ABOUT US

WE FIGHT FOR CRIME

- ❖ The Police Public Press takes the responsibility of an operation that aims to make India a crime-free nation. We are certain that well-ordered work by the police, and the press can play a key role in ending crimes in our society.
- ❖ With delight, we present the special idea of Police Public Press and that with the help of monthly magazines, we can explore a wholesome aspect of the relationship between the police and the Public.
- ❖ In our nationwide network of 350 youths, we issue this magazine in four different languages (English, Hindi, Gujarati & Odia). Moreover, we also produce it on television and host seminars at different places in India.

WE FIGHT FOR CRIME FREE INDIA

Mission

You may contact the Police Public Press Relationship on ☎ 1800-11-5100. We feel pleased that what began as a small attempt three years back has spread considerably. Since then, it has collected more value, appreciation, and help from other people from various parts of the country.

Vision

Administrative heads, entrepreneurs, and the police have stepped up to help us. As a consequence, the Police Public Press' The Relationship National Magazine has gathered a subscription of over 60,000 pan-India. We have already conducted more than 120 seminars in various parts of India.

PPP

We firmly believe that a systematic work of Police Public Press holds a great deal of power to drive crime out of society. We spend time cultivating the relationship among this trio so that the relationship has a strong base of friendship to help secure the development and coordination of the Police Public Press.

Chief Editor

Pawan Kumar Bhoot

A coordinated campaign pressing for the police incident or a crime-free India has been spreading across India. The Police Public Press will eradicate the instances of crime from our society. We are convinced by the fact that with the unprecedented stability and coordination among the three, there will be a collective growth of the Police, Public, and Press. Our success is linked to the positive changes brought about by our magazine. Over 30 young journalists in TV Programs across languages like English, Hindi, and Gujarati play a key role in spreading awareness via seminars. The Police Public Press's The Relationship National Magazine has already won the hearts of almost 60,000 readers. Recently we also organized 40 seminars in different parts of the country.
