

2016 ANNUAL REPORT

NATIONAL BREAST
CANCER
FOUNDATION, INC.®

The Red Leaf

At the age of 34, Janelle Hail, married with three sons, was diagnosed with breast cancer. While recovering from a mastectomy, even simple everyday tasks served as a welcome distraction from fear and hopelessness. One evening as she was in her kitchen washing dishes after dinner, she gazed out the window at a small tree and noticed one last red leaf clinging to it as the fall winds blew. She was mesmerized with its beauty and radiance as the red leaf seemed to dance in the breeze. She thought, I want to be like that leaf, brilliant and full of life with every remaining day of my life.

Over the next 11 years, Janelle and her husband, Neal, founded National Breast Cancer Foundation so that women could have options while making life-changing decisions about their health. The red leaf became the inspiration behind the NBCF logo, depicting life, growth and hope for a future.

As NBCF celebrates its 25th year, the inspiration of NBCF continues to shine brightly in the lives of women and families who face breast cancer.

WE DO NOT REST IN PAST ACCOMPLISHMENTS, FOR THEY ARE MERELY A STRONG FOUNDATION FROM WHICH WE CAN SPRING FORTH INTO A VAST WORLD OF NEED.

NBCF CELEBRATES 25 YEARS

It is not always easy to trace a dream back to its origin. How can a child even imagine the impact of a dream implanted deep within her heart?

As a child, among my weekly favorite TV shows, this eager nine-year-old watched The Millionaire. It fascinated me as the series continued for years, telling story after story of individuals who were given one million dollars from a benefactor named John Beresford Tipton, Jr. His executive secretary was Michael Anthony, whose assignment was to deliver the check to a surprised recipient. The story unfolded each week as I watched people's reactions and saw how their lives changed.

I grew up rather poor, so the idea of Michael Anthony knocking on my door was far-fetched. Somehow, the dream broke through my childish fantasy and stuck inside my head. I was sure the doorbell would ring any moment with my prized gift. It never happened the way I imagined it, but there was no way I could dislodge the dream from my heart. I grew up believing it would come true.

HOPE GAVE BIRTH TO A DREAM

When my husband, Neal, and I founded NBCF, we dreamed women would have access to educational resources and treatment so they could make informed decisions about their healthcare and not have to neglect their health because of lack of money. NBCF became a lighthouse of safety and surety to carry them through the darkness of their lives as they faced breast cancer so they could renew and reinvent their lives.

THE VISION WAS CAST

One day the knock on the door came at NBCF, and a million dollars came through our doorway. Over the years of facing breast cancer myself, my own heart was tenderized with compassion for those in need of our services. My great joy was for NBCF to be the recipient of not only a million dollars, but many more to come so that we could in turn reach hurting people.

Dreams come true in many ways. What started as a childish dream translated into something far greater than a million dollars. During the 25 years of NBCF, we have now provided over one million services for women.

BE A DREAM MAKER

You will read throughout our Annual Report how lives have been changed because of the work that NBCF has done not only for this year, but the 25 years of service. Our staff, hospital partners, sponsors, and loyal friends have given faithfully and compassionately to help us achieve our mission. Today over 2.8 million breast cancer survivors are alive in the United States.

We have broken through the darkness of fear and crumbled the walls of hopelessness in many women's lives by educating them and providing services that were not available to them.

We do not rest in past accomplishments, for they are merely a strong foundation from which we can spring forth into a vast world of need. The lives saved are the hope for our future. Thank you for helping us!

PROGRAMS

Beyond The Shock®

Beyond The Shock is a free, comprehensive online guide to understanding breast cancer. The educational resources in Beyond The Shock help those diagnosed with breast cancer, and their loved ones, to better understand the disease. Through the online community, patients ask questions about breast cancer and its related treatments and get the answers they need to help move from a state of shock to hope and healing. By sharing their experiences, insights, and hopes, patients create a supportive environment wherein no one faces breast cancer alone. This year over 2,000 new users joined the Beyond The Shock community.

I was recently diagnosed with breast cancer. Now I've learned I tested positive for the BRCA 1 gene mutation. I've decided to have a double-mastectomy with reconstruction. I'm going for a sentinel node biopsy in a week, I'm getting scared.

stage_1 Patient

Going through treatment, I actually tried to find the good in all of it. You have got several GOOD things in your diagnosis. This is a Stage 1 (found early). You had genetic testing and found you have the BRCA 1 gene mutation. Now, that isn't good news but you have discovered a defect in your body that could cause some future problems. You NOW have the ability to get out ahead of these problems... like your decision to have a double mastectomy. YOU will have a future because of all of this happening right now. Hang in there.

EST. 1991

Over 280,000 screening and diagnostic services provided to date.

NBCF partners with medical facilities to provide screening and diagnostic services to women across the country. NBCF also provides funding for biopsies in select locations. All our partner medical facilities are committed to providing patients with the care they need from their diagnosis through survivorship. These services provide early detection and peace of mind to women in need who could not otherwise afford them. In 2016, we delivered 1,500 more early detection services to women than in the previous year.

Patient Navigation

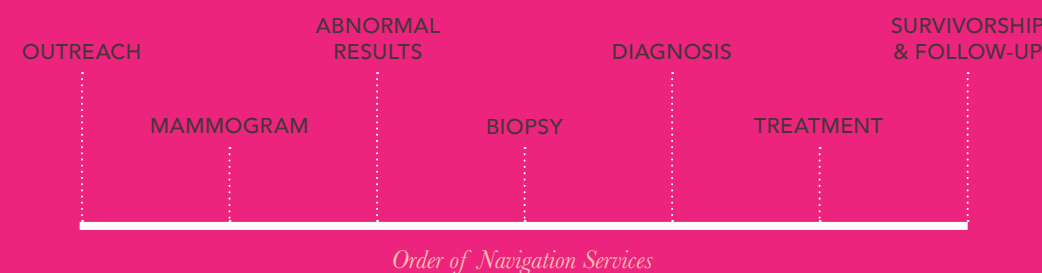

PATIENT NAVIGATION
EST. 2010
912,000 patient services delivered to date.

NBCF partners with medical facilities across the country to fund patient navigation programs and staff. Patient navigators guide patients through and around the barriers of cost, fear, and misinformation in the complex cancer care system, delivering timely diagnosis, treatment, and support. These efforts are critical to survival and early detection, but also to ensuring that no one faces breast cancer alone. This year we were able to provide two more communities with the help and guidance of patient navigators.

WHAT NAVIGATORS DO

- Educate those in need about the importance of screenings
- Eliminate barriers of financing, transportation, childcare, & language to women receiving screenings
- Answer questions about a breast cancer diagnosis
- Ensure the patient keeps treatment appointments
- Follow-up with survivors

40,415 women served to date

NBCF partners with Convoy of Hope® to provide vital breast health education to communities in need. At each Convoy of Hope event, guests receive groceries, shoes, haircuts, and when they come through NBCF's Pink Tent, they leave empowered to be more proactive about their breast health. Trained volunteers review these educational resources with each guest, emphasizing their importance, and connecting them with local resources if they need access to screenings. These outreaches represent one very vital part of NBCF's larger commitment to advancing breast health education across the country. In 2016, we added 11 more outreach events across the US, serving more than three times as many women as in 2015.

NBCF is helping women in places as far as the sub-Saharan African country of Zambia. Thanks to our partner, Pink Ribbon Red Ribbon, an initiative of the George W. Bush Institute, we are able to deliver breast health education as an extension of their cervical cancer prevention programs.

We share the life-saving message of early detection through health promotion managers who—much like patient navigators here in the U.S.—work to eliminate barriers and open doors for those in need. These health promotion managers collaborate with tribal leaders and advisors to deliver life-saving breast health education, to increase understanding among both women and men about early detection, and to provide free screenings to thousands of eligible women. We are grateful to Pink Ribbon Red Ribbon for extending the mission of Helping Women Now® beyond our borders.

MD Anderson Cancer Center

BREAST CANCER RESEARCH
EST. 2003

NBCF has helped MD Anderson reach closer toward the goal of developing targeted therapies for breast cancer.

NBCF is investing in a highly targeted breast cancer research effort through MD Anderson's Moon Shots program. The team, led by Dr. Mien-Chie Hung, is focused on identifying personalized treatment options for patients with triple-negative breast cancer (TNBC), a less common, but more aggressive form of the disease. Unlike other forms of breast cancer, TNBC is not accelerated by estrogen, progesterone, and HER2, making this type of breast cancer more difficult to treat through known precision medicine techniques. This has led to lower survival rates for women with TNBC. However, the Moon Shots research team has already made strides by identifying the remarkable molecular similarities between TNBC and another rare, aggressive type of cancer: high-grade serious ovarian cancer. This discovery allows researchers for each of these cancers to integrate their efforts and share breakthroughs in new drug trials.

Metastatic Breast Cancer Retreats

YOU TAKE HOPE FOR GRANTED UNTIL YOU LOSE IT.

MAGGIE
Retreat Participant

Metastatic, or Stage 4, breast cancer (MBC), means the cancer that began in your breast has moved to other parts of your body essential for life—your lungs, brain, liver or bones—perhaps before you even knew you had breast cancer. Such a diagnosis means cancer will be a part of your life...for the rest of your life.

Those living with MBC often feel misunderstood, ignored, and even isolated from other breast cancer survivors. Because patients with metastatic breast cancer face a unique set of emotions and challenges, NBCF hosted a weekend retreat in April 2016 for a small group of these patients and their caregivers, with the help of our partner hospital Johns Hopkins. Patients left the retreat with renewed hope, increased knowledge, and the reminder that they are not alone.

These retreats are a powerful way to show our support for women with all stages of breast cancer—not just those with early stage breast cancer.

FUNDRAISING

Our Catalysts for Hope

Each year, thousands of people across the country host NBCF fundraisers and give their time, energy, and resources to help women now. These passionate individuals, groups, and organizations are NBCF's Catalysts for Hope. Together, we were able to raise over 1 million dollars. The amount raised by our fundraisers could potentially provide a mammogram to a woman in need for every hour in a year.

Elaina Diamond: Birthday Walk

Elaina, age 13, has been donating her birthday (in lieu of receiving presents) for seven years. Her birthday fundraising walk also honors Elaina's family friend, aunt and great-grandmother who have all been affected by breast cancer. Elaina and her supporters have cumulatively raised $1,500!

No More Bad Days: An Evening with This Wild Life to Battle Breast Cancer

This Wild Life hosted a benefit concert featuring their song, "No More Bad Days," inspired by Kevin's mother who suffered from breast cancer. The event raised $11,000 for NBCF.

Skanska Koch: Color the Bridges Pink

Construction workers from the Bayonne Bridge, Brooklyn Bridge, and Cateret Bridge competed against one another to raise money from the sale of pink hard hats they could wear on the job. The company also conducted a health seminar where employees learned more about early detection and how to be proactive with their health. In total, all three teams raised over $29,000.

FedEx Pilots: Pink Ties

FedEx Pilots were invited to purchase pink ties for $20 each to wear in flight throughout the month of October to show their support for our cause. They raised over $20,000!

Helping Women Now®

Our mission is to provide help and inspire hope to those affected by breast cancer through early detection, education, and support services.

The vision of NBCF is to be a God-honoring charity serving those who may be affected by breast cancer. We strive to help the helpless and give hope to those without hope.

Our core values are compassion, integrity, and wisdom. Compassion for those with whom we interact. Integrity in what we say and how we fulfill our commitments. Wisdom, knowledge, and understanding in our approach to addressing challenges and opportunities.
