

Normal life continues to remain affected in J&K

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
Srinagar, 2 September

Normal life remained affected in Kashmir on the 28th consecutive day on Sunday even as restrictions were eased in 11 more police station areas of the valley, officials said.

Now, 82 out of the 105 police station areas have no restrictions, they said.

Landline telephone services in 29 exchanges have been made functional in addition to the 47 already in operation, however, the services continue to remain snarled in the commercial hub of Lal Chowk and Press Enclave here.

The officials said that the situation remained peaceful across the valley on Saturday and no untoward incident was reported from anywhere. On Friday strict restrictions on the movement of people were reimposed across the valley in view of the apprehensions of law and order problems after congregational prayers. Only ambulances and emergency cases were allowed to move.

The restrictions were lifted in most areas on Saturday morning.

However, the officials said, normal life remained affected across the valley for the 28th consecutive day on Sunday as markets remained shut, while public transport was off the roads.

Private cars were plying in many areas of the city and elsewhere in the valley and some vendors have set up stalls in few areas in the civil lines of the city, they added. They said restrictions and barricades have been removed from most areas of the valley, but deployment of security forces continued on the ground to maintain law and order.

Mobile services and internet, including BSNL's broadband and private leased-line internet, have not been restored after being snapped on August 5 when the Centre abrogated Article 370 of the Constitution and reorganised the state into two Union territories.

Companies turn off the plastic tap

However, activists from the CSE argue that more work needs to be done

Prime Minister Narendra Modi's call last month to lower consumption of single-use plastic has put the spotlight firmly on the issue. Companies across the board — from packaged food to bottled water and personal care — say they are recycling, reusing and reducing plastic in plants, offices and at retail outlets. Areas that most companies are targeting include packaging, manufacturing and waste management.

However, activists from the Centre for Science and Environment (CSE) argue that more work needs to be done.

Chandra Bhushan, deputy director general, CSE, says, "What is needed is an alternative to plastic packaging. I don't think firms have worked that out yet. Some options that could be considered include glass, paper, wood and cardboard."

But companies in the bottled water space, for instance, say glass is an expensive alternative. Other companies say that paper, wood and cardboard packs are not feasible.

"Plastic packaging was introduced because it is a cost-effective option to glass. Plastic is also easy to transport and there is a strong ecosystem of formal and informal recyclers who are ready to pick up plastic waste. Glass, on the other, is not only expensive, but cumbersome to transport. Yes, glass bottles can be returned and reused, but there is always a danger of breakage," says Ramesh Chauhan, chairman, Bisleri International.

A spokesperson for Nestlé India says, "There are certain challenges in serving hot beverages in 100 per cent paper-based options. We are trying to address it." But activists argue there is no way out with India generating close to 9.5 million tonnes of plastic waste annually, according to a new study by UN-Plastic Collective, an initiative launched by the Confederation of Indian Industry, UN-Environment Programme and the World Wide Fund for Nature.

The study says, "Of the plastic waste generated yearly in India, 40 per cent remains uncollected and 43 per cent is used for packaging, most of which is single-use."

Companies say they are putting in place an action plan to address the issue. A spokesperson for Hindustan Unilever (HUL) says, "In 2018, we arranged for collection and disposal of more than 20,000 tonnes of plastic laminate waste in partnership with NGOs and start-ups in more than 30 cities across India. We plan to scale it up further. We're also working with the government and UNDP on end-to-end pilot projects for plastic waste management. We've committed to moving to 100 per cent reusable plastic packaging by 2025. About 25 per cent of all the plastic we use will come from recycled sources by then."

A Coca-Cola India spokesperson says the company's primary packaging is completely recyclable. "We are also redesigning and light-weighting our packs to reduce consumption of plastic," he says.

China, US new round of tariffs comes into effect

REUTERS
Beijing, 1 September

China and the US began imposing additional tariffs on each other's goods on Sunday, the latest escalation in a bruising trade war, despite signs that talks would resume some time this month.

A new round of tariffs took effect from 0401 GMT, with Beijing's levy of 5 per cent on US crude marking the first time the fuel has been targeted since the world's two largest economies started their trade war more than a year ago.

The Trump administration will begin collecting 15 per cent tariffs on more than $125 billion in Chinese imports, including smart speakers, Bluetooth headphones and many types of footwear. In retaliation, China started to impose additional tariffs on some of the US goods on a $75-billion target list. Beijing did not specify the value of the goods that face higher tariffs from Sunday.

The extra tariffs of 5 per cent and 10 per cent were levied on 1,717 items of a total of 5,078 products originating from the US. Beijing will start collecting additional tariffs on the rest from December 15.

Chinese state media struck a defiant note.

"The United States should learn how to behave like a responsible global power and stop acting as a 'school bully,'" the official Xinhua news agency said. "As the world's only superpower, it needs to shoulder its due responsibility, and join other countries in making this world a better and more prosperous place. Only then can America become great again."

Tariffs could not impede China's development, said the official People's Daily of the ruling Communist Party.
