Canned Vegetables

Sometimes vegetables are not available the whole year and are sometimes easy to access. In this circumstance, canned vegetables are a healthy solution for a human being. Canned vegetables are nutritious and easily digested compared to their fresh counterparts. With the canning process (sterilizing process), vegetables lose their hazardous microorganisms, which is why shelf-life increases as well. Eatzready's canned vegetables are very convenient for instant cooking.

Canned Pulses

Those things that happen with vegetables also happen with pulses. The same solution required is to sterilize the product between 120°C (248°F) to 130°C (266°F). Eatzready is using a steam sterilizing process which is good for destroying hazardous microbiological bacteria. We are sourcing from handpicked fresh sources and then developing to make shareable products. In Eatzready's portfolio, varieties of pulses are available. Eatzready's canned pulses are good for instant cooking.

Canned Fruits

In fruit processing, the method is also the same as for vegetables and beans. Eatzready's Kesar mango is harvested from Junagadh Gir District of Gujarat, which is famous for its dense forest, Asian lions, and Kesar mango. Eatzready also provides Alphonso mango, which is cultivated in the Ratnagiri district of Maharashtra. Alphonso mango is much sweeter than Kesar mango; if you like mild sweetness, go with Kesar, and if you prefer rich sweetness, go with Alphonso.

Ground Spices

A collection of four wooden spoons filled with different ground spices, including red chili powder, yellow turmeric, and saffron, arranged on a white background with scattered whole spices and green leaves.

Eatzready is sourcing spices from their farms. Our farms are located in Gondal, Gujarat, famous for their spices. Eatzready's spices are ground with cold grinding technology which is stable at 40°C (104°F) to 45°C (113°F). In the normal grinding method temperature is reach up to 120°C (248°F), Spices begin to lose their pungency and flavor at around 60°C (140°F). Our technology preserves the test and aroma of spices as well. Therefore, you only need the least quantity of spices to create great food.
