CREATING A HEALTHIER HAWAII'

MESSAGE FROM THE HEAD OF SCHOOL

December 2024

The lessons that come with participating in sports last a lifetime. 'Iolani's history of providing youths with the experience of competition has grown to include meeting and playing with and against others from around the world. Since its founding over 40 years ago, the 'Iolani Prep Classic has become the marquee event with which we celebrate this commitment by engaging the world community through sport. This year, our gymnasiums will come alive watching elite-level basketball games between teams from Japan, Kaua'i, O'ahu, California, Florida, Georgia, New Hampshire, New York, Pennsylvania, Utah and Virginia.

Beyond the court, the positive energy that radiates from this and other such tournaments enriches our campus and lasts long after the final game. The spirit of competition and atmosphere of good sportsmanship make the Classic a time of new and renewed friendships, as these young athletes learn from each other's talents and abilities.

The Classic would not be possible without the contributions of Glenn Young '59 and Raymond Wong '49. This tournament relies on the support, resources and contributions of dozens of enthusiastic volunteers who come from the ranks of students, teachers, staff, alumni, parents and friends of the school.

On behalf of all of us at 'Iolani, thank you for being a part of the 'Iolani Prep Classic – an event anticipated by so many people each year. We wish all of you a very special time here and a Happy Holiday season.

Mahalo,

Timothy R. Cottrell, Ph.D.
Head of School

THE RAY WONG ONE TEAM AWARD

HONORING THE TREASURED 'IOLANI TRADITION OF "ONE TEAM"

In 2002, in honor of the 50th Anniversary of the passing of legendary Father Kenneth Bray, the 'Iolani Prep Classic began the tradition of presenting The Ray Wong Team Award to the team that best exemplifies the qualities of good character and sportsmanship in its performances at the tourney.

This prestigious award will honor the legacy of men who have dedicated their lives to ensure that athletic competition fosters the valued traits of selflessness, humility, perseverance, and integrity. At 'Iolani, this tradition was begun by Father Kenneth Bray, and carried on by Edward Hamada and future generations of coaches. The impact that these men have had on countless numbers of 'Iolani athletes is immeasurable.

Decades ago, Glenn Young '59 had a vision to create the 'Iolani Prep Classic in order to elevate the quality of basketball in Hawai'i. There is little doubt that Glenn's dream has become reality. Essential to that success has been the generous support of many corporate and individual donors.

No single sponsor has been more generous or more consistent than Mr. Ray Wong '49. An 'Iolani graduate and disciple of Father Bray, Ray realized the tremendous value that this tournament had for the youth of the entire state, and he pledged his resources to its success. In typical "One Team" fashion, his generosity came with only two conditions. First, he asked that the tournament include as great a variety of local Hawai'i teams from year to year so that the entire state could benefit from it. Second, he wished that his sponsorship remain anonymous. Credit simply was not important to him.

We broke our promise to Mr. Wong, and in 2002 established an award in his honor, and in the honor of the traditions that he has steadfastly upheld. We believe that this award is the most significant one that we will dispense. Championships and individual recognitions are fleeting honors, but values such as those recognized by this award are timeless and everlasting virtues. Mr. Wong passed away on July 17, 2022, at the age of 90, but dedication to good character and sportsmanship live on.

Action, not credit.
Team, not self.*

HONORING

COACH GLENN YOUNG '59

The 'Iolani Prep Classic, one of the nation's premier high school basketball tournaments, was the brainchild of Glenn Young after his talented 1982-83 'Iolani Raiders squad had a humbling tournament experience in Las Vegas. After returning, he began tournament plans to bring top mainland teams to Hawai'i to expose local players and coaches to the kind of competition that 'Iolani faced in Nevada.

A steady stream of elite high school teams to the 'Iolani Prep Classic began in 1983 with West Philadelphia. It went on to include well-known programs such as: Oak Hill, St. Anthony's, Fairfax, Montrose Christian, Flint Hill Prep, Rice (N.Y.), DeMatha, Findlay Prep, Montverde, and many others. It didn't take long for Glenn Young's idea to take shape quickly and become a can't-miss holiday event that has the attention of avid high school basketball fans throughout the country. The tournament has also gone worldwide with its impact, including teams from China, Germany, Italy and Japan in 'Iolani Prep Classic fields through the years.

With the assistance of his family and the 'Iolani community, Glenn Young shepherded the 'Iolani Prep Classic, which added the girls tournament in 2007, for over 30 years. From coordinating transportation, food and staffing, to setting the brackets and publishing the program, he was involved in all aspects of one of the most illustrious tournaments in the United States.

A member of 'Iolani School's Class of 1959, Glenn Young also coached football at his alma mater, where he spent 43 years as a teacher and department head. He passed away on Nov. 12, 2015, at the age of 73, but not before becoming a friend and mentor for many at 'Iolani School, and making a lasting impact in the Hawai'i basketball community and beyond.

'IOLANI PREP CLASSIC: EARLY TIMELINE

The seeds for the 'Iolani Prep Classic, now in its 40th year as one of Hawai'i's venerable sporting events, actually were planted almost 3,000 miles away in a Nevada desert. Here is an early timeline of the Classic, from its conception to emergence as the nation's premier high school basketball tournament:

Dec. 1982:

'Iolani School, which returned four talented starters and later went on to win its first state championship, participates in the Rancho High School Tournament in Las Vegas and loses all three games by over 20 points each. "It wasn't even close," Red Raiders coach Glenn Young said years later. "The caliber of play on the Mainland was so much more superior to the caliber of play in Hawai'i ... We needed to expose our local high school players to the kinds of things they were doing on the Mainland." Young met the head coaches from West Philadelphia and St. Bernard (Marina Del Rey, Calif.) in Las Vegas and invited their teams to play in the inaugural 'Iolani Prep Classic the following year.

Spring 1983:

Glenn Young meets with 'Iolani athletic director Eddie Hamada to start planning the first annual 'Iolani Prep Classic. It is acknowledged that the tournament must be self-funded, with no subsidies from the school. Hamada approaches longtime friend and supporter Ray Wong '49 for help, and Mr. Wong generously pledges to fund anchor support entirely out of his personal account.

Dec. 21-23, 1983:

INAUGURAL 'Iolani Prep Classic tips off, featuring the West Philadelphia "Speedboys," ranked No. 10 in Street & Smith's preseason national poll. Other visiting teams include Rancho (Las Vegas), Huntington Beach (Calif.) and St. Bernard (Marina Del Rey, Calif.). West Philadelphia entertains the capacity crowds with its rhythmic clapping and high-flying dunks during warm-ups and fast-paced action during the games. The Speedboys, led by Temple-bound guard Howard Evans, defeats St. Bernard, 60-51, for the championship.

'IOLANI PREP CLASSIC: EARLY TIMELINE

Dec. 21-23, 1984:

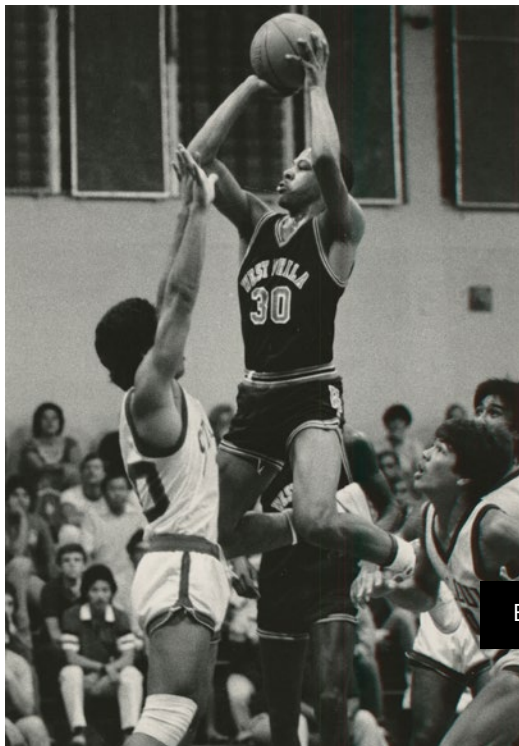

SECOND ANNUAL 'Iolani Prep Classic sees the return of West Philly, along with crosstown rival Johnstown (Pa.) and Glendale (Calif.). Glendale upsets the Speedboys for the title.

Dec. 20-23, 1985:

THIRD ANNUAL 'Iolani Prep Classic represents "the turning point," according to Glenn Young. McDonald's of Hawai'i becomes a title sponsor, and Flint Hill Prep of Oakton, Va., -- the No. 1-ranked team in the nation -- makes its first appearance in the Classic. Flint Hill junior Dennis Scott -- rated as one of top five guards in the country -- puts on a spectacular show with his all-around game that features alley-oop dunks, 20-foot jumpers and nifty dribbling and passing. The other Mainland teams are West Philly, Servite (Anaheim, Calif.) and Doss (Louisville, Ky.). Maryknoll, led by future University of Hawai'i quarterback Garrett Gabriel, upsets Doss in the quarterfinals 64-62, after Gabriel scored 13 points and blocked a shot with one second remaining. Gabriel then scored a tournament-record 32 points as the Spartans fell short against West Philly in the semifinals.

Dec. 19-23, 1986:

FOURTH ANNUAL 'Iolani Prep Classic expands to 12 teams and again features No. 2-ranked Flint Hill as Scott returns, this time as the nation's No. 1-ranked player. Joining the field is Camden, N.J., ranked No. 25, and Roman Catholic (Philadelphia), Simi Valley (Calif.), Msgr. McClancy (New York), and St. Bernard. The stacked field earns national recognition as Street & Smith magazine names the 'Iolani Prep Classic as the best high school tournament in the country. St. Bernard's David Whitmore, a 6-foot-4 All-America candidate with a 40-inch vertical leap, wins the slam-dunk contest and 'Iolani's 5-foot-10 sophomore, Kanoe Winchester, finishes second. KHNL-13 televises the championship game on live statewide TV.

After going 7-5 in the inaugural season of the Nike EYBL Scholastic, Brewster Academy arrives at the Classic ready to showcase its speed as it tries to reach higher goals this year. Losing three starters (Elijah Crawford at BYU, Nojus Indrusaitis at Iowa State, and Daniel Jacobsen at Purdue) hurts, but the reloaded squad looks to keep the pace up and play fast.

The Bobcats are led by their two returning starters: senior Dwayne Aristode & junior Sebastian Wilkins. Aristode, a native of the Netherlands, is ranked 21st in the ESPN Top 100 and is on his way to the University of Arizona next year. Wilkins, with his handful of offers, is ranked 40th in the Class of 2026.

With Aristode & Smith back in the fold, the guards will be counted on to fill in the production as well. And according to head coach Jason Smith, "Brewster Academy has more guards than San Quentin." Seniors Ebuka Okorie (Stanford commit) and Killyan Toure (Iowa State signee) are the headliners of the group, but junior Darien Moore (Seton Hall commit) helps form the three-headed monster.

The journey for four in a row takes a detour to the islands as the Panthers make their way down to the Classic. Imhotep Charter finished off a 29-3 campaign that reached the summit for the third year by winning the PIAA (Pennsylvania) Class 5A state championship once again last year.

This year's team returns three junior starters in RJ Smith, Latief Lorenzano-White, and Zaahir Muhammad-Gray. Smith stands at just 5-9, but don't let his height fool you as he runs the show with his vision and shot-making ability. Lorenzano-White lets his athleticism and effort talk on both ends of the floor while Muhammad-Gray uses his physicality and versatility to lead the Panthers.

Coming in as a sidekick to the trio, Zion Green steps up as the 20th-ranked sophomore in the country, according to ESPN. Carnell Henderson, one of three seniors on the team, does it all and will be counted on for his leadership as one of the captains. Kevin Benson III and Talasi Henderson will also have significant roles for Imhotep as they look to defend their state championship.

Coach Ryan Hirata begins his fifth season with a different-looking team from last year's squad that had unusual height and front-line depth. By contrast, 10 of the 12 players on the current roster are listed as either a guard or guard/forward, which translates into a more up-tempo attack. Sophomore returnee Declan Beckette (6-3) is a versatile guard/forward who can score from inside or out, and runs the floor well. He scored 22 points in a 55-50 victory over King Kekaulike.

Senior point guard Aidan Wong (6-0) is a returning starter who can distribute and score; he had a 16-point effort in a 45-29 win at Radford. Junior guard/forward Ayden Goo (6-3) is the primary outside shooting threat with good range from beyond the arc; he scored 15 points in a 65-61 victory over Baldwin.

Their only loss was to defending OIA runner-up Mililani, 60-52.

Coach Brandyn Akana returns two starters from last year's team which finished 14-3 and took fifth place in the state tournament. The Red Raiders began this season with a loss to Leilehua but rebounded with a 62-48 victory over Kamehameha.

Sophomore guard/forward Ronin Naihe started as a freshman last year and is off to a good start this season, scoring 19 points in the loss to Leilehua. At 6-5, he can step out and hit the 3-point shot, having made two triples in each of the first two games. Junior guard Mystique Akina-Watson (5-10) is the other returning starter, and he scored 18 points in the win over Kamehameha.

Sophomore guard Kash Daley (5-9) and senior forward Benson Goo (6-2) are two other returnees from last year's team.

The Falcons lost their first three games this season to contenders Mililani, Nanakuli and Maryknoll, but rebounded to win three of their next four. The victories were against Hawai'i Baptist, Maryknoll (Division II) and Pearl City.

Senior guard/forward Dylan Kobayashi is averaging 15 points per game, with a 26-point outing in the 59-53 loss to Nanakuli and a 21-point effort in the 47-43 win at Pearl City. He has scored in double figures in all but one game. Junior guard Garrick Imamura had a 15-point game in the 53-49 victory against HBA, and senior center Kevin Wu added 11 points in that game.

Kobayashi and Wu have been named co-captains and are expected to provide leadership for a young team that has only four seniors on the 14-person roster.

First-year coach Ron Durant has three returning starters from a team that finished last year's season strong before falling short of a state tournament berth. Senior guard Makai Barr (6-3) has height and can be a major factor on the glass. Fellow senior guard Nahiku Nahale-a (5-8) is a legitimate 3-point threat with extended range, and also is a reliable ball-handler who can penetrate and distribute. He had a 19-point game with four assists and two steals in this season's victory over Kailua.

Junior guard Shyne Salvador (6-4) has emerged as a scoring threat who can step out and hit the 3-pointer. Senior guard Xander Aquino (6-1) is yet another three-year veteran like Barr, Nahale-a and Salvador. Returning junior Malakai Lee, a 6-8 center, is one of the nation's top college football prospects and presents a big physical presence in the post.

Kapa'a is off to a 5-2 start this season, including victories over perennial Division I contenders Baldwin (56-51) and Campbell (48-45). Returning starter Austin Green has led the offense by averaging 14.4 points per game, including 18 points against Campbell and 17 points in the win over Baldwin. He made three 3-pointers in each of those games and has nine triples overall.

Emry Piturachsatit is second in scoring at 10.3 ppg, including eight 3-pointers.

The Mules (5-0) are off to another strong start, including victories over perennial state contenders Kahuku and Punahou. Wilson, a 6-3 forward/center, is an inside-outside scoring threat averaging 13.6 points per game including 20 points against Punahou and 16 at Kahuku. Returnee Trystin Stevens, a 5-10 guard/forward, is another well-rounded offensive player who leads the team in scoring at 16.6 ppg, including 21 against Kaimuki. He has hit 11 shots from 3-point range.

A new impact player is 6-foot senior guard Zach Ranos, a good shooter who is averaging 9.4 ppg including 16 points at Kahuku. Returning point guard Cobe Wyatt (5-7) has good handles and excels as a floor general and in the open court creating shots for teammates off of drives to the basket. Senior guard Chaysen Montayre (5-7) is another returnee who can shoot from outside and also is a solid on-ball/off-ball defender, and sophomore Josiah Simbre, a 5-7 guard, brings high energy on offense and defense and is effective in the open court.

Leilehua has scored at least 56 points in every game so far.

The defending MaxPreps national champion Panthers are returning back to the Classic as they try to improve on their runner-up finish in 2021. A new-look squad for head coach Glenn Farello will be the talking point as the Panthers graduated five seniors: Darren Harris (Duke), Patrick Ngongba (Duke), Garrett Sundra (Notre Dame), Ben Hammond (Virginia Tech) and Isaiah Abraham (UConn).

Replacing five key pieces isn't easy, but Paul VI will be led by 4-star Utah State signee Adlan Elamin and Jordan Smith Jr. (#6 in ESPN 2026 class). Smith (offered by 25+ colleges including Syracuse, Duke, North Carolina, Kentucky, Tennessee and UConn) is a returning starter and also helped the USA Men's U17 National Team win the gold this summer.

Towson signee Jaquan Womack and junior Jordan Hunter (24/7's #22 SG) will be counted on in larger roles. Other key returnees are senior forward Jacob Moore and junior guard Colin Byrd. Junior Lawrence "Turk" Brown and sophomores Derek "Beau" Daniels, Matthew Mena, and Andrew Ross highlight the newcomers, who will continue to try to push the tempo and run. The goals are high once again for the Panthers who are trying to win their fourth consecutive Washington Catholic Athletic Conference title as well as their fourth straight VISAA Division I state championship.

Utah Prep makes their appearance in the Classic this year as they try to show the nation, they have what it takes to compete at the highest level. Arriving at the islands ranked #5 in the MaxPreps National Top 10, Utah Prep already secured big wins to start the season, including a win over then #1 Link Academy.

The spotlight is on Utah Prep this year as top-ranked senior AJ Dybantsa, freshly committed to BYU, will have all eyes on him. Dybantsa, new to the squad, already is projected as a top lottery pick in the 2026 NBA draft and can create his own shot with his versatile 6-9 frame. JJ Mandaquit, who won two gold medals with Dybantsa and Team USA over the last two years, returns to the Classic for his senior year and is the floor general on the court. Mandaquit, playing his freshman year at 'Iolani, put his talent on display as he dropped 18 points vs top-ranked Sierra Canyon back in 2021. He is now signed to play with Washington next year.

Utah Prep showcases their depth with a handful of senior talent that complements Dybantsa and Mandaquit. The seniors consist of guards John Southwick and Jaden Vance with the big men Jackson Rasmussen, Jackson Kiss, and Guystone Kasenga. Junior Anthony Felesi, ranked #43 by ESPN, has carved out a starting role on the squad. And lastly, junior Layden Kauka returns to the islands after leading Kohala to back-to-back HHSAA DII state championships while being named Most Outstanding Player both times.

Two senior starters graduated and are now playing collegiately (Pablo Soumare at Omaha and Andrew Nagy at Long Beach State), but a good mix of returnees and newcomers look to come in and compete.

Senior guards Aram Soqui Urbano and Zion Paleo headline the returnees for Veritas as both of them started last year for head coach George Zedan. Forwards Samuel Mena and Demari Davis will also play big roles throughout the season.

Joining the Titans are senior guard Juan Guerrero Hernandez Jr., junior guard Rayane Solhi, and bigs Kofi Asare, Woody Ching Jr. and Lamarius White. Guerrero Hernandez comes to the team with eight offers (Mississippi State, Iowa, DePaul, etc.). Solhi's experience with Morocco's U18 Team will be counted on in the backcourt.

The Wildcats, who were ranked at No. 23 in the MaxPrep preseason rankings, have already faced elite competition this season, beating highly-regarded Prolific Prep (Napa, Calif.) at the Utah National Hoopfest, before losing to current MaxPreps No. 1 Columbus (Miami, Fla.) at Holiday Hoopsgiving and No. 4 Grayson (Loganville, Ga.) in the Tournament of Champions.

In its second visit to the Classic, public-school powerhouse Wheeler features a well-rounded and balanced squad that can play a number of styles. The Wildcats have experienced players back from last year's Georgia State Final Four appearance, led by 6-9 senior forward Tylis Jordan (#47 senior by On3; Ole Miss signee) and 6-6 junior forward Colben Landrew (#83 junior by 24/7 Sports; offers from Purdue, Arkansas, Louisville, Alabama, Cincinnati, Indiana).

The Wildcat program, which has won two of the last three GHSA state championships, is known to be versatile and hard-nosed on defense, while featuring a fast-paced tempo offensive attack.
