descriptions

BI 550 Graduate Biblical Survey

This course will trace the outline of the Bible and address the background and thematic elements of each major genre of Scripture, considering them each individually and synthetically. This survey course will provide the student a working understanding of the overall plan of God as revealed in the Word, providing a foundation for further Bible study. As a result of completing this course, the student will:

1. Explore a variety of connections between the Old Testament and the New Testament.
2. Demonstrate knowledge of the cultural, religious and geographic influences across biblical genres and texts
3. Describe the major themes and theological issues of genres within both testaments
4. Articulate an understanding of biblical revelation in the context of scriptural authenticity and authority
5. Demonstrate knowledge of the life and ministry of Jesus as portrayed in the New Testament
6. Fulfill the mandate of 2 Tim. 2:15 (Do your best to present yourself to God as one approved, a worker who does not need to be ashamed and who correctly handles the word of truth.)

TH 550 Graduate Theological Survey

This class introduces students to systematic theology and examines seven major doctrinal subjects in detail. Using Scripture as the primary authority in the study, this course will examine evangelical Protestant doctrinal positions, evaluate historic and contemporary points of disagreement, and provide practical applications of these doctrines. As a result of completing this course, the student will:

1. Apply a systematic approach to answering the question of what the whole Bible teaches us today about any given topic.
2. Identify several key Old and New Testament passages that affirm and define the contours of evangelical Protestant theology.
3. Distinguish between evangelical Protestant theology and several other theological streams, including Roman Catholicism, Liberal Protestant theology, and Mormonism.
4. Produce a personal doctrinal statement, summarizing their doctrinal beliefs about the Bible, God, man, salvation, the church, and the future.

BI 601 Advanced Hermeneutics

Advanced Hermeneutics is a graduate-level course that studies the principles and methods of interpreting the Bible. The course covers a wide range of topics, including the nature of language and meaning, the historical context of the Bible, literary forms of the Bible and the role of the reader in interpretation. The course is designed to help students develop their skills in critical thinking and analysis, as well as their ability to communicate effectively about the Bible. Upon completion of the course, students will be able to:

1. Analyze the literary and historical context of a biblical text.
2. Identify the theological themes of a biblical text.
3. Apply the Bible to their own lives and ministry.

4. Evaluate “meaning” and “application” of a Scriptural text
5. Communicate effective and accurate truths about the Bible to others.
6. Justify selected scriptural excerpts using the same hermeneutic that the Bible itself uses

PM 501 Homiletics/Methods of Teaching

Homiletics begins with Hermeneutics, which is rightly interpreting the Word of God. This course builds on the skills of Biblical interpretation in creating preaching that demonstrates stylistic differences in biblical exposition, with an emphasis on advanced expositional techniques. Special attention will be given to structure, style, and the use of creativity in message development and delivery. This class is pivotal for anyone who is going to teach and preach the Bible. As a result of completing this course, the student will:

1. Analyze biblical texts using critical, historical, literary, and theological approaches to the purpose of preaching.
2. Construct effective sermon introductions, illustrations, and conclusions that utilize best practices of oral communication.
3. Integrate exegetical skills on biblical texts with a message for a contemporary congregation.
4. Evaluate their own preaching to determine ways to improve language and delivery for effective preaching.
5. Deliver sermons that utilize engaging vocal dynamics and body movement.

EN501 Thesis Writing - Capstone Project

This course will help guide and instruct the student on writing a graduate level thesis in MLA format as required by the seminary. It will guide the student through the matters of style, scholarly citation, standard practices and expanded array of digital sources. Upon successful completion of this course, students will be able to:

1. Identify sound thesis research practices.
2. Analyze literature as it relates to the student’s research topic.
3. Present clearly and concisely research components for thesis research.
4. Evaluate and produce scholarly sources suitable for thesis research.
5. Develop research paper title, research questions, and abstract.
6. Synthesize a thorough literature review from seminal sources and current sourced research.
7. Prepare a thesis paper demonstrating scholarly research methods.
8. Present an oral presentation of thesis findings.

Mapping of Course Outcomes to Program Objectives:

	Trace the overall themes of the Bible	Articulate both the overall themes and the individual context of Scripture	Classify the genre and the methods used to interpret Scripture	Examine a variety of connections between the Old Testament and the New Testament. Doctor of Biblical Studies

Program Description and Goals

The Doctor of Biblical Studies is a terminal research doctorate which requires 40 credit hours of study, including the doctoral dissertation. In this degree, students will realize a greater mastery of biblical languages, historical backgrounds, and theological frameworks. The program also contains a significant component of course work dedicated to the development of preaching and teaching skills. The integration of these studies and disciplines will enable the candidates to conduct doctoral level research and will equip them to serve as ministry practitioners in a variety of fields requiring the highest level of academic degree achievement. As a result of completing this program, students will:

1. Demonstrate advanced knowledge and skills needed to conduct original research in the field of Biblical Studies.
2. Formulate best practices to serve as ministry practitioners.
3. Discover critical thinking and analytical skills necessary to interpret and evaluate the Bible in its historical, cultural, and theological contexts.
4. Construct an understanding and appreciation of the Bible as a sacred text that has shaped Western civilization.
5. Complete coursework and a dissertation project which demonstrates students' mastery of Research, writing and public speaking skills.

Program Goal

The goals of a Doctor in Biblical Studies are to equip students to make significant contributions to the Kingdom through original research, teaching, and writing:

- Provide students with a deep understanding of the Bible, its historical context, and the methods used to study it.
- Develop advanced critical thinking skills that enable them to analyze and interpret biblical texts in a rigorous and nuanced way.
- Produce original research and writing that contributes to the scholarly conversation on the Bible.
- Prepare students for ministry careers as pastors, teachers, professors, researchers, and writers in biblical studies and related fields.

Course Descriptions

BI 850 Advanced Biblical Narrative

This course will trace the outline of the Bible and address the background and thematic elements of the entirety of scripture, considering each book individually and synthetically. The purpose is to provide the student a working understanding of the overall plan of God as revealed in the Bible, providing a foundation for further Bible study. As a result of completing this course, the student will:

1. Analyze, evaluate, and critique proposals for Biblical theology from an understanding
2. of hermeneutical and methodological issues
3. Investigate the “grand narrative” of the bible and explain its themes of creation, fall, redemption and sanctification.
4. Demonstrate an understanding of the impact of history and culture upon the development of Christian doctrines.

BI 935 Advanced Biblical Survey

This course provides an advanced survey of the Bible, with a focus on the historical, cultural, and theological contexts of the biblical text. Topics include the formation of the Hebrew Bible, the development of the New Testament, and the history of interpretation. Students will learn to read the Bible critically and to appreciate its significance for both the ancient world and the modern world. Upon completion of this course, students will be able to:

1. Demonstrate a broad knowledge of the Bible, including its historical, cultural, and theological contexts.
2. Read the Bible critically and summarize its significance for both the ancient world and the modern world.
3. Present their ideas in a clear and concise manner by writing a well-argued essay on a biblical topic.
4. Work effectively in a group setting.

TH 940 Advanced Theological Survey

This course introduces the student to the method and central concepts of Christian theology. Special attention will be given to how the various theological topics help us understand the world (its origin and goal), humanity (the image of God and humanity’s fallen state; its individual and corporate nature), redemption (salvation and life together in the church), and eschatology (how the future shapes our present life and perspective). Students will demonstrate critical thinking about these doctrines and to develop their own theological perspectives. Upon completion of this course, students will be able to:

1. Demonstrate a detailed knowledge of Christian theology.
2. Compile the major themes and doctrines of the Christian faith.
3. Develop their own theological perspectives.
4. Present their ideas in a clear and concise manner by writing a well-argued essay on a theological topic.
5. Work effectively in a group setting.

TH 945 Advanced Contemporary Theology

This course exposes students to important shifts and trends in contemporary Christian thought and provides an enriching context for discussion and theological reflection. The central theme of the course is doing theology contextually. We will be examining the relationship between context and theology, both observing how context inevitably (and rightly) shapes the practice of theology and probing the limitations of context for faithful theological reflection. Four themes will serve as test cases for analyzing the relationship between context and theology: missional ecclesiology, science and Christian faith, liberation theology, and sex and gender. As a result of completing the course, the student will

1. Evaluate important contemporary developments in theology
2. Summarize the major trends and developments in theology in the 20th and 21st centuries.
3. Organize the relationship between theology and other disciplines, such as philosophy, science, and the social sciences.
4. Appraise critically the major issues facing Christianity today.
5. Express their theological insights and positions both faithfully and contextually

TH 730 Pastoral Theology

In this course, students will study the practice of ministry from a theological perspective, particularly in the context of the local church. Exploration is given to a variety of disciplines, including theology, psychology, sociology, and anthropology. Pastoral theology seeks to understand the biblical viewpoint of the human condition and the role of faith in people's lives, and to develop effective ways of ministering to people's needs. The highest aim of the course is to equip students with the knowledge, skills, and values necessary for effective pastoral ministry.

As a result of completing this course, the student will:

1. Discuss the scriptural context of pastoral theology, including the different approaches to pastoral ministry, and the role of the pastor in the church and community.
2. Explore the different types of pastoral care, the skills necessary for effective pastoral care, and the resources available to pastors and other ministers.
3. Distinguish the different theories of pastoral counseling, the skills necessary for effective pastoral counseling, and the resources available to pastors and other ministers.
4. Evaluate the role of leadership in pastoral ministry.

BI 903 Advanced Hermeneutics

This course is an advanced study of the principles and methods of biblical interpretation. Students will explore the history of interpretation, the nature of language, the role of context, and the various interpretive approaches that have been used throughout church history. Specific attention is given to biblical hermeneutics focusing on the literal/grammatical/historical method of interpretation. This course will consider comparative and historical methods for biblical interpretation and delineate theological implications for faith and practice. The outcome is that students will learn to analyze and evaluate different interpretive methods, and to develop their own interpretive skills. Upon completion of this course, students will be able to:

1. Define hermeneutics and explain its importance for biblical interpretation.
2. Identify and explain the different types of interpretive methods.
3. Analyze and evaluate different interpretive methods.
4. Develop their own interpretive skills.
5. Apply their interpretive skills to the interpretation of biblical texts.

BI 921 Advanced OT Narrative

This course offers an overview of the Old Testament portion of the biblical narrative, including an examination of themes such as creation, fall, and redemption. The distinctive contribution of each stage of biblical history to that overarching narrative is considered. Special attention will be given to how the biblical narrative provides insight into a Christian understanding of our place in that story. As a result of completing this course, the student will:

The objectives of an Advanced Old Testament Survey course are to:

1. Evaluate a comprehensive overview of the Old Testament, including its historical, literary, and theological dimensions.
2. Read and interpret the Old Testament in its original context.
3. Demonstrate critical thinking about the Old Testament and its relevance for the contemporary world.
4. Trace the history of the ancient Near East and its impact on the development of the Old Testament.
5. Discuss the literary forms and genres of the Old Testament.
6. Analyze the theological themes and messages of the Old Testament.
7. Apply their knowledge of the Old Testament to contemporary issues and concerns.

BI 922 Advanced NT Narrative

This course offers an overview of the New Testament portion of the biblical narrative, including an examination of themes such as redemption and consummation. The distinctive contribution of each stage of biblical history to that overarching narrative is considered. Special attention will be given to how the biblical narrative provides insight into a Christian understanding of our place in that story. As a result of completing this course, the student will:

1. Describe a comprehensive overview of the New Testament, including its historical, literary, and theological dimensions.
2. Read and interpret the New Testament in its original context.
3. Demonstrate critical thinking about the New Testament and its relevance for the contemporary world.
4. Trace the history of the first-century Mediterranean world and its impact on the development of the New Testament.
5. Distinguish the literary forms and genres of the New Testament.
6. Analyze the theological themes and messages of the New Testament.
7. Apply their knowledge of the New Testament to contemporary issues and concerns.

RE 930 Advanced Biblical Research and Writing

This course is an advanced study of the methods and techniques of biblical research and writing in preparation for the completion of a doctoral dissertation or project report. Focus is given to methodologies of advanced research and the process of writing a dissertation research paper. Students will learn how to identify and formulate a research question, conduct a literature review, evaluate sources and the proper format of a dissertation according to MLA formatting. On completing this course, students will be able to

1. Demonstrate a working knowledge of the history of biblical interpretation.
2. Demonstrate a working knowledge of the use of specific criticisms in biblical studies such as textual, source, form and canonical.
3. Identify and formulate research questions and a thesis statement.
4. Conduct a literature review.
5. Evaluate sources.
6. Format a paper according to MLA style.

RE 950-960 Dissertation/Completion Independent Study

Doctoral candidates must be enrolled in this course for the duration of the writing of their dissertation.

RE 970 Dissertation Defense

The dissertation defense is the student's formal oral examination of a doctoral dissertation. The student will present their research findings and answer questions from a committee established by the student's advisor or the Academic Dean. The defense is the final step in the doctoral process, and it is a requirement for the awarding of the doctoral degree. The dissertation defense is typically a two-hour event:

- The first hour is devoted to the doctoral candidate's presentation of their research findings. The candidate will begin by providing an overview of their dissertation, and then they will present the findings of their research in more detail.
- The second hour of the defense is devoted to questions from the committee. The committee may ask questions about the candidate's research methods, findings, or interpretation of the findings. The candidate will be expected to answer these questions in a clear and concise manner.

Mapping Of Course Outcomes to Program Objectives:

	Demonstrate advanced knowledge and skills needed to conduct original research in the field of Biblical Studies.	Formulate best practices to serve as ministry practitioners.	Discover critical thinking and analytical skills necessary to interpret and evaluate the Bible	Construct an understanding and appreciation of the Bible as a sacred text that has shaped Western civilization. Doctor of Ministry

The Doctor of Ministry (DMin) is a professional doctorate degree that prepares experienced Christian ministers for leadership and service in the church and the world. Students begin with a core of Bible classes in which they develop a deeper understanding of the theological and biblical foundations of ministry. The degree major courses will leverage this knowledge and equip students to apply their learning to their own ministry context for significant Kingdom Impact. Attention is given to scholarly research and reflection on ministry as well as means to contribute to the renewal and transformation of the church and the world. As a result of completing this degree, students will:

1. Develop new skills and knowledge in various areas of ministry.
2. Enable students to apply their learning to their own ministry context.
3. Express a comprehensive understanding of the theological and biblical foundations of ministry.
4. Engage in scholarly research and reflection on ministry.
5. Formulate best practices for renewal and transformation of the church and the world.

Program Goal

The DMin program is a valuable investment for Christian ministers who are committed to lifelong learning and service. The program provides students with the knowledge, skills, and experience they need to lead and serve effectively in the church and the world.

The Doctor of Ministry (DMin) is a professional doctoral degree in ministry. It is designed to prepare experienced ministers for advanced leadership and service in the church and other settings. The goals of a DMin degree vary depending on the specific program, but they typically include:

- Increased knowledge and skills in ministry. This program provides students with the opportunity to learn about new trends and developments in ministry, as well as to develop new skills and competencies.
- Deeper understanding of theological and biblical foundations. Students will deepen their understanding of the theological and biblical foundations of ministry.
- Enhanced leadership and communication skills. In the course of study, students will develop their leadership and communication skills, which are essential for effective ministry.
- Greater personal and spiritual maturity. So that students are not “leading on empty,” focus is given to personal and spiritual growth as an essential ingredient for effective ministry.

TH 730 Pastoral Theology

In this course, students will study the practice of ministry from a theological perspective, particularly in the context of the local church. Exploration is given to a variety of disciplines, including theology, psychology, sociology, and anthropology. Pastoral theology seeks to understand the biblical viewpoint of the human condition and the role of faith in people's lives, and to develop effective ways of ministering to people's needs. The highest aim of the course is to equip students with the knowledge, skills, and values necessary for effective pastoral ministry.

As a result of completing this course, the student will:

1. Discuss the scriptural context of pastoral theology, including the different approaches to pastoral ministry, and the role of the pastor in the church and community.
2. Explore the different types of pastoral care, the skills necessary for effective pastoral care, and the resources available to pastors and other ministers.
3. Distinguish the different theories of pastoral counseling, the skills necessary for effective pastoral counseling, and the resources available to pastors and other ministers.
4. Evaluate the role of leadership in pastoral ministry.

PM 850 Advanced Philosophy and Practice of Ministry

Advanced Philosophy and Practice of Ministry is a graduate-level course that examines the philosophical and practical foundations of ministry. Students will begin by exploring the biblical foundation of ministry, the role of leadership in a ministry and the relationship between theology and ministry. With this foundation students will dig into the relationship between ministry and culture, the ethical dimensions of ministry and the challenges and opportunities facing ministry in the 21st century. The course will be taught in a seminar format, and students will be expected to participate in class discussions, write papers, and complete a final project. Upon completion of this course, students will be able to:

1. Articulate a clear and concise definition of ministry
2. Identify the key roles and responsibilities of the pastor/leader
3. Assess the New Testament model for church leadership
4. Explain the relationship between theology and ministry and ministry and culture
5. Apply ethical principles to the practice of ministry
6. Identify the challenges and opportunities facing ministry in the 21st century
7. Construct a personal philosophy of Ministry

PM 940 Advanced Team Dynamics in Ministry Settings

Advanced Team Dynamics in Ministry Setting is a graduate-level course that examines the complex and dynamic nature of teams in ministry content. In the spectrum of the local church, there are a great many small ministries, but for all intents and purposes there are no churches run by just one person. Even in the setting of a single pastor, there are still teams of volunteers that drive ministry efforts. Given that reality, this course will explore the following topics dealing with teams (regardless of size), including team composition, development, and communication. And then because all teams are composed of people, students will learn to deal with conflict resolution, ethics, motivation and performance. And then, since all leadership is management of and through change, attention will be given to decision-making, innovation and change management. Upon completion of this course, students will be able to:

1. Discuss the complex and dynamic nature of teams
2. Analyze the development and composition of teams
3. Evaluate best practices for team communication
4. Assess the biblical foundations for conflict resolution
5. Demonstrate effective leadership, especially scriptural principles of motivation, performance evaluation, innovation and change.
6. Develop a personal philosophy of biblical leadership.

PM 910 Innovation and Change

It is said that the ability to innovate is perhaps the most essential and least understood competency that a ministry can have. Churches, ministries and nonprofits that fail to balance the need to innovate and grow, while still maintaining their doctrinal foundations will invariably, inevitably, and eventually fail. Innovation is a great driver of change and transformation and as such, is a core competency of any great ministry. Successful ministries all share three characteristics: (1) a rock-solid knowledge of and adherence to its biblical mission, (2) the ability to innovate, and (3) the ability to change. This course explores the process of leading for creating, managing, and implementing innovation while at the same time maintaining essential doctrine. Focus is given to a broad perspective of innovation and how to best organize, implement, and execute innovation for optimal missional value. As a result of completing this course, students will:

1. Evaluate how innovation creates strategic and missional advantages.
2. Appraise biblical principles of the various types and sources of innovation.
3. Articulate and advance personal acumen as related to the tension between fostering innovation and maintaining core ministry mission and doctrine.
4. Demonstrate critical thinking, analytical skills and hypothetical problem solving capabilities as applied to course concepts and content related to innovation and leading innovation.
5. Summarize methodology to best measure innovation and allocate limited resources to innovation to generate optimal results.
6. Access and utilize research and literature in innovation.

PM 860 Spiritual Renewal in the Digital Age

This graduate-level course examines the challenges and opportunities for personal and corporate spiritual growth in the digital age. Particular attention is given in the post-pandemic environment of the impact of technology on spirituality, spiritual formation and the use of technology for spiritual outreach. Against this, students will explore methods of spiritual renewal in a personal and group setting considered more “traditional.” Regardless of means, the goal is to equip students for advanced work in fulfilling the Great Commission as it relates to discipleship. As a result of completing this course, students will be able to:

1. Assess the ethical and biblical use of technology in spiritual practice
2. Evaluate the role of technology in spiritual formation
3. Use technology for spiritual outreach
4. Identify the key components of a personal spiritual practice

5. Articulate the importance of personal spiritual formation as an essential ingredient in successful Christian living.

RE 930 Advanced Biblical Research and Writing

This course is an advanced study of the methods and techniques of biblical research and writing in preparation for the completion of a doctoral dissertation or project report. Focus is given to methodologies of advanced research and the process of writing a dissertation research paper. Students will learn how to identify and formulate a research question, conduct a literature review, evaluate sources and the proper format of a dissertation according to MLA formatting. On completing this course, students will be able to

1. Demonstrate a working knowledge of the history of biblical interpretation.
2. Demonstrate a working knowledge of the use of specific criticisms in biblical studies such as textual, source, form and canonical.
3. Identify and formulate research questions and a thesis statement.
4. Conduct a literature review.
5. Evaluate sources.
6. Format a paper according to MLA style.

The conclusion of this course will be the submission of Chapters 1, 2 and 3 of the student's dissertation project.

RE 950-960 Dissertation/Completion Independent Study

Doctoral candidates must be enrolled in this course for the duration of the writing of their dissertation.

RE 970 Dissertation Defense

The dissertation defense is the student's formal oral examination of a doctoral dissertation. The student will present their research findings and answer questions from a committee established by the student's advisor or the Academic Dean. The defense is the final step in the doctoral process, and it is a requirement for the awarding of the doctoral degree. The dissertation defense is typically a two-hour event:

- The first hour is devoted to the doctoral candidate's presentation of their research findings. The candidate will begin by providing an overview of their dissertation, and then they will present the findings of their research in more detail.

The second hour of the defense is devoted to questions from the committee. The committee may ask questions about the candidate's research methods, findings, or interpretation of the findings. The candidate will be expected to answer these questions in a clear and concise manner.

Mapping Of Course Outcomes to Program Objectives:

	Develop new skills and knowledge in various areas of ministry.	Enable students to apply their learning to their own ministry context.	Express a comprehensive understanding of the theological and biblical foundations of ministry.	Engage in scholarly research and reflection on ministry.	Formulate best practices for renewal and transformation of the church and the world.

Doctor of Religious Education

Program Description and Goals

The Christian Education concentration of study provides the preparation for prospective and practicing Christian educators who are called by God to teach with a distinctively Christian approach. The focus of the program is the integration of scriptural principles in specific areas of education. Credits earned may be applied toward a Bachelor of Arts in Religious Studies degree. By completing this course of study, the student will:

1. Evaluate biblical perspectives, foundational theories, research findings, cultural/sociological dynamics, and alternative models for educating diverse learners in contemporary Christian schools, colleges or ministries.
2. Develop an understanding of the importance of a philosophy of Christian Education and formulate a personal philosophy of education.
3. Demonstrate knowledge and understanding of a variety of teaching techniques and methods and develop skills to apply them.
4. Apply biblical precepts, theoretical approaches, research findings, and alternative models of effective leadership and functioning of organizations, and groups and individuals within organizations
5. Appraise the current state of Christian Education in a variety of settings against the Biblical mandate to edify believers.
6. Utilize the components and process of quantitative and qualitative research with a view to solve educational questions/problems.

Program Goal

The Doctor of Religious Education program is designed to meet your professional development needs as a Christian education leader. Candidates will grow in their ability to enhance God's kingdom work in Christian schools or colleges and represent Christian education perspectives in the broader society. The program prepares highly specialized professionals for leadership in religious education. Multi-disciplinary fields of study intersect in the doctoral curriculum. The program is intended to nurture sound scholarship by encouraging students to develop and demonstrate erudition, reflection and research skills in their academic work, examinations, dissertations, and vocational experiences.

Course Descriptions

BI 850 Advanced Biblical Narrative

This course will trace the outline of the Bible and address the background and thematic elements of the entirety of scripture, considering each book individually and synthetically. The purpose is to provide the student a working understanding of the overall plan of God as revealed in the Bible, providing a foundation for further Bible study. As a result of completing this course, the student will:

1. Analyze, evaluate, and critique proposals for Biblical theology from an understanding
2. of hermeneutical and methodological issues
3. Investigate the “grand narrative” of the bible and explain its themes of creation, fall, redemption and sanctification.
4. Demonstrate an understanding of the impact of history and culture upon the development of Christian doctrines.

BI 935 Advanced Biblical Survey

This course provides an advanced survey of the Bible, with a focus on the historical, cultural, and theological contexts of the biblical text. Topics include the formation of the Hebrew Bible, the development of the New Testament, and the history of interpretation. Students will learn to read the Bible critically and to appreciate its significance for both the ancient world and the modern world. Upon completion of this course, students will be able to:

1. Demonstrate a broad knowledge of the Bible, including its historical, cultural, and theological contexts.
2. Read the Bible critically and summarize its significance for both the ancient world and the modern world.
3. Present their ideas in a clear and concise manner by writing a well-argued essay on a biblical topic.
4. Work effectively in a group setting.

TH 940 Advanced Theological Survey

This course introduces the student to the method and central concepts of Christian theology. Special attention will be given to how the various theological topics help us understand the world (its origin and goal), humanity (the image of God and humanity's fallen state; its individual and corporate nature), redemption (salvation and life together in the church), and eschatology (how the future shapes our present life and perspective). Students will demonstrate critical thinking about these doctrines and to develop their own theological perspectives. Upon completion of this course, students will be able to:

1. Demonstrate a detailed knowledge of Christian theology.
2. Compile the major themes and doctrines of the Christian faith.
3. Develop their own theological perspectives.
4. Present their ideas in a clear and concise manner by writing a well-argued essay on a theological topic.
5. Work effectively in a group setting.

TH 945 Advanced Contemporary Theology

This course exposes students to important shifts and trends in contemporary Christian thought and provides an enriching context for discussion and theological reflection. The central theme of the course is doing theology contextually. We will be examining the relationship between context and theology, both observing how context inevitably (and rightly) shapes the practice of theology and probing the limitations of context for faithful theological reflection. Four themes will serve as test cases for analyzing the relationship between context and theology: missional ecclesiology, science and Christian faith, liberation theology, and sex and gender. As a result of completing the course, the student will

1. Evaluate important contemporary developments in theology
2. Summarize the major trends and developments in theology in the 20th and 21st centuries.
3. Organize the relationship between theology and other disciplines, such as philosophy, science, and the social sciences.
4. Appraise critically the major issues facing Christianity today.
5. Express their theological insights and positions both faithfully and contextually

TH 730 Pastoral Theology

In this course, students will study the practice of ministry from a theological perspective, particularly in the context of the local church. Exploration is given to a variety of disciplines, including theology, psychology, sociology, and anthropology. Pastoral theology seeks to understand the biblical viewpoint of the human condition and the role of faith in people's lives, and to develop effective ways of ministering to people's needs. The highest aim of the course is to equip students with the knowledge, skills, and values necessary for effective pastoral ministry.

As a result of completing this course, the student will:

1. Discuss the scriptural context of pastoral theology, including the different approaches to pastoral ministry, and the role of the pastor in the church and community.
2. Explore the different types of pastoral care, the skills necessary for effective pastoral care, and the resources available to pastors and other ministers.
3. Distinguish the different theories of pastoral counseling, the skills necessary for effective pastoral counseling, and the resources available to pastors and other ministers.
4. Evaluate the role of leadership in pastoral ministry.

CE 810 Philosophy of Christian Education

Philosophy is the governor of our thoughts and actions. It gets to the heart of who we are, what we believe and why we believe it. A philosophy of education is therefore the foundation for the entire program. It determines the character and the skill of the leader, the teacher and the student. The importance of building a biblically sound Christian philosophy of education cannot be overstated. In this course, students will analyze and evaluate selected biblical texts to establish a strong theological foundation for education. Coupled with this theological study, students will explore researched-based practices to develop a personal "pedagogical creed," a Christian philosophy of education that will serve as a framework for teaching and a foundation for ongoing educational leadership. On completion of this course, students will develop a personal philosophy of education, which serves as a beginning framework for teaching ministry. This philosophy will demonstrate and defend from a biblical worldview the following topics:

1. An understanding of the significance of three major philosophical issues that impact education: metaphysics (nature of being), epistemology (nature of knowledge) and axiology (theory of values).
2. Explain important core values related to Educational philosophy: idealism (Plato), realism (Aristotle), theistic realism (Aquinas), pragmatism (Dewey), and reconstructionism/critical theory (Freire).
3. Explain important core values related to Educational theory: perennialism (Hutchins, Adler), essentialism (Bagley, Ravitch, Hirsch), romanticism (Rousseau), progressivism (Kilpatrick, Counts) and critical pedagogy (Freire, Giroux).
4. Recognize a broad selection of the major historical figures that impacted the field of education, list their major ideas, and critique them from a biblical perspective.
5. Outline important passages in the biblical text with important bearings on education.
6. Compose a personal Philosophy of Christian Education

CE 890 Theories and Modalities Impacting CE

Christian education is a critical ingredient of the Great Commission and of the Christian faith. It is influenced by a variety of theories and modalities including the Bible as the foundation, a Christian worldview, theories of classical education, the concept of Montessori education, and educational theories such as constructivism, multiple intelligences, and technology. These theories and modalities are used to provide students with a comprehensive and holistic education that is grounded in the Christian faith. As a result of completing this course the student will:

1. Evaluate the Bible as the framework for understanding the world and our place in it and how this framework guides the curriculum and teaching methods used in Christian education.
2. Discuss the relationship of Christian education in a Christian worldview
3. Describe the methodology of classical education and its alignment with a Christian worldview and emphasis on the pursuit of knowledge and wisdom.
4. Evaluate Montessori education as a child-centered approach to education that emphasizes self-directed learning and hands-on activities.
5. Survey constructivism is a theory of learning that emphasizes the active role of the learner in the learning process.
6. Assess the specifics of Multiple intelligences as a theory that suggests that there are many different types of intelligence, and that people learn best when they are taught in a way that aligns with their individual strengths and learning styles.
7. Discuss the role that technology plays in education.

CE 860 Advanced Educational Psychology in CE

This course will explore the theories, research, and practice of educational psychology within the context of a Christian worldview. Students will examine the intersection of psychology, education, and Christian beliefs to help students develop a deeper understanding of how to integrate their faith with their educational practice. Attention is given to topics such as learning theories, motivation, assessment, and cognitive development, as students examine how these relate to Christian teaching and learning. The course will also cover the ethical and moral implications of educational psychology within a Christian context. Overall, this course will provide students with a deeper understanding of how to integrate their faith with educational psychology principles, and how to use these principles to promote effective teaching and learning in a Christian context. Upon completion of the course, students will be able to:

Compare and contrast the theories and research of educational psychology with their relation to the Christian faith.

1. Apply educational psychology concepts and principles to Christian teaching and learning.
2. Evaluate the ethical and moral implications of educational psychology within a Christian context.
3. Develop strategies for integrating faith and educational practice.
4. Analyze and critique current research in educational psychology from a Christian perspective.
5. Synthesize the principles of Christian education and educational psychology to develop effective teaching strategies.
6. Communicate effectively about educational psychology and Christian education to diverse audiences.

CE 850 Biblical Integration of Curriculum

The Biblical Integration of Curriculum course is designed to explore the principles and methods of integrating biblical truth and values into all areas of the curriculum. This course will examine the importance of biblical integration in Christian education and will provide students with practical strategies for integrating biblical perspectives into lesson plans, activities, and assessments. Students will explore topics such as worldview, biblical literacy, biblical integration models, and culturally responsive teaching. The course will help students to become more effective and reflective practitioners who are committed to integrating biblical truth and values into their teaching practice. Upon completion of the course, students will be able to:

1. Explain the importance of biblical integration in Christian education.
2. Analyze curriculum materials and identify opportunities for biblical integration.
3. Develop strategies for integrating biblical perspectives into lesson plans, activities, and assessments.
4. Evaluate different models of biblical integration and apply them to curriculum design.
5. Demonstrate proficiency in biblical literacy and apply this knowledge to curriculum development.
6. Examine the impact of cultural diversity on biblical integration in the classroom.
7. Develop contextually responsive teaching strategies that integrate biblical truth and values.

RE 930 Advanced Biblical Research and Writing

This course is an advanced study of the methods and techniques of biblical research and writing in preparation for the completion of a doctoral dissertation or project report. Focus is given to methodologies of advanced research and the process of writing a dissertation research paper. Students will learn how to identify and formulate a research question, conduct a literature review, evaluate sources and the proper format of a dissertation according to MLA formatting. On completing this course, students will be able to

1. Demonstrate a working knowledge of the history of biblical interpretation.
2. Demonstrate a working knowledge of the use of specific criticisms in biblical studies such as textual, source, form and canonical.
3. Identify and formulate research questions and a thesis statement.
4. Conduct a literature review.
5. Evaluate sources.
6. Format a paper according to MLA style.

The conclusion of this course will be the submission of Chapters 1, 2 and 3 of the student's dissertation project.

RE 950-960 Dissertation/Completion Independent Study

Doctoral candidates must be enrolled in this course for the duration of the writing of their dissertation.

RE 970 Dissertation Defense

The dissertation defense is the student's formal oral examination of a doctoral dissertation. The student will present their research findings and answer questions from a committee established by the student's advisor or the Academic Dean. The defense is the final step in the doctoral process, and it is a requirement for the awarding of the doctoral degree. The dissertation defense is typically a two-hour event:

- The first hour is devoted to the doctoral candidate's presentation of their research findings. The candidate will begin by providing an overview of their dissertation, and then they will present the findings of their research in more detail.
- The second hour of the defense is devoted to questions from the committee. The committee may ask questions about the candidate's research methods, findings, or interpretation of the findings. The candidate will be expected to answer these questions in a clear and concise manner.

Mapping Of Course Outcomes to Program Objectives:

Doctor of Religious Studies

Program Description and Goals

The Doctor of Religious Studies is the culmination of a student's journey of religious and theological studies. It is designed for students who value the diligent study of the Bible and the writings of major theologians. As a terminal degree, this program will not only achieve the pinnacle of theological scholarship, but students will also deepen their faith and to equip a new generation of Christian leaders. The major writing project is aimed at using present research applications to produce material for future impact to benefit the Church in its mission. By completing this program students will:

1. Demonstrate a deep understanding of religious studies while providing concentration in one of the fields of Old Testament, New Testament, or Biblical Theology.
2. Articulate the vital substance of the Biblical narrative in a way that is spiritually informed, historically and theologically accurate, and globally and locally located.
3. Evaluate the claims of other world religions and other worldviews against those of Christianity and draw conclusions regarding the validity of those claims.
4. Demonstrate doctoral level scholarly research skills.
5. Compose a focused program of study on a specific area. The learner will interact with the content of this program through analysis, critical evaluation, and synthesis, culminating in the capstone dissertation or project.

Program Goal

The DRS program prepares students for a variety of careers in teaching, research, and public service. Graduates of the program may work as professors, researchers, public policy analysts, or religious leaders.

- Trace the development of the history, philosophy, and theology of religion.
- Demonstrate critical thinking and independent research skills.
- Discuss the role of religion in society.
- Develop a community of scholars committed to the study of religion.
- A deeper understanding of the role of religion in society

Doctor of Theology

Program Description and Goals

The Doctor of Theology (Th.D.) is a terminal degree in the academic discipline of theology. The program is a rigorous, research-based course of study designed for students who want to deepen their understanding of theology and related disciplines. The design is to leverage this in-depth understanding of theology and related disciplines to prepare students for significant kingdom impact in an academic or ministry career. As a result of completing this degree, students will:

1. Trace the major theological traditions and their history.
2. Demonstrate advanced research skills by conducting original research in theology and related disciplines.
3. Deepen their understanding of theology through study of theology from historical, philosophical, and cultural perspectives.
4. Communicate effectively about theology in a variety of contexts.
5. Create personal and spiritual growth through opportunities for reflection and engagement with doctrine.

Program Goal

The goal of the Doctor of Theology degree is to provide students with a comprehensive understanding of biblical doctrine, cultivate critical thinking and analytical skills, and prepare them for ministry leadership roles:

- Developing knowledge and understanding of religious traditions: This degree program aims to provide students with a comprehensive understanding of the beliefs, practices, and history of biblical Christianity.
- Cultivating critical thinking and analytical skills: Equip students with the skills necessary to analyze and evaluate doctrinal ideas and arguments. Students will be required to engage in critical thinking, research, and analysis to develop their own perspectives on theological topics.
- Preparing for ministry leadership: The practical application of this course of study prepares students for church and ministry leadership roles, such as Pastors, chaplains, or educators. Students will be trained in pastoral care, public speaking, and teaching, as well as theological research and writing.
- Fostering personal and spiritual growth: Leadership stems from the leader, and focus is given to students' personal and spiritual growth by providing opportunities for reflection and engagement with scripture. Students will explore questions related to faith, ethics, and spirituality, and crystallize their own perspectives on these issues.

TH 921 Advanced Old Testament Theology

Some doctrine, though very little, can be gleaned through natural revelation. Nearly all of what we know about God and His truth comes from His revelation through Scripture. This course examines the knowledge of God from the Old Testament. Thus, the theology of the Old Testament is concerned with an understanding of God and His self-revelation as it is found in the canonical Scriptures. Two concerns guide the development of our study. The first entails an examination of the underlying unity in the communication of God with Israel. The second deals with the ways God dealt with Israel as His revelation of Himself moved toward a completed salvation in Jesus Christ. On completing this course, students will

1. Identify and discuss the unifying themes of the Old Testament and the relevance to the Christian life and witness.
2. Trace the doctrine of the knowledge of God relevant to His attributes such as holiness, righteousness, faithfulness, love, and judgment.
3. Identify the theme of salvation in the Old Testament as holy history with reference to sin and atonement, death and future life, sacrifice, and cult and eschatology.
4. Explain the nature of man in the Old Testament with reference to man as creature, flesh, spirit, and image of God, male and female

TH922 Advanced New Testament Theology

This advanced course in New Testament theology is designed for students who have an existing and working understanding of New Testament content and its historical context. The course will delve deeper into the theological themes and concepts found in the New Testament, examining their historical development and their relevance for contemporary Christian theology. As a result of completing this course, the student will:

1. Distinguish the major theological themes and concepts found in the New Testament, including salvation, the kingdom of God, and eschatology.
2. Summarize the historical development of these theological themes and concepts within the New Testament and their significance for Christian theology.
3. Evaluate the relationship between the New Testament and the Old Testament, and the ways in which the New Testament builds on and develops the theological ideas found in the Old Testament.
4. Survey various interpretations of New Testament theology, including those proposed by historical and contemporary scholars.
5. Measure the relevance of New Testament theology for contemporary Christian life and ministry
6. Express their own theological perspectives in light of the New Testament.

RE 930 Advanced Biblical Research and Writing

This course is an advanced study of the methods and techniques of biblical research and writing in preparation for the completion of a doctoral dissertation or project report. Focus is given to methodologies of advanced research and the process of writing a dissertation research paper. Students will learn how to identify and formulate a research question, conduct a literature review, evaluate sources and the proper format of a dissertation according to MLA formatting. On completing this course, students will be able to

1. Demonstrate a working knowledge of the history of biblical interpretation.

2. Demonstrate a working knowledge of the use of specific criticisms in biblical studies such as textual, source, form and canonical.
3. Identify and formulate research questions and a thesis statement.
4. Conduct a literature review.
5. Evaluate sources.
6. Format a paper according to MLA style.

The conclusion of this course will be the submission of Chapters 1, 2 and 3 of the student’s dissertation project.

RE 950-960 Dissertation/Completion Independent Study

Doctoral candidates must be enrolled in this course for the duration of the writing of their dissertation.

RE 970 Dissertation Defense

The dissertation defense is the student’s formal oral examination of a doctoral dissertation. The student will present their research findings and answer questions from a committee established by the student’s advisor or the Academic Dean. The defense is the final step in the doctoral process, and it is a requirement for the awarding of the doctoral degree. The dissertation defense is typically a two-hour event:

- The first hour is devoted to the doctoral candidate's presentation of their research findings. The candidate will begin by providing an overview of their dissertation, and then they will present the findings of their research in more detail.
- The second hour of the defense is devoted to questions from the committee. The committee may ask questions about the candidate's research methods, findings, or interpretation of the findings. The candidate will be expected to answer these questions in a clear and concise manner.

SIMULTANEOUS ENROLLMENT OPTION (SEO)

The Simultaneous Enrollment Option gives CCS Associate and Bachelor level students the opportunity to earn two degrees:

1. An associate or bachelor's degree from CCS in Biblical Studies.
2. An accredited bachelor's degree from Lancaster Bible College in Biblical Studies, Accounting, Business Administration, Marketing, Criminal Justice, Communication, Healthcare Management, Sport Management, or General Studies (for a full list, please visit <https://www.lbc.edu/online>).

Master's level SEOs are available in ministry and biblical studies degrees with Lancaster Bible College | Capital Bible Seminary.

Students interested in the Simultaneous Enrollment Option may obtain a course plan from the registrar or provost.

*Veterans must discuss eligibility with the Registrar.

ONLINE COURSES

Cornerstone College & Seminary offers undergraduate courses and graduate programs online. A student can register online at: cornerstonecollegeva.org or come into the main office. Undergraduate courses are updated every semester. Please consult the CCS website for updated information. Fully online graduate programs are listed on the CCS website. Veterans may not be certified for online, hybrid, or faculty-directed courses.

FACULTY DIRECTED STUDIES

Faculty Directed Study (FDS) requests may be made to the Registrar and are approved by the Academic Dean. CCS offers several core courses in the FDS format for those who may find it difficult to attend classes in person. An FDS form must be completed and approved before the student can begin the class. Veterans may not be certified for FDS.

HYFLEX COURSES

Hyflex courses are 8-week hybrid courses. A portion of the course will be delivered online. Hyflex delivery means that for the face-to-face portion of the class, students may access remotely or in class at their choice.

1. Synchronous learning. Each classroom will be equipped for remote instruction.
2. The professor's lesson planning must make allowances for equitable delivery of educational resources for remote learners.
3. Just as in class, students are required to attend and actively participate in class activities for attendance credit.

LEARNING AND EDUCATIONAL RESOURCES FOR STUDENTS

Digital Research Library

Current CCS students have access to the online CCS Digital Research Library. Perform research and find study helps online.

Students are encouraged to use Logos Bible Software or Blue Letter Bible to perform Bible research. COURSE LIST

BIBLICAL STUDIES COURSES (BI)

Course	Name	Credits	Description
BI 101	Old Testament Survey	3.00	A survey of the historical, critical, and theological study of the literature of the Old Testament. This course includes the Pentateuch, Historical Books, Poetry Books, the Psalms, and the Major and Minor Prophets. (Three credit hours).
BI 102	New Testament Survey	3.00	A survey of the historical, critical and theological study of the literature of the New Testament. (Three credit hours)
BI 111	Life of Christ	3.00	A comprehensive and chronological study of the life of Christ on earth, based on a study of a harmony of the Gospel accounts. The course focuses on a thematic and chronological view of Christ's life and ministry, providing an interpretation of key events and discourses and their practical application. It is designed to familiarize the student thoroughly with the Lord's ministry in order that any portion of the Gospel records may be related to the place, time, and circumstances of Christ's life on earth.
BI 112	Sermon on the Mount	3.00	The Sermon on the Mount is the Constitution of the King Jesus. It details the attitudes and actions the King of King demands of His subjects. Jesus' ethic for His people is radically different from the society at large. This course covers the entire Sermon verse by verse. From the beatitudes in chapter five to the warning of chapter 7, "I will declare to them, 'I never know you; depart from Me, you who practice lawlessness.'" In it, the student will encounter an ethic worldview fundamentally different from the kingdoms of this present age.
BI 121	Bible as Literature	3.00	This course will study the English Bible on its merits as a piece of world class literature. Students will review the authorship and cultural context of the autographs, the history of and concerns surrounding canonicity, translation, and interpretation, the overarching themes of the English Bible as an anthology and the complementary themes found in its individual books, literary genres included, narrative styles used, and cultural currency. Students will ultimately examine their own knowledge and assumptions concerning the English Bible as a piece of literature and engage in interpretation and synthesis based on such review.

BI 140	Greek I	3.00	This course will introduce the students to the New Testament language of the Bible. Students will learn how to read and interpret the language. They will also learn how to apply the correct meaning and contexts of the language to preaching, teaching and exegetical work. (Three credit hours)
BI 141	Greek II	3.00	This course will build on the foundation of Greek I, giving particular attention to Greek syntax and exegesis. (Three credit hours)
BI 162	Life Principles from the Old Testament	3.00	In the course, students will discover principles for their lives from concepts found in the Old Testament.
BI 201	Biblical Hermeneutics	3.00	This course illustrates the various principles of Biblical interpretation that must be followed if one is to understand the teaching of God's Word. This class is pivotal for anyone who is going preach or teach the Bible. (Three credit hours)
BI 235	Minor Prophets	3.00	This course gives an in-depth study of the minor prophets of the Bible, from Hosea to Malachi. The message of each book will be considered in its historical setting to better understand Israel's moral and spiritual condition and how that applies to our modern-day living. Special emphasis will be given to the authorship and divine promises of each book as to the messages of future judgment and deliverance. (Three credits)
BI 237	Major Prophets	3.00	This course offers an in-depth study of the Major prophets from Isaiah to Daniel. (Three credit hours)
BI 244	Study of the Tabernacle	3.00	An in-depth study of the Typological interpretation of the Mosaic Tabernacle. The course will help the student focus on the intricate Scriptural details of each item concerning the Tabernacle. (Three credit hours)

BI 245	The Pentateuch	3.00	This course will study the history of God's dealings with Israel from creation through the end of its wandering. (Three credit hours)
BI 250	Hebrew I	3.00	This course will introduce the students to the Old Testament Language of the Bible. Students will learn how to read and interpret the language. They will also learn how to apply the correct meaning and contexts of the language to preaching, teaching and exegetical work. (Three credit hours)
BI 251	Hebrew II	3.00	This course will build on the foundation of Hebrew I. It will expand students' vocabulary and their understanding of Hebrew verbal patterns to equip them for Hebrew Bible exegesis.
BI 255	Peoples & Cities of the Ancient Near East	3.00	This course explores the history and culture of the people and cities of the Biblical Ancient Near East. It will focus on Mesopotamia, Egypt, and the cities and people of the Middle East that are significant to our Judeo-Christian religious history and tradition. (Three credit hours)
BI 261	Apologetics I : Defending the Faith	3.00	This course prepares students to answer the hard questions people have about God, Jesus Christ, the Holy Spirit, and their faith. Students will analyze and evaluate different philosophies and grapple with critical issues such as origins of life, bioethics, morality, and major world religions. (Three credit hours)
BI 330	Parables of Christ	3.00	This course will be an in-depth study on the "parables of Jesus" as found in the four Gospel accounts. The course seeks to apply Scripture to the context in which it was written and their viewpoint and relation to modern day life. The course will refer to several other works as students seek to understand how to apply the parables to their lives, teaching and preaching. (Three credit hours).
BI 340	Life and Teaching of Paul	3.00	This course will be an in-depth study of the "Harmony of St. Paul's Life" as found in the Bible in the Acts of the apostles and harmonizing it with the Pauline Epistles. The Book of Acts covers the beginning of the word of the apostles in preaching the message of Jesus Christ. (Three credit hours)

BI 341	Pauline Epistles	3.00	This course will be an in-depth study of the epistles of Paul the Apostle. (Three credit hours)
BI 345	Jesus Christ & His Encounters	3.00	This course will help provide preachers, teachers and lay persons with material for personal bible study, Sunday school lessons, teaching and preaching within the church and seminary. The course will look at several of the encounters that Jesus had with everyday people, incidents and events throughout the Bible. Students will learn how to theologically and morally apply to everyday life. (Three credit hours)

PM 721	Leading Theological Change	3.00	The Bible is saturated with passages like Proverbs 29:18, which says "Where there is no vision, the people perish:..." The primary task of leadership is to energize a community of people to meet the challenges of the uncharted terrain before them. "No vision" is another way of saying no progress, and directly speaks to an environment of status and passivity. Effective leadership therefore is about the process of personal and organizational transformation. This course will focus on biblical precepts of servant leadership shaped around the leader's own personal competence, foundational character, and ability to adapt. The key thought is this: Biblical leadership is dependent on the leader's own ongoing growth, spiritual foundation and ability to lead others into a process of shared transformation.
