Project Programming Services Overview

“We guide you through your time risks.”

The programming services outlined below provide an integrated time control system to minimise delays and enable optimum project time performance. These services are customised to suit your unique project requirements.

FOR OWNERS/ DEVELOPERS

Development Programme

The development programme is often the first programme that is prepared and it is the primary time control tool used during the pre-construction phase to analyse all requirements of a project. It allows alternative procurement methodologies to be compared and their impact on the overall completion date to be assessed. The development programme identifies when key decisions need to be made in order to meet the project timeline and it identifies the critical programme activities, allowing the project team to direct their attention where it is needed.

Pre-tender Construction Programme

Once sufficient design documentation is available, typically once schematic design is completed, RCP will prepare a construction programme to confirm the timings included in the development programme. This programme allows us to provide accurate timing advice essential for:

- confirmation of the overall timeframe
- comparison and assessment of the tenderers programmes
- early scheduling of documentation for trade packages
- other special purpose studies, such as early occupancy analysis, craneage and materials handling analysis, buildability analysis and value management studies

This programming service provides project team members with vital early construction information.

Review of Contractor's Construction Programme

One of the most important services we undertake is the detailed assessment of the proposed construction programme to determine suitability for use in terms of contract administration as well as forecasting and sequencing. This service is vital, as the subsequent agreed programme will form the basis of all future progress reports and extension of time assessments. We provide a written report describing our findings and negotiate amendments with the contractor until approval is granted. A review is also carried out subsequent to each major programme update.

Construction Phase Monitoring & Reporting

RCP undertakes regular site monitoring against the programme and prepares written reports for clients detailing the progress of the project. These are usually prepared on a fortnightly or monthly basis. In addition, we provide advice regarding upcoming programme risks as well as opportunities for improvement.

RCP's reports provide the overview necessary for you to quickly grasp the relevant issues relating to the time performance of your project.

Claims Evaluation & Negotiation

RCP has extensive experience in delay impact analysis and assessment of extension of time claims. Such analysis is usually undertaken using the construction programme and updates prepared by the contractor along with the historical 'as-built' records compiled throughout the course of the project. RCP provides a detailed written assessment of such claims and a recommendation as to any extension warranted. We undertake negotiations with the contractor as necessary and prepare graphical 'as-planned versus as-built' analysis to help all parties understand the impact of the delays and the responsibility for the delays incurred.

Risk Management

We analyse and assess time risks inherent in your project schedule in order to limit delays. By focusing the team on the key risk areas in the programme, the overall spend can be reduced.

FOR CONTRACTORS

Tender Programmes

We will provide you with a detailed construction programme to support your tender proposals. This can be provided in the software of your choice. Additionally, we can provide a construction methodology to identify staging and sequencing, and highlight key interface issues.

Construction Programmes

In order to assist you to achieve optimum project time performance, RCP will provide you with a detailed construction programme should you be successful with your tender submission. This can be provided in the software of your choice.

Progress Reporting

RCP provides site monitoring against the programme and will prepare a written report detailing the progress of the project. In addition, we will provide advice regarding upcoming programme risks as well as opportunities for improvement.

Extension of Time Claim Assistance

We support you in developing your extension of time claims by producing a time impact analysis or an as-built programme as well as developing a written claim in accordance with the contract requirements.
