

About Second Front Systems

Second Front Systems is a public benefit, venture-backed software company founded by former U.S. Marines. While serving in the U.S. Marine Corps, our co-founders Peter Dixon, Mark Butler, and Nate Hughes saw firsthand the damages done by an outdated acquisition system to those on the frontlines defending our country. That's why we are committed to accelerating the delivery of innovative solutions to U.S. and allied warfighters, creating a strategic advantage through agile acquisition processes.

Why We Support the Three Rangers Foundation

Second Front Systems recognizes the unique challenges faced by transitioning veterans. Our founders, having served on the frontlines, understand the difficulties of transitioning into the private sector. Supporting the Three Rangers Foundation aligns with our belief that those who have served our nation deserve private sector opportunities that match the exceptional skills and knowledge they've gained throughout their service.
