The New Colossus

Not like the brazen giant of Greek fame, with conquering limbs astride
from land to land;

Here at our sea-washed, sunset gates shall stand a mighty woman with a torch, whose flame is the imprisoned lighting, and her name Mother of Exiles.

From her beacon-hand glows world-wide welcome;
her mild eyes command the air-bridged harbor that twin cities frame.

"Keep, ancient lands, your storied pomp!" cries she with silent lips.

"Give me your tired, your poor,
Your huddled masses yearning to breathe free,

The wretched refuse of your teeming shore.

Send these, the homeless,
tempest-tost to me,

I lift my lamp beside the golden door!"

-Emma Lazarus

November 2nd, 1883

? Ellis Island, located in the New York harbor between the states of New York and New Jersey, was once a port of entry that functioned as an immigrant inspection site from 1882 to 1954. Ellis Island served as a gateway to new beginnings for immigrants coming from Europe.

Alongside Ellis Island, the Statue of Liberty was one of the first things immigrants travelling to the United States would see. The Statue of Liberty stands high as a symbol of freedom in the Hudson River. Lady Liberty was a gift from France, to honor the alliance between France and United States during the American Revolution. The monument continues to serve as a beacon of hope shining bright for all newcomers from all over the world.

A Message from Mayor Steven M. Fulop

Over 12 million immigrants first stepped foot on U.S. soil right here in Jersey City. It's an exclusive part of our country's history that only we can claim. For decades, Ellis Island served as an immigration station, welcoming newcomers of various ethnicities and backgrounds to become part of the local community. I am proud that this tradition lives on, that America's Golden Door remains open, and that Jersey City is a home that offers sanctuary, opportunity, and hope to so many.

Building a life in a new home can often be met with struggle and hardship. My parents had many obstacles to overcome when they fled Romania to begin a new life in New Jersey. My two brothers and I worked in our father's delicatessen, while my mother went on to open an office to assist immigrants in Newark. My parents are a reminder for me that everyone deserves the opportunity for a better life.

Today, my work as Mayor allows me the opportunity to help people in various ways, including efforts to assist immigrants trying to make a new life for themselves and their families. One of my proudest examples is when I signed an executive order making Jersey City a Sanctuary City, but those important protections only work in conjunction with robust services and compassionate support. This Resource Guide for Immigrants that you hold in your hands symbolizes our pledge that we will work with our community partners, to assist in all that we can, and to invite you to build Jersey City together.

Sincerely,

A Message from Stacey Lea Flanagan

Director of the Department of Health and Human Services

As Director of the Health Department, there is nothing more important than the health and wellbeing of Jersey City's residents. But health is more than what we eat or how much we exercise. Our overall health is determined by every part of our daily lives: our jobs, our homes, our air, our sense of security. For new immigrants, trying to exist in a way that promotes health can be uniquely challenging.

The Department of Health and Human Services recognizes that you are essential to the health of Jersey City, which is why the Division of Immigrant Affairs is part of our organization. Your use of public and non-profit services, your engagement with city government, your contributions to our society help us all stay healthy and happy. In a city where two of every five residents were born in another country, the health of immigrants is a barometer of the city's public health at large. Your success is Jersey City's success.

This Resource Guide for Immigrants encourages you to take full advantage of the many services our city has to offer. Our Division of Immigrant Affairs team has compiled this guide because we understand that your needs are diverse, and your potential to prosper is limitless. Your health is much more than diet and exercise, and your future is tied to the future of Jersey City, a city where all are welcome.

Sincerely,

9-1-1 Emergency Telecommunications Service

9-1-1 is the telephone number you should call when there is any kind of emergency. Examples of emergencies include fire, serious injury, difficulty breathing, violence, and robberies.

- Call 9-1-1 for emergency help only
- If you do not speak English, say the name of the language you speak to the operator
- Give the location and description of the emergency
- Stay on the phone until help arrives

 Free

Emergency Calls Only: 9-1-1

Non-Emergency calls to the Jersey City Police Department: 201-547-5477

Who should I call if there is an emergency?

In the case of an emergency, it is always best to call 9-1-1 for assistance. A call to a 9-1-1 can be made from any phone and is always free. Text messages can also be sent to 9-1-1, but a phone call is the most typical and reliable way to contact emergency services. Tell the operator your exact location and describe the emergency. Depending on your type of emergency, a police car, ambulance, and/or fire truck will be sent to your location. Do not hang up the phone until emergency services arrive.

All people are encouraged to call 9-1-1 where there is an emergency. You will not be asked your immigration status when calling. If you are unable to communicate in English, say the language you speak and an interpreter will be provided.

Who else may respond in an emergency?

United Rescue Jersey City is a team of volunteer paramedics with specialized training and equipment who can respond to medical emergencies on foot or in their private vehicles. They are very valuable, because they can often respond before an ambulance arrives. For more information, see www.UnitedRescue.us. Another local organization is the Community Emergency Response Team (CERT), which is made up of volunteers who respond to large-scale emergencies like natural disasters. For more information, contact jwoods@hcnj.us or 201-369-5200.¹

What if I need the police, but it isn't an emergency?

If you would like to contact the police for an issue that is not an emergency, you should call the Jersey City Police Department at 201-547-5477. To report non-emergencies like noise complaints or a flooded road, contact the Public Safety Department at 201-547-4239. If you have information that could be used to stop a crime but want to remain anonymous, contact the Jersey City Police Tip Line at 201-547-5245 or policetips@njcps.org.²

A Jersey City police car can arrive on the scene of your emergency. Jersey City police will not ask your immigration status.

When you call 9-1-1 with a medical emergency, a United Rescue volunteer responder might arrive before an ambulance.

Jersey City Police Department Non-Emergency Dispatcher

The Jersey City Police Department Non-Emergency Dispatcher is the phone number you should call for non-emergencies that require police attention. Call to report noise, domestic disturbances, or suspicious activity. You will NOT be asked your immigration status when contacting the Jersey City Police. If you have an emergency, call 9-1-1.

- Report non-emergency problems to the police
- Report suspicious activity in your neighborhood

Why is the U.S. Census so important?

The census is when the government makes a complete count of every person who lives in the United States. The census is conducted every 10 years, and counts all people, regardless of their immigration status. The government then uses the census count to determine how much money it should give to cities for schools, police, fire departments, and public health. The government also uses the census count to determine how many elected representatives are needed for a given population. Non-profit organizations use the census count to determine how to serve vulnerable groups. Even corporations use the census count to plan where to build stores, offices, and restaurants. When residents fail to fill out census forms, their community might lose its fair share of resources and compromise its future.⁴

What if I am not a citizen, or I don't have proper immigration documents?

First, if you reside in the United States, you are required by law to fill out a census form, even if you are not a citizen or a documented immigrant. Second, according to Title 13 of federal law, the information you put on your census form may not be published, used in court, or accessed by any government agency other than the Census Bureau. The Census Bureau may only use the census information to provide statistical counts and broad analyses of data; it is not permitted to use your individual information.⁵

How can I complete a census form?

The census begins April 1, 2020, and is repeated every 10 years. You can complete the census online or by phone or mail in several different languages. Because your response is required by law, the Census Bureau will send a representative to your home to collect the necessary data if you do not submit.

- ❓ Make yourself count. Fill out your census form by mail, phone, or online.

What are public benefits?

Public benefits are programs funded by the government that help people pay for basic needs like food, housing, and medical care. If you do not have proper immigration documents, you will not be approved for most public benefits. It is important to note that each program has its own set of requirements and renewal processes.⁶

How can public benefits help me buy food?

If you are approved for the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP), you will be given an Electronic Benefits Transfer (EBT) card, which can be used to buy food at stores with signs that say "EBT accepted". EBT cards have a fixed value that is automatically replenished every month, as long as the cardholder renews membership in SNAP.⁷

How can public benefits help me find a job?

Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF; "Work First New Jersey") temporarily provides cash, childcare, and job training to low-income families. To extend TANF benefits, you must have a job or be enrolled in school.⁸

How can public benefits help me pay rent?

The Section 8 voucher program assists the poor, elderly, or disabled with paying for a rented home. Generally, Section 8 recipients must pay 30% of their income toward rent, and the balance is paid directly to the landlord by the government.⁹ Recipients must find a landlord that is willing to accept Section 8 vouchers. You can apply for Section 8 and other public housing benefits by contacting the Jersey City Housing Authority at 201-706-4676 or www.jerseycityha.org.¹⁰

How can public benefits help me pay for medical care?

Medicaid is a state and federal benefits program that provides free or low-cost health insurance to families with low income.

Medicare is a federal program that provides health coverage if you are 65 years of age or older, or if you are disabled.¹¹

Supplemental Security Income (SSI) provides monthly cash assistance to people with blindness and other disabilities.

Supplemental Security Disability Insurance (SSDI) provides monthly assistance to workers who can no longer work as a result of a disability or illness. Any person can apply for SSDI if they have been paying into Social Security for at least 10 years.¹² NJ Family Care is a program that helps eligible children and adults gain access to health care.¹³

Where do I go to apply for public benefits?

To apply for most of the Hudson County DFS benefits programs listed here, you must go to their office (at 257 Cornelison Avenue) on a weekday (Monday through Friday) before it opens at 8:00 a.m. You will need documents like proof of immigration status, proof of Hudson County address, proof of income, and identification for all members in your household.

? If you are awarded SNAP benefits, you can use this EBT card to purchase food at local stores that accept SNAP.

? Visit the Hudson County Department of Family Services to apply for assistance with health care, housing, and food.

Jersey City Community Solutions

Jersey City Municipal Court

Jersey City Community Solutions (JCCS) is a court-based program that seeks alternatives to incarceration for people who commit low-level, nonviolent offenses. JCCS can be helpful if someone is facing criminal charges such as drug possession or shoplifting. JCCS develops sentences that incorporate community service and rehabilitation programs instead of having individuals serve jail time.

Legal Services

Who can help me with my immigration legal problem?

ACCREDITED REPRESENTATIVES

An accredited representative has specialized training and is authorized by the U.S. Dept. of Justice to provide legal assistance to immigrants. Accredited representatives must work for a non-profit organization that is recognized by the Dept. of Justice. They often help at public events and community centers. Immigrant Hope in Clifton has accredited representatives on staff.

“PRO BONO” IMMIGRATION LAWYERS

A pro bono lawyer is a licensed immigration attorney who agrees to provide legal services for free. Like all licensed attorneys, pro bono lawyers must have graduated from law school and hold a license from the State Bar Association in the state where they are practicing law. Northeast New Jersey Legal Services is a pro bono legal agency that provides free services.

LOW-COST IMMIGRATION LAWYERS

Sometimes called “low bono”, low-cost immigration lawyers work for non-profit organizations and offer professional legal services at a fraction of the cost of private attorneys. Some “low bono” agencies will ask for proof of income and might favor those who earn less. The Center for Immigrant Representation at 35 Journal Square is a low-cost immigration legal agency.

What forms of help might I be cautious about?

PRIVATE IMMIGRATION LAWYERS

Private lawyers can ask for any fee to help with your immigration legal case. Although many private attorneys are excellent, some abuse their clients by providing poor legal services at very high prices. It is common to find a private attorney through a trusted recommendation. Private attorneys are not listed in this guide.

“NOTARIOS”

“Notarios” are typically not authorized to help you with an immigration legal problem, and you may put yourself at significant risk by trusting one. Unlike in Latin America, a “notario” may not practice law in the United States. Those who are authorized to practice law usually advertise themselves as lawyers. Please read elsewhere in this section about “notarios”.

American Friends Service Committee (AFSC) Immigrants' Rights Program

The AFSC Immigrants' Rights Program offers free and low-cost legal services to immigrants who are in detention, facing deportation, seeking to reunite with families, or in need of protection. AFSC also engages in many efforts to advocate for the protection and support of immigrant communities.

Who can I trust with immigration legal services?

Only licensed immigration attorneys or accredited representatives are authorized to help you with your immigration legal case. For information on avoiding immigration legal scams, go to www.uscis.gov/avoid-scams.¹

Pro bono immigration attorneys provide legal services to immigrants without asking for fees or compensation, but they will usually ask you to prove that your income is low.² The term “pro bono” is derived from Latin and means “for the public good”. To find pro bono attorneys, visit www.justice.gov/eoir/file/ProBonoNJ.

“Low bono” is a modification of the term “pro bono” and describes licensed attorneys that work for non-profit agencies and provide legal services at low costs. If you have an income that does not qualify you for a pro bono attorney, but you still can’t afford a private attorney, a “low bono” attorney could be your best option.³

What is an accredited representative?

Accredited representatives are not attorneys, but have received a special authorization from the U.S. Dept. of Justice to provide legal services to immigrants. After being accredited, they can represent immigrants in court and when engaging with the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services. Accredited representatives must work for non-profit organizations that are recognized by the U.S. Dept. of Justice and may only provide legal services on a pro bono or “low bono” basis.⁴

What should I know about for-profit attorneys?

Attorneys must attend law school, earn a law degree, and be licensed by the State Bar Association in the state where they are practicing law. If you choose a for-profit attorney, it is important to ensure that none of their authorizations have been revoked or suspended. You can visit www.njcourts.gov and click “Licensed Attorneys” to check. Before entering into an agreement with an attorney, you can first speak with them about the details of your case and have a clear understanding of the costs.⁵

? If you need legal advice, make sure the person is a licensed attorney or an accredited representative to avoid falling victim of immigration scams.

What makes Jersey City a “Sanctuary City”?

Many cities in the United States call themselves “Sanctuary Cities” because they enact local policies to welcome immigrants. Even though these local policies are, at times, very different from federal or state policies, it is important to know that no city—not even a “Sanctuary City”—can excuse immigrants from federal enforcement by Immigration Customs Enforcement (ICE) or Customs and Border Patrol (CBP). Federal immigration officers can question and detain anyone in the United States, even if they live in a “Sanctuary City”.

Jersey City first called itself a “Sanctuary City” in 1996 and reaffirmed this title in 2017, when Mayor Steven M. Fulop directed the city government to follow careful procedures to welcome and protect immigrants. One major “Sanctuary Policy” is that Jersey City police officers may not cooperate with federal immigration agents and must treat everyone the same, regardless of immigration status.⁶

What should I know about “notarios”?

In many Latin American countries, a “notario” is a lawyer that can provide many legal services. However, in the United States, only licensed attorneys or accredited representatives can provide the services associated with Latin American “notarios”. Many businesses in the United States call themselves “notarios” and offer legal services that they are not qualified or authorized to provide. Unfortunately, many immigrants trust “notarios” or “multi-service centers” and later find themselves paying fees for incorrect legal advice from a fraudulent representative.⁷ The abuse of immigrants by “notarios” is so well documented that in November 2018, the State of New Jersey fined dozens of these offices for providing fraudulent legal services.⁸ It is extremely important to verify that someone offering legal services is a licensed attorney or accredited representative by checking at www.njcourts.gov and clicking “Licensed Attorneys”.⁹ You can also find more information on immigration scams on www.uscis.gov/avoidscams.¹⁰

? “Notarios” might not be authorized to help you with your immigration legal case. Many “notarios” have abused vulnerable immigrants.

What should I know about my Green Card?

If you are a Lawful Permanent Resident (LPR), your Green Card is the most important document that proves your right to live and work in the United States. When your Green Card expires, you will still be an LPR, but holding an expired card will make it difficult to apply for jobs and services, travel abroad, and interact with most government agencies. You should know the expiration date of your Green Card and make careful plans to renew six months before it expires.¹¹ As a Green Card holder, you are required to complete an AR-11 Change of Address form every time you move. For information, go to www.uscis.gov/AR-11.¹²

How do I renew or replace my Green Card?

You can submit a form called I-90 to the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services. The I-90 requires you to provide personal information and a photocopy of your expired (or almost-expired) Green Card. If you lose your Green Card, you can report it to your local police station. If the police cannot file a report, you can ask to submit a “written affidavit” and ask for a copy. Not only can this document be used in your application for a replacement Green Card, it can also be used if your lost Green Card is found.^{13,14}

How do I apply for a fee waiver?

The full fee for Green Card renewal or replacement is usually $540, and the wait time is generally six months.¹⁴ If you qualify for an I-912 Fee Waiver, you will not have to pay any application fee, but you will need proof of receiving government assistance like Medicaid or SNAP (“food stamps”) or of earning a very low income. A full list of requirements can be found at www.uscis.gov/i-912.¹⁵

Who can help me?

If you live in Jersey City and need help with your Green Card renewal, you can contact the Division of Immigrant Affairs (located at 1 Jackson Square, Jersey City, NJ 07305) to set up an appointment by calling 201-547-4328.

? It is important to renew your Green Card as early as six months before the expiration date.

How can I become a U.S. citizen?

If you are eligible to become a naturalized U.S. citizen, you will need to submit an N-400 Citizenship Application, record your fingerprints and “biometrics”, pass the citizenship exam and interview, and take an oath.

What are some of the requirements for the N-400 Citizenship Application?

- You have been a lawful permanent resident (Green Card holder) of the United States for at least five years. If you marry a U.S. citizen, the requirement is three years, instead of five.
- You are at least 18 years old at the time of filing.
- You have not traveled outside of the United States for more than a total of 12 months in the last five years.
- You have not traveled outside of the United States for more than six months during one trip in the last five years.
- You have lived within the same state where you are claiming residence for at least three months.¹⁶
- For a complete list of citizenship requirements, go to www.uscis.gov/n-400.

What are the fees? Can I apply for a fee waiver?

The N-400 Citizenship Application requires a fee of up to $725. If you qualify for the I-912 Fee Waiver, you will not have to pay any application fee, but you must show proof of receiving government assistance like Medicaid or SNAP (“food stamps”) or of earning very low income. A full list of requirements can be found at www.uscis.gov/i-912.¹⁷

What can prevent me from becoming a citizen?

Excessive travel outside of the United States can interfere with the continuous residence requirement mentioned above. Failing to pay taxes, lying to the government, or being convicted of a crime can have a negative impact on the “good moral character” requirements. If you have these problems, you can consult with an immigration attorney before starting the application process.¹⁸ Also, most applicants must understand, speak, and write basic English. For free assistance with starting the process of becoming a U.S. citizen, you can contact the Jersey City Division of Immigrant Affairs at 201-547-6800.

- ? If you have been a permanent resident for five years, you could be eligible to apply for U.S. citizenship.

- ? Call the Division of Immigrant Affairs for information about naturalization classes to help you prepare for your citizenship exam.

- ? The final step to becoming a naturalized citizen is the Oath of Allegiance, which usually takes place at the USCIS Newark District Office in the Peter Rodino Federal Building.

What can I do if ICE stops me?

Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) ensures that only properly documented immigrants enter and live in the United States. It is important to know that even though Jersey City calls itself a “Sanctuary City”, ICE can still enforce federal immigration laws within the city. If ICE stops or questions you, you should never lie, run, show false documents, or resist physically.¹⁹

What rights do I have if I am stopped by ICE?

You can ask ICE officers for a warrant to search your home or make an arrest. A warrant is a legal document that is signed by a judge that gives ICE permission to arrest someone and search their home. If there is no warrant, or if the warrant is not signed by a judge, you have the right to refuse consent for searches of yourself, home, and car. You also have the right to remain silent.²⁰

What can I do if a friend or loved one is arrested by ICE?

You can contact the Jersey City Division of Immigrant Affairs at 201-547-6800, and we can connect you with non-profit lawyers, counselors, and other professionals who can help.²¹ It is important to have information about your encounter with ICE agents, including the date, time, and location. If anyone is arrested, you will need their full name, date of birth, country of origin, and their Green Card number to locate them. American Friends Service Committee is a non-profit law office that specializes in legal defense for immigrants who have been detained by ICE. Their phone number is 973-643-1924.²²

How can I help a family member who is being held in ICE detention?

If you are searching for someone in ICE detention, you can use the ICE Detainee Locator website, locator.ice.gov.²³ You can also contact ICE’s Public Advocate at the ICE Community Helpline: 1-888-351-4024.²⁴ First Friends of NJ & NY is a non-profit organization that specializes in supporting immigrant detainees being held in the Jersey City area with visits and essential materials. Their phone number is 908-965-0455.²⁵

Where can I get free preventive health services in Jersey City?

Preventive health services are routine checkups and tests performed by medical professionals, including immunizations and vaccinations, screenings for illnesses, and patient counseling to prevent diseases or other health problems.¹ Different divisions of the Department of Health and Human Services offer free preventive health services to Jersey City residents. These include:

The Jersey City City Clinic provides free immunization and flu vaccines to uninsured children and free flu vaccines for seniors. If you are 13 years or older, you can be tested for sexually transmitted diseases (STDs), screened for HIV, and connected with treatment services—parental consent is not required. Call 201-547-5535.²

The Women, Infants and Children (WIC) Program provides food vouchers to pregnant women and new mothers. The vouchers can be used in most supermarkets to buy food that is marked “WIC approved”.³ To receive WIC vouchers, you must meet federal income standards. New mothers can also receive iron-fortified formula and jars of nutritious baby food. Call 201-547-6842.⁴

The Division of Community Health and Wellness has a team of community health educators who share information about pressing health issues and host free health screening events. Call 201-547-4578.

The Division of Environmental Health conducts lead screening for uninsured children under the age of six. Call 201-547-4743.⁵

These free services are not substitutes for your personal doctor. If you have a health problem, you should see a doctor.

All services are conveniently located in the City Hall Annex, at the Department of Health and Human Services at 1 Jackson Square.

? Vaccines are offered at the Jersey City City Clinic to uninsured children 2 months to 18 years old who live in Jersey City.

What does it mean to have health insurance?

To be insured, or to “have coverage”, means that you are a member of a health insurance plan. Membership in a health insurance plan usually requires you to pay a fee every month to a private corporation that administers the plan. When you need medical services, the insurance plan will pay for some or all of the fees.⁶ There is currently a New Jersey state law requiring all people to have some form of health insurance.⁷

Are all health insurance plans the same?

No. Some insurance plans require very high monthly fees, some require low fees, and some are free. Typically, an expensive insurance plan will pay for more medical services and specialized medical procedures. A cheaper plan will typically require you to pay larger portions of fees and will sometimes require you to pay the entire fee for specialized medical procedures. When an insurance plan pays for all of your medical fees, this is fee is “fully covered”. When you are asked to pay medical fees that the insurance plan will not pay this fee is called “out of pocket”.⁸

How can I get health insurance?

One way of joining a health insurance plan is by having a full-time job with an employer who offers to share the insurance membership costs with its employees. This usually means that your portion of the membership costs are automatically taken from your paycheck every two weeks or once a month.⁹ If you do not work for an employer that offers a shared health insurance plan, you can pay for membership in an insurance plan directly. This is usually called a “private plan”. You can also apply for a health insurance plan that is paid for by the government. The most popular form of government-supported health insurance is called Medicaid and requires you to prove that you have a low income.¹⁰ Remember that having health insurance is required by state law.

If I have health insurance, how do I use it?

The insurance plan provider sends membership cards to its members, and you present the card every time you need medical services. If you need medical care that is not an emergency, you can schedule an appointment with a private doctor’s office. (Going to a hospital for a non-emergency is not customary and usually expensive.) It is important to tell the doctor’s office staff the name of your insurance plan before seeing the doctor, and ask if the services are “covered”. You can usually ask all of these questions over the phone, when you are scheduling your appointment. When you visit the doctor’s office, you will often need to pay a copay, which is a fixed portion of a medical service fee that plan members must pay to the medical service provider. The monthly costs of being an insurance plan member should stay the same, no matter how many medical services you use throughout the year.¹¹

? Having health insurance is currently required by law in New Jersey. It is essential to accessing medical care.

What if I cannot afford to see a doctor?

The cost of medical services in the United States is very high, and there is an ongoing debate over how to increase access to quality medical services. The following are some programs you might apply for to make sure you can receive medical services even if you cannot afford them.

What is New Jersey Medicaid?

NJ Medicaid provides health insurance to adults, children, and disabled individuals who meet the program's requirements.¹² To qualify for Medicaid, or a similar program called "NJ Family Care", you must live in New Jersey and demonstrate that you earn a low income. To enroll, go to www.NJFamilycare.org or visit the Hudson County Department of Family Services at 257 Cornelison Avenue.¹³ You can also call a Medicaid specialist at the Jersey City Division of Community Health and Wellness at 201-547-4578.

Can immigrants receive New Jersey Medicaid?

To enroll in NJ Medicaid, you must be a Lawful Permanent Resident who has both lived in the U.S. and had a Green Card for five years. Children under 18 years old and some immigrant groups, like refugees, asylees, and victims of human trafficking, are exempt from the five-year waiting period. Pregnant women residing in New Jersey who meet certain requirements may receive NJ Medicaid during their pregnancy and for 60 days following delivery or the date that the pregnancy ends.¹⁴

What is the Federal Health Insurance Marketplace?

Those who do not qualify for Medicaid can apply for membership in a health insurance program that is offered by a private insurance agency by visiting the Federal Health Insurance Marketplace at www.healthcare.gov. You can enroll in low-cost health insurance plans on the Marketplace website between November 1 and December 15, and your coverage will begin January 1. However, there are exceptions called "special enrollment periods" that might allow you to enroll at any time. To apply for health coverage through the Marketplace, visit www.healthcare.gov or call 1-800-318-2596.¹⁵

What are Charity Care and "Sliding Scale"?

Charity Care and "Sliding Scale" are discount programs available to uninjured and low-income patients. If you meet certain income requirements, some or all of your medically necessary services might be paid for you. Charity Care and "Sliding Scale" programs are administered independently at each hospital and medical office.^{16,17}

What is the Emergency Payment Program for Aliens?

Immigrants who do not qualify for Medicaid because of their immigration status or because they are undocumented can apply for the Emergency Payment Program for Aliens at 257 Cornelison Avenue within three months of a severe medical emergency.¹⁸

? If you are a member of Medicaid, carry this Health Benefits Identification Card (HBID), especially when seeing a doctor.

Metropolitan Family Health Network

The Metropolitan Family Health Network provides adult medical services for people ages 19 and older. An on-site social worker can also help you apply for welfare benefits. Both centers accept Medicaid and offer a sliding scale payment option for people without insurance.

How can I keep my home safe?

Call 9-1-1 if you smell gas.

The gas that is used to power cooking stoves and water heaters is flammable and can cause serious health problems if breathed in. If any of the gas pipes in your home are leaking, you should be able to smell a distinct odor similar to rotten eggs, which is intentionally added to help detect a leak. If you believe there is a gas leak, open your windows, do not touch electrical devices, go outside, and call 9-1-1 immediately.¹

Install and test smoke and carbon monoxide detectors.

Smoke and carbon monoxide detectors are small electronic devices that sound an alarm if there is a fire or a deadly gas in your home. It is important to know that carbon monoxide does not contain the noticeable odor that is added to cooking gas, and it can kill anyone who breathes it in for an extended period of time. These detectors are affixed to walls and ceilings, and are typically powered by replaceable batteries. If you rent your home, your landlord is required to provide detectors, but you must test the devices and ensure that the batteries do not need to be replaced.² To ask about free smoke and carbon monoxide detectors, call the Jersey City Fire Prevention Office at 201-547-4255.

Be careful of lead poisoning, especially for children.

Lead is a chemical proven to be poisonous, especially to children, and has been heavily restricted in the United States for decades. The most common source of lead poisoning is damaged or peeling paint found in apartments and homes built before 1978. New immigrant children are more likely to have been exposed to lead.³ For a free lead screening for children nine months to six years old, call the Childhood Lead Poisoning Prevention Program at 201-522-4395.⁴

Keep insects and rodents out of your home.

Cover or close all holes in your walls to prevent insects and rodents from getting in, store food in sealed containers, and throw out the trash as often as you can.⁵ If you are a renter and your landlord does not address an infestation, you can call the Landlord Tenant Relations Office at 201-547-5127 and the Division of Environmental Health at 201-547-5285.

Weatherize your home.

Puertorriqueños Asociados for Community Organization (PACO) Weatherization is a program offered to people with low income to help them reduce utility bills and increase energy efficiency at home. PACO can help by offering energy-saving light bulbs and appliances, sealing doors and windows, and providing information about subsidies for heating bills. To apply for weatherization, please call 844-722-6432. You will be asked to fill out an application and provide some supporting documents.⁶

How can I find a good job?

The most common way to find a job is by asking people you know if they can share recommendations. You can also find listings in the “jobs” section of a local newspaper or by reviewing posters at a supermarket. Businesses that are hiring typically put signs in their windows that read “Help Wanted”. You can also find many job postings on the Internet.

What is “part-time” versus “full-time”?

“Part-time” means working fewer than 30 hours per week at one job. Part-time jobs typically do not offer job benefits, like paid vacation or employer contributions to a health insurance plan. “Full-time” means working at least 40 hours per week at one job and typically includes job benefits. However, each employer defines the terms of “part-time” and “full-time”, so it is important to ask about job benefits before you are hired.⁷

What documents do I need to get a job?

The most common form of work authorization is a Social Security card, but an Employment Authorization Document or Green Card is also sufficient. Nearly all employers will provide you with a formal job application and ask you to complete it with your personal information, previous jobs, history of education, and a list of job references. Job references are people who can tell a new employer that you will be a reliable employee. Typically, they are your former employers or former co-workers, and not your family. For most skilled jobs, you will also need to create and submit a résumé. A résumé is a unique document that lists your name, contact information, skills, previous jobs, and history of education.⁷

What should I be careful about when getting a job?

Some criminals seek to harm people looking for jobs. An employer should never require payment to read your application or to train you for the job. You should never accept a job without speaking to the employer directly and completing a job application. Also, do not share personal information, like your Social Security number or Individual Taxpayer Identification Number (ITIN), unless you are certain the employer is legitimate. Never work “off the books”—not only is this illegal, but it also puts you at risk of being abused by employers.⁷

What does it mean to “climb the ladder”?

“Climbing the ladder” means seeking better jobs after building experience and trust at your current job. Doing this is essential to success in the United States and requires you to ensure that your current employer will serve as a good job reference for future jobs. If you are a good employee, you will likely be paid more or earn the job references and experience you need to find a better job. If you are planning to leave a job, it is a cultural requirement to tell your employer a minimum of two weeks beforehand. If you do not do this, your employer will be unlikely serve as a job reference. Asking your employer for more responsibility or returning to school for diplomas and degrees are also good ways to “climb the ladder”.⁸

Who can help me with all this?

The Division of Immigrant Affairs (DIA) can connect you with resources to help with your job search: 201-547-4328. Additionally, the Jersey City Employment and Training Program (JCEPT) offers free assistance with job skills: 201-795-8800.⁹ You can also visit www.usa.gov/find-a-job.

? Having a printed résumé is a cultural requirement when applying for most skilled jobs.

What are my rights and responsibilities as a tenant?

A tenant (or “renter”) is anyone who lives in a property they do not own and makes monthly payments to the property owner, or “landlord”. The agreement between a tenant and a landlord is typically called a lease, which is a signed document that describes the monthly payment, special requirements of the tenant and the landlord, and the dates that the lease starts and end.¹⁰

What must a tenant do?

The most important responsibility of any tenant is to pay the full rental payment to the landlord on or before the monthly due date written in the lease. Rent payments must be made before the coming month of renting; they are almost never paid after a month of renting. Generally, a tenant who rents a home or apartment is required to keep the property clean, avoid disrupting neighbors, and place trash and recyclables at the curb on specific days. Tenants are typically not required to make repairs to a rented property, and it is always best to report any damage to the landlord in writing. Most leases will include other tenant requirements that are more specific, like if a tenant is permitted to smoke inside the property or own pets.¹¹

What must a landlord do?

The most important responsibility of any landlord is to maintain the “warranty of habitability”. This is a legal requirement to provide the tenant with drinkable water (both hot and cold), a functioning heating system in the winter, and the supply system for electricity and gas. Generally, the landlord is also required to fix any major problems with the property, like leaking pipes, broken windows, infestations of mice or insects, or any safety hazards. Generally, the landlord is not responsible for supplying appliances, like a refrigerator, stove, or washing machine. If these appliances come with the rented property, they should be written in the lease.¹¹

What is a security deposit?

A security deposit is a payment that a tenant makes at the beginning of a rental agreement that the landlord can use to repair parts of the property that the tenant breaks, but only after the tenant moves out. A security deposit is a one-time payment, and according to New Jersey law, it cannot be larger than one-and-a-half month’s rent payment. Also required by New Jersey law, the landlord must store a tenant’s security deposit in a special bank account or investment account using the tenant’s name.¹²

What are some important tips for tenants?

Before renting, you should always ask for a written lease from the landlord and read it carefully, using a translator if needed. It is a good practice to also seek the advice of a lawyer before signing a lease. Tenants should never make any cash payments to a landlord without keeping a record of having paid or receiving a written receipt from the landlord. Finally, keep in mind that your landlord might serve as a reference for future jobs or rental applications, so be sure to maintain as positive a relationship as you can.¹⁰

- ❓ Never rent without having a signed lease. Never pay rent without having a documented record of payment.

Can my child attend public school?

In the United States, all children are required by law to enroll in school, and all children may attend public schools for free, regardless of immigration status.¹

How does the public school system work?

Jersey City has many public schools that offer education to children as young as 3 and as old as 18 in three basic levels: "Pre-K through 5" (prekindergarten through 5th grade), "Middle School" (6th grade through 8th grade), and "High School" (9th grade through 12th grade). Classes for adults are free and usually held at night.²

How can I enroll my child in school?

If your child has recently arrived from a foreign country, or if you do not speak English at home, you will need to enroll them at the Multilingual Intake Center at Middle School #7 at 222 Laidlaw Avenue, Jersey City (phone: 201-420-5247 or 201-418-7601).² When enrolling, you will need to present proof that your child lives in Jersey City, their birth certificate, their immunization records and health history, and transcripts from previous schooling. Your child needs to come with you when enrolling, and your child's language skills might be tested as part of the enrollment process. For all other enrollment information, you can call the District Office of Jersey City Public Schools at 201-915-6000.³

What if my child does not speak English?

In 2019, Jersey City served more than 3,600 students whose first language was not English. The Multilingual Intake Center will determine the best public school classroom for your child. They might recommend the Bilingual Education Program, which offers full-time or part-time bilingual education in your child's first language and English, although this might not be the school that is closest to your home. Popular languages served by this program are Spanish, Arabic, Tagalog, Hindi, and Urdu. Another program offered is the Dual Language Program, which teaches Pre-K through grade 5 students in English and Spanish simultaneously, so that they can become fluent in both languages. To enroll in this program, call 201-915-6045.³

? Public education is free to all children, regardless of immigrant status, and even if they do not speak English.

What should I know about my first year as an asylee?

If you have been granted asylum, you have the right to live and work in the United States and apply for public benefits.¹ Your first year as an asylee will be very important for your long-term success.

What documents will I need?

You should have been given a signed and stamped I-94 document or card, which is your primary form of identification as an asylee. If any information on your I-94 is incorrect, including your status or the spelling of your name, you should return to where it was given to you and ask that the incorrect information be changed.² You may also contact an immigration attorney, instead. With your I-94, you can apply for a Social Security number and card, which are what nearly all United States residents use to identify themselves to employers, government offices, and many private institutions, like banks and health insurance providers.¹ To apply for a Social Security number and card, go to www.ssa.gov (click "Languages" for a foreign language translation) or visit the Social Security Administration office at 325 West Side Avenue, Monday through Friday, 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. You may also apply for an Employment Authorization Document (EAD) using USCIS Form I-765. Although an EAD will feature your photo and a Social Security card will not, a Social Security card will provide you with more ability to register with public and private institutions.³

How can I get a Green Card?

As an asylee, you may apply for a Green Card one year after being granted asylum, which is a process called "adjustment of status" that requires submitting USCIS Form I-485 and other documents. Although adjustment of status is not required by law, going through this process and getting a Green Card will make you a Lawful Permanent Resident, which provides stronger protections against possible changes in immigration rules and is a required step toward becoming a U.S. citizen. It is important to plan and budget for your adjustment of status application. Asylees are not eligible for a USCIS Fee Waiver and must pay the application fee, which can be as high as $1,225. You will need to include a completed USCIS Form I-693, which requires a report from a specialized doctor called a civil surgeon and may cost an additional $200 or more.⁴ Saving money for these expenses within your first year as an asylee can be essential. For help finding professional assistance from non-profit agencies who can help you with your adjustment of status, contact the Jersey City Division of Immigrant Affairs at 201-547-6800.

What specialized help can I find as an asylee?

As an asylee, you might find specialized help from non-profit resettlement agencies and support groups. In Jersey City, you can inquire at the Church World Service resettlement office by calling 201-659-0467 or by going to 26 Journal Square, Suite 600. You can also contact Welcome Home Jersey City, First Friends of New Jersey and New York, and other agencies listed in this guide.

LGBTQ+ Services

How is LGBTQ+ connected with immigrants?

Just like many immigrant groups around the world, LGBTQ+ people in the United States have had to advocate for their civil rights, legal protections, and a dignified place in society. Because Jersey City is home to so many immigrants, our city's efforts to welcome immigrants and LGBTQ+ people overlap. As a result, organizations like Hudson Pride Center not only provide assistance with health services, support groups, and social events, they do so in various foreign languages and with sensitivities to the immigrant experience. Jersey City has been ranked among the United States' most gay-friendly cities and one of the nation's most welcoming cities for immigrants. In 2013, Mayor Steven M. Fulop created the Task Force on LGBTQ Equality. Our LGBTQ+ community has grown into a multifaceted network that demonstrates our inclusivity and empowers people to be proud of their identity, both as LGBTQ+ and as immigrants.¹

Volunteer and Connect

Why would I volunteer with an immigrant organization?

Volunteering is one of the best ways to make friends, become part of a community, and learn how to succeed in the United States. Your experience as an immigrant and your foreign language skills are essential to the organizations that work so hard to serve immigrants.

What are some things I can do to help immigrants? The Jersey City Division of Immigrant Affairs Fellows Program provides specialized training in helping immigrants. You can use your foreign language skills to learn about the United States immigration system and help others with applying for citizenship and navigating services. For information, e-mail JCDIA@jcnj.org or call 201-547-6800.

First Friends of NJ & NY invites volunteers to visit immigrant detainees at four detention centers near Jersey City and collects donations of stamps, stationary, and support letters for detainees.¹

Welcome Home Jersey City volunteers help refugees and asylees with learning English and joining a supportive network of friends and neighbors. You can help with a variety of tasks, from arts and crafts with kids, to moving furniture for newly resettled families.²

Church World Service provides training for volunteers who help refugees and asylees with job training and computer skills, apartment setups, and much more.³

Volunteering with the organizations listed in this section can result in an empowering experience and create relationships that give hope to new immigrants.

How can I open a bank account?

To open a bank account, you will have to complete an application at the bank, provide personal information, and present verifying documents. Typically, you will need these documents:

- An official identification card with your picture
- A passport from the United States or other country
- Proof of where you live, which is typically a piece of mail containing an official document or a bill
- A Social Security number or an Individual Taxpayer Identification Number (ITIN)¹

What are a checking account and a savings account?

A checking account allows you to store your money at a bank and then access it very easily by withdrawing cash, buying things with a debit card, or writing a check. A savings account allows you to store money that you do not intend to access frequently in a bank. Savings accounts are typically not used for paying bills, and the government only allows you to withdraw money from a savings account six times per month.²

How can I keep my bank account safe?

Do not give your account numbers or debit card numbers to anyone. If you lose your debit card, call the bank immediately. Regularly check your bank documents for any unusual charges or activities. Generally, banks' official websites and official apps are secure and offer an easy way to be careful about fraud and to receive alerts from the bank.³

? You can use your checking account to write checks and pay bills.

? Do not give your bank information or passwords to anyone.

What about paying taxes?

Paying taxes is one of the most important responsibilities for all people living in the United States. Failure to pay taxes is illegal and can jeopardize your immigration status and your ability to become a citizen.⁴

Some important tax terms:

Internal Revenue Service (IRS) is the government agency responsible for collecting taxes from all employees and businesses.

Annual income taxes are a requirement for all people to report to the IRS between January 1 and April 15 exactly how much money they earned in the previous calendar year. Typically, annual income taxes are filed using IRS Form 1040.

Tax withholdings are deductions taken from each of your paychecks so the IRS can collect taxes for specific government programs. Tax withholdings require you to complete IRS Form W-4 before starting to work.

Pay stubs are receipts that document each time your employer pays you, as well as your tax withholdings and annual earnings. An Individual Tax Identification Number (ITIN) is a number issued by the IRS so that people without proper work authorizations or immigration status can still file taxes.

How do I pay annual income taxes?

Every year, everyone who works in the United States and earns substantial annual income must file income taxes with the IRS between January 1 and April 15. To “file” income taxes means using a special form to declare to the IRS how much income you earned in the last calendar year. The most typical form used to file annual income taxes is IRS Form 1040. Although you can file your taxes without professional help, it is widely agreed that filing taxes in the United States is a confusing process, and many people find accountants for assistance. Similar to attorneys, you can find low-cost and pro bono accountants, and it is important to verify that an accountant is properly licensed. The website www.irs.gov is also helpful and has several language options.⁵

How can I pay annual income taxes if I do not have work authorization?

The ITIN is issued by the IRS to people living in the United States who do not have access to typical work authorizations but still want to obey the law by paying income taxes. It is important to know that the IRS, generally, does not share ITIN information with the Department of Homeland Security. This means that if an undocumented immigrant applies for an ITIN, it is unlikely that immigration enforcement will be able to find their personal information. If you are fearful, you can always talk to a licensed immigration attorney. Using an ITIN to pay income taxes might be helpful if you plan to seek permanent status or assistance from the government.⁶ To apply for an ITIN, you must submit the IRS Form W-7. Go to www.irs.gov and type “ITIN” in the search menu.⁷

? Declare your income every year and file your taxes between January 1 and April 15.

? The ITIN can be used to pay income taxes even if you do not have work authorization.

What does it mean to work “off the books”?

The expression “off the books” (or “under the table”) refers to any monetary transaction made without paying the required taxes to the government. Working “off the books” typically means receiving wage payments in cash without the proper tax withholdings and without reporting your total annual income to the IRS. This is illegal. Failure to pay taxes and report income can jeopardize your immigration status and compromise your ability to become a citizen.⁸

What does it mean to work “on the books”?

Working “on the books” usually means that you are paid with a paycheck that comes with an attachment called a pay stub. A pay stub shows how much you have been paid for a given period and the entire year, and it lists your tax withholdings. Working “on the books” almost always means you will be asked to complete an IRS Form W-4 Employee’s Withholding Allowance Certificate before beginning work, and you will be given a W-2 Wage and Tax Statement at the end of every calendar year. If you do not complete a W-4 when you begin working, you are probably not working “on the books” and could be employed illegally.⁹

What if my employer says I am “freelance”?

If an employer asks you to complete IRS Form W-9 when you start working (instead of Form W-4), they will pay you as a “freelance employee” or “independent contractor” without deducting tax withholdings. This means you are responsible for paying “self-employment taxes” four times a year using the IRS Form 1040-ES, in addition to filing annual income taxes. Paying employees as “freelancers” is a common way for corrupt employers to avoid the responsibility of filing and paying taxes, and many people are cautious when being paid this way. Always ask the person paying you for a written receipt of payment that shows your name and Social Security number (or ITIN), the amount you are paid, the date, and the employer’s name and address.¹⁰

Do I need to pay property taxes for my home?

If you do not own a home and are a renter, you do not need to pay property taxes. Your landlord should pay property taxes, and these tax costs cannot be added to your monthly rent bill. If you own a home or other real estate property, you must pay taxes to the Jersey City Tax Collector’s Office.¹¹

What if I have other questions about taxes?

Speaking to a certified accountant is the best option for professional advice, but be certain to verify an accountant’s credentials by going to www.irs.gov and typing “preparer credentials” in the search menu. The www.irs.gov website is also an excellent source of information, with several language options.

? April 15 is National Tax Day in the United States. It is the deadline to file annual income taxes.

What are credit cards and debit cards?

What is a debit card?

A debit card is given to you by your bank when you open a checking account. You can use your debit card to buy things, and the payment will be made electronically using the money you have in your checking account. When your bank gives you a debit card, you will need to record a private personal identification number or a “PIN”. Your PIN is usually four digits, and when you buy something with your debit card, you will need to enter your PIN in the same machine that reads your card. Your PIN is private; do not read it out loud to the cashier or let anyone see you enter the numbers. It is possible to use all of the money in your checking account and still buy things with your debit card, but this will result in substantial fees from your bank called “overdraft penalties”. Your debit card is also needed when you use an automated teller machine (ATM) to withdraw cash from your checking account. It is important to know that even though your debit card looks like a credit card, using it does not build your credit score.¹²

What is a credit card?

A credit card is given to you by a finance corporation that believes you will be able to buy things with their card and then pay them back over time. To apply for a credit card, you will typically need a Social Security number or an Individual Taxpayer Identification Number (ITIN), proof that you earn money, and a documented history of paying debts, and you must be at least 18 years old. When you buy something with your credit card, you will not need a four-digit PIN, but you will usually have to write your signature. Be very careful not to share your credit card number, and if you suspect someone has used your credit card fraudulently, call the phone number on the back of the card or on your monthly statement immediately. It is important to know that when you buy things with a credit card, you are paying with borrowed money, and you will receive a bill each month asking you to pay for the items you bought. Many Americans inadvertently find themselves unable to pay their credit card bills and are burdened by credit card debt. To learn more about credit and credit scores, read the information found elsewhere in this section of the Resource Guide.¹³

? A debit card looks just like a credit card, but it can only be used to buy things with money that is already in your checking account at a bank.

What is a credit score?

Your credit score is a measurement of your ability to earn and spend money responsibly. Your credit score is created by private credit reporting agencies that collect information about how you spend money and pay bills over time. If you are seeking to rent an apartment, apply for a loan from a bank, or buy a car, your credit score will be used to measure how much you can be trusted to make payments. Having a good credit score is essential to your financial stability and long-term success in the United States.¹⁴

How can I earn a good credit score?

When you first come to the United States as an immigrant, any history of spending outside the U.S. will not contribute to your credit score. You will not have a credit score, which can be just as limiting as having a bad credit score. First, build good credit by always paying your bills on time, and never going into debt. Second, build good credit by using a credit card and always paying all of your monthly bills. Using a debit card will not build credit.¹⁴

So, what is a good credit score?

Credit scores are numbers that typically range from 300 to 850. "Good credit" is generally considered a score of 700 or above, and "bad credit" is generally below 600. There are three major credit reporting agencies in the United States, and they might not all report the same exact credit score for the same person. By law, the three credit reporting agencies must provide you with a free credit score report once a year. One of the best websites to find more information is www.usa.gov/credit-reports.¹⁴

? Building credit takes time, and your credit score reflects how well you pay back your debt.

What is wage theft?

Wage theft is when an employer fails to pay you for your work. This might be a failure to pay you for your overtime hours, the tips that your employer collected on your behalf, or the last wages you earned before leaving a job.¹⁵ Wage theft also includes an employer paying below the legal minimum wage, which is set by each state. As of July 1, 2019, it is illegal for any employer in New Jersey to pay a wage lower than $10 per hour for any job.¹⁶ Unfortunately, immigrants and low-wage earners are most at risk of wage theft.

How can I avoid wage theft?

First, you should never work “off the books”, which means you are paid only in cash without tax deductions or a written record of your wages and hours. Second, you can keep your own record of the days you work, the times you started and ended your work, and the wage your employer agreed to pay you. If your employer has failed to pay any portion of your wages, you should immediately ask to be paid properly. It is important to know that all wage earners, documented or undocumented, are protected from wage theft by federal law.

What can I do if I am a victim of wage theft?

First, you can file a claim with the New Jersey Department of Labor’s Wage and Hour Compliance Division by going to the www.myworkrights.nj.gov website, printing the MW-31A form, and mailing it to P.O. Box 389, Trenton, NJ 08625. This agency allows you to complete a claim anonymously, without using your name.¹⁷

Second, you can file a complaint with the U.S. Department of Labor’s Wage and Hour Division by calling 908-317-8611 or by visiting www.dol.gov/whd/howtofilecomplaint.htm.¹⁸ When you call, you will be asked questions about your employment, but you will not be asked your immigration status.

Third, you can contact Jersey City’s Resident Response Center (RRC) to inform them that you have submitted a wage theft claim with the New Jersey and/or United States Wage and Hour office(s). You may contact RRC anonymously and in your preferred language.¹⁹ It is against the law for your employer to retaliate against you for filing a wage theft complaint.²⁰

- Workers employed in the food, construction, and home care industries are at higher risk of wage theft. There are rights protecting every worker, regardless of immigration status.

- Protect your wages. Keep track of your earnings by reviewing your paychecks.

Transportation and General Needs

Where can I find free food?

If you are hungry and struggling to buy food, you can find free food at food pantries. Food pantries are charitable groups that distribute free bags or boxes of food to people in need at a specific time and place. Although most food pantries will rarely turn anyone away, each pantry will have its own policies and practices for who can take free food. Some pantries will not ask you for any documents, while others will require registration, identification, proof of residency, and proof of receiving other government benefits.

For a detailed list of all food pantries in your area, go to HealthierJC.AuntBertha.com and submit your zip code to find a pantry near you. This website is available in many languages and lists thousands of free or low-cost services.

How can I ride the bus, subway, and light rail?

How can I ride an NJ Transit bus?

New Jersey Transit buses run throughout Jersey City and into adjacent cities like Bayonne, Hoboken, Union City, and New York City. To board an NJ Transit bus, you must wait at a bus stop, which will be marked by an NJ Transit sign with the bus numbers that serve that stop. Each bus number has a designated route, and to know which direction the bus is travelling, you must check the final destination that appears on the front of the bus. You must board the bus at the first door, tell the driver your destination, and pay the exact amount by putting bills and coins into the machine. The cost of each bus ride depends on your destination and is measured by "zones". Most destinations within Jersey City are called "Zone 1" and cost $1.60 (as of 2019). You may also buy a monthly bus pass, which allows unlimited travelling within a certain zone for a fixed price. To signal to the driver that you would like to get off the bus, press the tape above the window. To find a map of all bus routes, go to the www.njtransit.com web page, which can be translated into foreign languages using the menu at the bottom right.¹

How can I ride the PATH train?

PATH stands for "Port Authority Trans-Hudson" and is a system of two subway lines that connect Jersey City, Hoboken, Newark, New York City, Harrison, and Kearny. Jersey City has four underground PATH stations. To ride a PATH train, you must buy a plastic MetroCard using one of the multilingual machines at a PATH station, and then pass the MetroCard through the slot in the rotating turnstile. Jumping over the turnstile without paying the fare is illegal and could result in serious repercussions. A single ride on the PATH train costs $2.75 (as of 2019). You may buy multiple rides and store them on one MetroCard, or you may buy a monthly SmartLink card. Maps and schedules for PATH trains can be downloaded in English and Spanish at www.panynj.org.¹

How can I travel on the light rail?

The Hudson-Bergen Light Rail is a small train that connects Jersey City with cities to its north and south. To ride the light rail, you must buy a ticket from one of the blue and orange machines at a light rail station, but you must "validate" your ticket before getting on the train. This requires you to insert your ticket into the machine labeled "Ticket Validator", which will print a purple date and time on your ticket. Keep your ticket while riding on the train, because an NJ Transit officer may enter the train and ask all passengers to show their validated tickets. If your ticket is not validated, you will likely be required to pay a fine. For maps, schedules, and information about the light rail, go to the www.njtransit.com web page, which can be translated into foreign languages using the menu at the bottom right.¹

- ❓ MetroCards have to be filled with money before use, and SmartLink can be used as a monthly pass for unlimited trips.

- ❓ A validated light rail ticket will have the date and time of your trip.

- ❓ A light rail ticket machine dispenses tickets but does not validate them.

Do I really need a mobile phone?

Yes. Access to a smartphone will increase your ability to stay safe, connect with jobs and services, and maintain relationships. The United States culture can seem impatient and demanding, and it is very rare that an employer will call your home, leave a message, or wait for you to call back. If friends or people you know have job recommendations or things they would like to share, it is likely that they will send a text message rather than visit you in person. Making international calls using web-based apps on a smartphone can be much cheaper than using a landline phone or buying phone cards. And in the case of an emergency, a mobile phone might be the only way to call 9-1-1 for help.

Where can I get a mobile phone?

Many mobile phone companies offer different plans. Most times, you must buy a phone and pay monthly bills. Typically, you can buy a plan that offers minutes and texts only, or a plan that also includes Internet data. The cost of plans usually ranges from $25 to $60 per month.

What are “scam” calls?

Around the world, criminals use smartphones to harm to people with “scam” calls or text messages. In the United States, it is extremely rare for any federal government agency to contact you by phone. The Internal Revenue Service (IRS) will never call your phone and ask for your Social Security number or Individual Tax Identification Number (ITIN). If someone contacts you on your phone and asks you for personal information or to make a payment, you should be suspicious and wait for a letter in the mail, which is the customary way of sending official communications in the United States.²
