

Cookies are a technology which can be used to provide you with tailored information from our website. A cookie is an element of data that our website sends to your browser, which may then store it on your system. You can set your browser to notify you when you receive a cookie, giving you the chance to decide whether to accept it. If you do not wish for us to use cookies when you use our website please adjust your internet browser settings to not accept cookies. Please note that cookies allow you to take full advantage of the services we provide through our website and so we recommend that you leave them turned on in order to get the best browsing experience on our website.

We use the cookies for the following purposes:

- site administration
- operation of our website. These include, for example, cookies that allow you to log into our website or use the website's shopping basket
- to recognise and count the number of visitors and to see how visitors move around our website when they are using it. This helps us to improve the way our website works, for example, by ensuring that users are finding what they are looking for easily
- completing the user's current activity
- reviewing browsing history in order to recommend more suitable products and more relevant marketing email communications
- to keep track of how you use the shopping cart. This information may be used to offer assistance if you seem to be having problems, or to send special offers that relate to the products viewed, or to help us improve the Website.

Please note that third parties (including, for example, advertising networks and providers of external services like web traffic analysis services) may also use cookies, over which we have no control. These cookies are likely to be analytical/performance cookies or targeting cookies. To find out more about cookies including how to manage your cookie settings, please visit www.allaboutcookies.org.
