* The HRC Foundation's "Best Places to Work" distinction helps the public understand a company's commitment to inclusive policies and practices for LGBTQ+ workers. Given ongoing concerns about and the extent of litigation against Activision Blizzard regarding workplace equality and safety for women and the LGBTQ+ community, HRC has suspended the company's Corporate Equality Index score and will not be rewarding it with a "Best Places to Work" distinction in the 2022 CEI. HRC and Activision Blizzard have had productive conversations about workplace policies and practices that will ensure that its workplace is continuing to improve in the areas of workplace equality, inclusion and safety.

The HRC Foundation's "Best Places to Work" distinction helps the public understand a company's commitment to inclusive policies and practices for LGBTQ+ workers. Given the harm experienced by transgender workers at Netflix as a result of the company's handling of the release of The Closer, HRC has suspended Netflix's Corporate Equality Index score and will not be rewarding it with a "Best Places to Work" distinction in the 2022 CEI. HRC and Netflix are having productive conversations about steps the company could take to demonstrate it is acting in a manner consistent with the values of workplace equality and inclusion and to improve trust among their employees and the public.
