NewsGuard Report for Governments and the WHO

April 8, 2021

The first part of this report will examine how the COVID-19 and vaccine-related search results featured in our January 11, 2021 WHO Report have changed. In all cases except one, the searches performed on April 5 returned no Red-rated websites.

The second part of this report features new search terms to examine whether Bing surfaces Red-rated websites on COVID-19 and vaccine-related topics. These searches reflect new trending COVID-19 vaccine myths debunked by NewsGuard staff in the past three months.

Key Findings: Bing search results that yielded Red-rated websites in January no longer do so, with one exception. Bing search results for more recent myths direct users to unreliable sources in some instances—though this appears to occur less frequently than it did in previous reports.

This report was produced using two proprietary datasets from NewsGuard.

The Misinformation Fingerprints dataset, a catalogue of data about top misinformation narratives, contains related keywords and search terms for all of the top misinformation and disinformation narratives spreading online--produced using human intelligence but designed for use with AI/ML/NLP tools to identify content matching specific false claims. NewsGuard analysts used the Misinformation Fingerprints dataset to identify relevant searches related to misinformation narratives about COVID-19 and other topics.

The second dataset used was the News Website Reliability Ratings, which consists of credibility ratings for over 6,000 news and information website that account for 95% of online engagement with news in the U.S., U.K., France, Germany and Italy. Each site's rating is based on nine basic, apolitical journalistic criteria. Based on the criteria, each site receives an overall designation of green (generally trustworthy) or red (generally not trustworthy) and a trust score of 0-100. NewsGuard's analyst used the News Website Reliability Ratings dataset to identify misinformation sources that appeared in the results for searches conducted as part of the analysis.

For the purposes of this analysis, we focused on searches for which the searcher's intent could reasonably have been to search for accurate information about a topic. The analysis used the same searches across all search engines analysed to ensure parity. Searches were conducted from fresh browser instances with no previous browser history or cookies, and the test users were located in the United States and United Kingdom. Examples selected for the report represent an illustrative, but by no means exhaustive, list of search results that contain misinformation sources. Both the Misinformation Fingerprints and the News Website Reliability Index are available to be licensed for research and other purposes.

Part I: Comparing COVID-19 and vaccine-related search terms from January and April 2021

Masks are proven ineffective against coronavirus and potentially harmful to healthy people and those with pre-existing conditions. My wife and I dined out last night in a very empty restaurant and the young waitress was required to wear a cloth mask. I asked her how she was doing with the mask and if there were any side effects.

MYTH: COVID-19 vaccines are not halal or kosher because they contain pork products.

THE FACTS:

Halal food refers to food that adheres to Islamic law on how food is raised, slaughtered, and prepared. Similarly, kosher food refers to foods that meet Jewish dietary standards. Both religions consider pork products to be forbidden.

Pork gelatin is contained in some vaccines licensed in the U.S., including the measles, mumps, and rubella vaccines. Gelatin is used to "protect vaccine viruses from adverse conditions such as freeze-drying or heat, particularly during transport and delivery," according to the Children's Hospital of Philadelphia.

However, the four COVID-19 vaccines that have been authorized for widespread emergency use in the U.S. and Europe — those produced by Pfizer, Moderna, AstraZeneca, and Johnson & Johnson — do not contain pork products, according to a February 2021 article in the Brussels Times. In fact, Islamic and Jewish authorities, including the British Islamic Medical Association, Assembly of Muslim Jurists of America, the Rabbinical Council of America, and the Board of Deputies of British Jews, have encouraged their communities to get COVID-19 vaccines.

MYTH: Scientists at Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center have discovered that mRNA inactivates tumor-suppressing proteins, meaning that mRNA vaccines used to protect against COVID-19 can cause cancer.

THE FACTS:

This false claim was first promoted by NaturalNews.com, a network of health misinformation sites that NewsGuard has found to have repeatedly published false content. The March 2021 NaturalNews.com article was based on a Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center (MSKCC) study published in August 2018 in the journal Nature. Although that study did find that changes in mRNA can inactivate tumor-suppressing proteins, the research was not connected to mRNA vaccines like those used against COVID-19.

“This article circulating is categorically false, misrepresents the findings of our study and draws incorrect conclusions about vaccine risks,” Jeanne D’Agostino, spokesperson for Memorial Sloan Kettering, told Agence France-Presse in March 2021.

In fact, months before the NaturalNews.com story was published, the cancer center had updated its August 2018 press release about the study, to make it clear that the research did not involve mRNA vaccines. The updated text stated, “It’s important to note that mRNAs are a normal component of all cells and the specific ones discussed here are not involved in mRNA-based vaccines, like the one developed against SARS-CoV-2,” the virus that causes COVID-19.

According to a March 2021 article on Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center’s website, “It’s important to know that none of the COVID-19 vaccines interact with or alter your DNA in any way. They cannot cause cancer.”

MYTH: COVID-19 vaccines have been proven to increase the risk of having a miscarriage.

THE FACTS:

A spokesperson for the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention told Agence France-Presse in February 2021, “To date, no evidence has indicated an increase in miscarriages after Covid-19 vaccines, and no concerning patterns of reporting have been observed.” A February 2021 document from the British Fertility Society and the U.K. Association of Reproductive and Clinical Scientists stated that COVID-19 vaccines “will not affect your risk of having a miscarriage.”

Sources claiming that a link exists between miscarriages and COVID-19 vaccines have frequently cited data from CDC’s Vaccine Adverse Event Reporting System (VAERS) and U.K. Medicines & Healthcare Products Regulatory Agency’s (MHRA) Yellow Card program. Both of these systems collect unverified reports of possible vaccine side effects that can be submitted by anyone, and do not prove that the vaccine caused the reported reaction.

A MHRA spokesperson told Reuters in March 2021, “There is no pattern to suggest an elevated risk of miscarriage related to exposure to the COVID-19 vaccines in pregnancy... Sadly, miscarriage is estimated to occur in about 1 in 4 pregnancies (equal to 25 in 100) in the UK (outside of the pandemic) and most occur in the first 12 weeks (first trimester) of pregnancy, so some miscarriages would be expected to occur following vaccination purely by chance.”
