Content with integrity

Optician boasts a powerful stable of knowledgeable and skilled optical journalists reporting and analysing the eye care profession for over 125 years.

Optician's greatest strength is its independence which allows it to report on contentious issues without fear or favour. The inclusive nature of Optician's coverage allows it to take a neutral standpoint of issues affecting the whole profession.

Optician provides all of the CPD credits optometrists DOs, IP and other specialists are required to earn under General Optical Council rules including distance earned CPD points and peer discussion credits.

Optician is now delivering content in print, digitally and at face to face professional meetings. With a loyal and dedicated audience of eye care professionals, Optician is ideally placed to partner with suppliers to the optical sector and support your business objectives.

Optician medical education services

Optician has a dedicated medical education team with over 30 years' experience in providing sophisticated robust educational content to opticians on behalf of industry.

Their experience is varied and progressive, harnessing all forms of media communication from online webinars to the traditional printed supplements.

Some of our most popular forms of medical education have been abbreviated here to give you an idea of the platforms created:

Product focus:

A product focus is a clinical article written by an Optician about the use and application of a particular product. The article is researched, referenced and outlines the clinical benefits of using the product, as well as an in depth literature review of the therapy area in which the product is used. It will include 4-6 case studies

Guides:

These handy resource guides describe key clinical information and best practice relevant to your products/equipment

Case series supplements:

These provide generic clinical education, supplemented by technical information on and in-depth case studies about your products/equipment

Evidence reviews:

These constitute a comprehensive and accessible description of all the evidence on one or more of your products/equipment

Non-randomised control studies

We can conduct and publish evaluations on the efficacy and cost-effectiveness of your products/equipment

Live broadcast events:

Presented by a KOL, these provide an opportunity to present evidence or user information on your products and equipment, followed by a live Q&A

Webinars:

Filmed in advance, these are presented by a KOL and provide evidence on your product/equipment, along with a demonstration on how to use it

Round tables:

A panel of KOLs, ophthalmologists and/or dispensing opticians will meet to develop a consensus on the best practice relating to your product/equipment, with a view to publication

Focus groups:

These can be used to generate intelligence, customer feedback on marketing initiatives or insights into new markets

Blinded market analysis

This is detailed market research about your product/equipment with consenting ophthalmologists and/or dispensing opticians whose identities will not be disclosed to you

Targeted KOL development:

We can help you nurture new relationships with KOLs, with a view to them becoming champions for your brands

Evidence base gap analysis:

We can systematically identify areas in the evidence base where data or research evidence is missing on your brands

Data collection and analysis:

We can develop a protocol for systematic data collection and analysis on any requested area, to be presented in an accessible report

Above are just a few examples, the key to the success of the medical education team is an in-depth knowledge of the whole optical industry, including business practices, clinical conditions and policy implications.
